France to Ask U. S. Support In Neutrality Toward Spain

Britain and Germany Also Are Said to Favor Plea to America.

Reich Dispatches 2 More Vessels

Italy Seeks Indemnities of Madrid for Deaths of Its Nationals.

The Spanish Revolt.

France, on Germany's suggestion, France, on Germanys suggestion, States to participate in a general international pact pledging nonintervention in Spain.

A blockade of Spain by neutral powers was reported imminent.

Great Britain sharply protested to insurgents over the death of Capt. Saville, yachtsman, and injuries to his wife when a rebel warship shelled Gijon.

The Vatican protested to the Madrid government over the slaying of priests and the burning of churches.

Spanish loyalists seized a German Lufthansa plane, complicating difficulties with Germany, which already had protested the killing of seven Germans. Two additional German torpedo boats were ordered to Spanish waters.

Italy, also protesting to Spain against the killing of three Italian subjects, delayed her reply to the neutrality proposal.

France to Bid U. S.

Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.

London, Aug. 10.—Acting on German suggestions, France will invite the United States to join in the projected international pact proclaiming nonintervention in the Spanish civil war, it was learned today.

France will approach the United States because the neutrality pact, already accepted "in principle" by such nations as Great Britain, Germany, Portugal and others, originated in Paris.

Germany proposed American adherence to the pact when Baron Konstantin von Neurath, foreign minister, received French Ambassador Francois Poncet and British Ambassador Sir Eric Phipps in Berlin last week.

Regarded as Necessity.

While conveying Germany's agreement "in principle" to the pact, Neurath asserted the participation of the United States could be regarded as a necessity.

Warsaw dispatches reported that France has communicated with Poland regarding Polish participation in the nonintervention agreement.

An official statement issued from the Polish foreign office stated merely that the government was examining the French proposal. The official attitude was not indicated, but it was learned that Poland is ready to adhere unconditionally—provided all other powers do likewise.

Nine powers now have decided officially to adhere directly to the non-intervention pact or support such a pact by unilateral action.

With Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy back in Rome it was hoped Italy would became the tenth power to support the pact.

France, Britain and Germany all were represented as anxious that the United States agree to withhold military supplies from both warring Spanish factions.

Portugal's adherence to the pact will be based on assurance that France and Britain will guarantee Portugal's territorial integrity in case she should be invaded by

Forest Flames Rage Unabated In Seven States

Army of Volunteers Fails to Halt Fires; Boat Is Feared Lost.

By the Associated Press.

Devastating forest fires crackled through timberlands of seven States and parts of Canada last night, defying efforts of thousands of trained and volunteer fire fighters in many sections to bring them under control.

A heavy fog checked a serious grass and brush fire near San Jose, Calif., and in Wyoming 2,000 weary foresters reported they had halted the advance of a fire that raced across 5,000 acres of jack pine forest to menace the town of Moskee.

But in northern Minnesota, where the flames wrought the greatest damage in 25 years, residents of two small communities were warned to be ready to flee their homes as the flames advanced steadily against the efforts of 1,500 men.

Cool Weather Brings Hope.

Prospects of cool weather brought some hope to weary foresters, but 3,500 CCC and WPA workers were mobilized, ready to join the flame fight on a moment's notice. Red Cross aid was rushed to stricken residents of the harassed region.

Six hundred men battled a flame which spread from a peat bog to engulf 1,500 acres of second grade timber along the Canadian boundary of Idaho.

Wisconsin officials estimated 150 separate fires were burning in that State. Fear was expressed for the safety of 20 passengers aboard the motorboat Faith, which left Portage, Mich., Saturday night. Coast Guardsmen, plying relief boats from the fire—menaced Michigan mainland, said they had not seen the boat.

In Canada, southwestern Alberta was the scene of scores of timber and range land fires, at least six of them whipped to major proportions by strong winds. Foresters reported the E. P. Ranch, owned by King Edward VII, was not in immediate danger, despite earlier advices flames were threatening the vast ranch.

Latest reports said the nearest flames were 15 miles distant from the royal property.

Sultry fires burned in Washington State, but apparently the fire fighters had checked the serious advance of the flames there.

11 Hurt in Smoke Pall.

Superior, Wis., Aug 10 (AP).—Eleven persons were injured, five of them possibly critically, when two automobiles collided head-on late today in a smoke pall shrouding the Bennett, Wis., forest fire area 25 mies south of Superior.

Capt. Reuben le Claire, commander of the United States Coast Guard Station at Duluth, was taken to St. Francis Hospital. A driver's license in the second automobile bore the name of Chester Koback, of Stevens Point, Wis.

Part of Alberta Aflame.

Calgary, Alberta, Aug. 10 (AP).—The "E. P." ranch of King Edward VIII was in the path of a vast forest fire which set virtually all of southwestern Alberta aflame today.

The royal holdings, however, were not in immediate danger.

Ax Over Washington

Task of Pruning 40 Emergency Agencies Would Require Great Political Courage.

By Robert C. Albright.

The mushroom growth of two-score emergency agencies that now lean like Pisa's Tower over Washington's poorly co-ordinated old-line bureaus presents a challenge to efficiency and economy that neither the President nor his leaders in Congress have questioned.

If the three-way reorganization studies now getting under way have any chance of success—and nothing has ever come of any previous similar attempt—they must entail mighty wieldings of the ax as well as the scalpel, guided by courage that few men in politics have displayed to this day.

The task involves sharp amputations of unnecessary functions, preservation of useful units, correlation, integration and merging of the parts making up the whole. Interests will be arrayed in battle formation against every change, as they have in the past. It is axiomatic that every official thinks his bureau fulfills a crying need—that he is backed up in this view by friends in Congress, and sometimes by powerful lobbies.

Also, there is the interest of the Administration in its own agencies to be considered, and last, but certainly not least, there are jobs, many of them badly needed by those holding them, and many of them cherished for political reasons by members of Congress, who will hesitate to curb their own patronage.

The 824,259 employes the Civil Service Commission says held civil jobs at the start of the present fiscal year, July 1, did not include employes of the legislative, judicial or military branches of the Federal Government, District employes nor the multitude receiving relief benefits.

A significant fact, of which reorganization experts may take note, is that while the total number of Federal employes went racing upward during the nearly four years of this Administration, the number of workers under classified Civil Service, awarded their jobs after competitive examination, actually was reduced.

Although the breakdown for the current year has not been released at his writing, June 30 figures for the last four years, covering the last eight months of the Hoover admin-

Roosevelt Plans To Give Speech At Chautauqua

Foreign Affairs to Be Topic; Flood Area Inspection Tour Expanded.

Unexpectedly expanding plans for an inspection tour of the Northeastern flood area late this week, President Rosevelt yesterday completed arrangements for a visit to the Great Lakes exposition at Cleveland on Friday, to be followed immediately by a trip to Chautauqua, N. Y., where he will deliver an address on foreign affairs.

Announcement of his itinerary late in the day followed conferences at the White House at which flood control experts went over with the executive proposals for beginning projects under the $320,000,000 flood control appropriation. Prior to announcement of the itinerary there had been no inkling that the Cleveland and Chautauqua visits were in contemplation.

To Visit Johnstown.

Immediate political speculation followed announcement of the Chautauqua address. The President's visit there will mark the first crossing of the paths of the Democratic and Republican Presidential nominees, since Gov. Alf M. Landon, the G. O. P. ticket head, is to speak there on August 24. The subject of the Landon address has not been announced.

The President and his party of officials will arrive at Johnstown, Pa., Thursday afternoon for an inspection of the area there repeatedly flooded.

Leaving Johnstown about midnight, the President will reach

Landon Ready To Quit Topeka For His Ranch

By the Associated Press.

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 10.—Gov. Alf M. Landon spent his third successive day in the Kansas executive mansion today, working on campaign speeches and business routine preparatory to leaving tomorrow for his Estes Park, Colo., summer ranch.

Aids went back and forth between the Governor's home and office. Research advisers were on call as the Presidential nominee studied drafts of speeches he will deliver late this month in West Middlesex, Pa., and Chautauqua and Buffalo, N. Y.

Roberts Backs Landon.

Munro Roberts, of St. Louis, vice president of the International Typographical Union, was a visitor. He told reporters "Gov. Landon's labor record is satisfactory and when it becomes more generally known, it will win him votes in labor circles."

The Republican candidate fixed 7:58 p. m. (8:58 p. m. Eastern standard time) for his departure tomorrow for Colorado. Traveling on the regular Union Pacific train, he will arrive in Denver at 7:30 a. m. (9:30 a. m. Eastern standard time) and motor 75 miles to the ranch he has leased for the summer. Awaiting him are Mrs. Landon, his children, Peggy Anne Landon, 19, Nancy Jo, 4, and Jack, 2, and John Landon, the Governor's 79-year-old father.

For a week Landon will combine recreation with more work on speeches. Thursday morning, August 20, he will leave to open his Eastern campaign. Aids said Mrs. Landon will not accompany her husband.

Landon Sends Telegram.

In a telegram dispatched today to the Council Bluffs, Iowa, centennial celebration of the arrival of the first white settlers there, Landon said "if America could tame the wilderness shall we cry quits because in these modern days there are problems to face?"

The full telegram to Council Bluffs follows:

"My greetings to historic Council Bluffs. They were splendid and indomitable men who first stood on your hills and looked out across the muddy waters of the great Missouri River. In their vision they saw America in the making. In their hearts and their courage was the spirit that peopled the prairies, subdued the land to the plow and

German Consulate Is Attacked In Peru After Olympic Ruling

By the United Press.

Lima, Peru, Aug. 10.—Windows in the German consulate were smashed today as angry mobs, indignant over treatment of the Peruvian Olympic soccer team by the International Football Association, staged hostile demonstrations against Germany and Austria.

Crowds milled about downtown streets, shouting angrily and venting their displeasure against Germans in particular. The Olympic flag was torn down from its mast atop the O. E. Stern Co., a German concern, whose proprietor represents the German Olympic committee.

Olympic officials had ordered Peru to replay Ausiria because the latter nation protested that spectators entered the field during play on Saturday and hindered the Austrians to a point where they were defeated, 4-2.

The German minister to Peru wired his foreign office in Berlin requesting official intervention looking to a satisfactory solution of the incident. The minister added the Peruvian crowds were demonstrating in the streets against Austrians and Germans, causing official concern.

Liberal Party In '40 Is Aim Of Labor Unit

Nonpartisan Convention Hears Message Sent by Roosevelt.

Lewis Attacks Landon; Calls Him 'Puppet' of Oil Company.

Organized for the primary purpose of supporting the candidacy of President Roosevelt, several workers' groups comprising labor's Non-Partisan League announced plans here last night for a "permanent" organization to "participate in the feast that has to do with he permanent establishment of a liberal party, if necessary, in the United States in 1940."

A message from President Roosevelt was read to the league's first convention here yesterday, thanking the groups for their support.

"I greet you in the faith that the future history will show, as past history has so repeatedly and so effectively shown, that a return to reactionary practices is ever short lived," the President said in his letter.

"Common Heritage."

"What is of vast importance at this critical time is the fact that we have a common heritage of principle and that we are bound, with millions of our fellow Americans, in a common determination to preserve human freedom and enlarge its sphere and to prevent forever a return to that despotism which comes from unlicensed power to control and manipulate the resources of our Nation, and the destiny of human lives."

Figures prominent in labor's recent rift over industrial organization, including President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, and President Sydney Hillman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, both leaders in the insurgent Committee for Industrial Organization, lashed at Gov. Alf M. Landon's labor record from the convention stage in the Willard Hotel, and called for re-election of Roosevelt.

Organizer of the movement, Maj. George L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union and the President's industrial co-ordinator, sounded the keynote of the convention and predicted "there will be a new political realignment before 1940."

"Our critics and opponents have been unable to misinterpret our position and that position is and that objective is the re-election of Franklin Delano Roosevelt to the Presidency of the United States," Berry said. "The second plank has to do with a more permanent proposition but not a more certain proposition. We are proposing that labor's Non-Partisan League be made permanent or a reasonably permanent institution."

President Praised.

Political objectives of the group, espousing the re-election of Roosevelt, and untimately sharing in the formation of a liberal party, were later set forth in formal resolutions, one of which resolved:

"That we commit ourselves to the furtherance of liberalism in the United States, recommend and approve the continuance of labor's Non-Partisan League as an instrumentality for the furtherance of liberalism in our country."

Berry, Lewis and Hillman all described the present campaign as a struggle between liberal and reactionary forces, and a long line of representatives from various States followed them on the platform with plaudits for Roosevelt and denunciation of the Republican candidate.

The shaggy-maned Lewis, his arms gesticulating characteristically, called on labor to "awake, economically and politically."

"It is time for the workers of this country to organize industrially; it is time for the workers of this country to organize themselves politically," he said.

Striking ever at Landon, Lewis said:

"I doubt that the world has ever

Abduction Is Laid To Two Given Lift By Capital Autoist

Charged with robbing a motorist who gave them a "lift," and alleged to have plotted to take him for a ride" and hold him prisoner until he drew his savings from his bank account, two young men were under arrest last night.

Their arrest, a matter of chance, came about when Motorcycle Policeman William R. Greenfield saw an automobile speeding out Pennsylvania avenue southeast, gave chase and overtook it at the intersection of Seventh street.

At the wheel sat Robert Morrow, 18, of the 3500 block Center street northwest, and in the back seat, holding Edgar Hardesty, 44, of 222 Third street northwest, the owner of the automobile, prisoner, was Wilson Marshall, 18, of the 200 block K street northwest, the police said.

Hardesty told Greenfield he had picked the youths up on Alabama avenue southeast, when they asked for a ride. One of them pulled a knife on him, he said, and forced him into the back seat. They took his wallet, containing two $5 bills, and discovering he had money in the bank, said, he asserted, they would keep him overnight and make him withdraw his funds in the morning.

Morrow and Marshall were searched and a $5 bill was found on each of them. They were charged with robbery.

Warrant Out For Kaufman In Astor Suit

By the Associated Press.

Los Angeles, Aug. 10.—George S. Kaufman, playwright sought as a witness in the Mary Astor-Dr. Franklyn Thorpe custody suit, has "disappeared," A. P. M. Narlian, attorney for Dr. Thorpe, declared today. A bench warrant for Kaufman was issued earlier.

A dramatic call from John Barrymore, in which he related "his troubles," a holiday party in Havana with friends and a New York engagement with Kaufman, were described today by Miss Astor, the film beauty, under a staccato cross-examination by attorneys for her former husband.

Over and over again Kaufman's name bobbed up as attorneys for Dr. Thorpe, former husband of the actress, succeeded in getting a bench warrant for the playwright when the latter failed to appear as a witness in the marital litigation.

Cerf's Name Brought Up.

Joseph Anderson, counsel for Dr. Thorpe, pursued his questions about Kaufman's friendship with the woman he is trying to prove unfit to care for 4-year-old Marylyn Thorpe.

Miss Astor came back with "I am not sure," "That is untrue," "Now that I remember," and "I don't recall" in answer to many of the questions as to her association with Kaufman.

As the story was unfolded, the name of Bennett Cerf, New York publisher and former husband of Sylvia Sidney, and Daniel Silberberg, New York stock broker, were brought forward. In New York, Cerf said he had met Miss Astor "just casually."

Miss Astor testified that Barrymore went to her home to tell her his troubles "after that famous transcontinental trip of his."

She obviously was referring to Barrymore's flight from New York to Los Angeles with his protege, Elaine Barrie, in pursuit. The auburn-haired actress said she thought Barrymore visited her twice.

Admits Dates With Him.

The opposing attorney also drew from Miss Astor the admission that she went out several times with Cerf after meeting him in Hollywood social circles.

Questions regarding a trip Miss Astor made to Havana during the Christmas holidays of 1935 developed the name of Silberberg.

As to Barrymore's visits, Anderson asked:

"Is it not a fact that John Barrymore visited you while the baby was was present?"

Miss Astor said that was true.

Q. What was the first time?—A. I don't recall the date, but it was the day he arrived back from his famous transcontinental trip.

Q. Was it in September, 1935?—A. I don't recall.

Q. How many times did he visit you?—A. It seems as though it were twice. He was talking over his troubles.

Q. At that time did you serve him any liquor?—A. I don't recall.

Q. Could you say if he were drunk?—A. He was not drunk.

Q. Was Marylin there while he

Coast Guard Hunts Vessel Bearing 20

Greenbay, Wis., Aug. 10 (AP).—Capt. E. C. Anderson, of the Eagle Harbor (Mich.) Coast Guard Station, and three Coast Guard men today searched for a motorboat, Faith, with 20 persons aboard, reported missing on Lake Superior since Saturday night.

The 35-foot power cruiser left Portgage, Mich., Saturday, at 9:30 p. m., for Isle Royale, in Lake Superior. The run to Isle Royale normally takes about seven or eight hours. Coast Guard men said there had been no severe storms on the lake the last few days and that the lake was comparatively calm Saturday night.

Fearing for the safety of the 18 passengers and crew of 2 men, Wilbur Llereman, of Portage, Mich., the owner, requested the aid of the Coast Guard today. Capt. Anderson said he expected to follow the boat's usual course.

A plane was sent out when the boat failed to arrive at Washington Harbor on Isle Royale, but no trace of the craft was reported.

Drought Burns U. S. Food Stocks To Record Lows

Gaston B. Means, convicted of swindling Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of $104,000 in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping and sentenced to 15 years in Leavenworth Penitentiary, is seriously ill and has refused an emergency operation to save his life, it was disclosed here last night.

Mrs. Means, who has remained in virtual seclusion since her husband's conviction, last night was speeding westward by plane to her husband's bedside.

Means, 57-year-old former Department of Justice agent who has served one term in the Federal prison at Atlanta for violation of prohibition laws, was stricken with a gall bladder ailment Saturday night.

Operation Advised.

He grew steadily worse, Department of Justice officials said yesterday until an emergency operation was advised. Means refused to permit the operation.

Mrs. Means learned of her husband's illness yesterday in a telegram from Leavenworth's warden. Mrs. Means immediately called Department of Justice officials and they advised an immediate operation.

The wife of the man who approached Mrs. McLean, Capital society hostess, and told her he could recover the kidnaped Lindbergh child from New York gangsters who demanded $150,000, sobbed bitterly as she boarded the plane at 4:45 p. m. yesterday.

Keneth Romney, sergeant at arms of the House of Representatives, was on the same plane with her. He took Mrs. Means by the arm as she climbed aboard. Romney is flying to Seattle to attend the funeral of Marion A. Zioncheck.

The plane was scheduled to arrive in Kansas City at midnight.

Money Never Located.

Whereabouts of the money Means was convicted of receiving has never been determined by authorities. A Nation-wide search was instituted for the $104,000 when Means was convicted.

The author of "The Strange Death of President Harding" was committed to Leavenworth in July, 1933, after a long fight for his freedom.

Testimony in a sensational trial in the District Supreme Court revealed Means approached Mrs. McLean and told her he could recover the Lindbergh child.

He told the owner of the famous "Hope Diamond" that the gangsters demanded $150,000 for the child's release. Mrs. McLean, who years before had received kidnap threats against her own children, gave Means $104,000.

Means told of mysterious negotiations with an equally mysterious man known as "The Fox," who later was identified as Norman T. Whitaker, Washington lawyer. Whitaker was sentenced to Leavenworth.

Later, Means asked Mrs. McLean for $35,000 more, and was arrested.

Secret Box in Auto Yields Gun Believed Used in Henry Killing

Discovery of the sawed-off shotgun thought to be the one that killed Milton W. ("Milsie") Henry was announced yesterday by police, more than four years after the slaying of the Washintgon gambler in a quiet residential street in the Northwest section.

Mechanics, looking for a battery defect in the auto believed used by the murderer, found the weapon in a secret compartment built into the front seat back rest. Walter W. Nicholson, of Gaithersburg, Md., bought the car at a police auction two weeks ago.

Also in the compartment were two revolvers, one of .38 caliber and the other a .45. They were turned over to Lieut. John Fowler, police ballistics expert, for examination, although Inspector B. W. Thompson, chief of detectives, said the find will have no bearing on the Henry case.

Charles Harris, convicted as the gambler's slayer, is serving a life sentence in the Federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. He was found guilty of first-degree murder but, after several reprieves, his death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by President Roose[illegible] in May, 1935.

Nichols[illegible] the car over to mechanics to correct battery trouble. When one of them happened to lean against the back rest, in a certain way, the compartment trap was sprung.

Inspector Thompson declared the device was so cleverly fashioned it could not be revealed by scrupulous inspection.

Mercury Is Still Abnormally High

Heavy Increase Expected in Grain Importations From Abroad.

With its devastating grip still unbroken, drought has burned the Nation's food stocks to many record lows, and cut the prospective corn harvest to the smallest yield in more than 50 years, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported yesterday.

August 1 estimates by the bureau's crop reporting board supplied the first authentic picture of the drought's unprecedented sweep, and furnished the drought committee with information on which it was waiting to co-ordinate manifold Government relief activities.

As the official figures were released, the Weather Bureau reported abnormally high temperatures continued to prevail from the Mississippi Valley westward to the Rocky Mountains, with maximums ranging from 100 to 110 throughout the area, except parts of the North.

Corn Crop Put at 56 Per Cent.

The crop reporting board said the corn harvest outlook was for only 1,439,135,000 bushels, 56 per cent of the average production and 2.6 per cent under the short crop of drought-ravaged 1934. A spring wheat crop of 113,648,000 bushels was forecast, 32.8 per cent of normal.

"There will probably be light supplies of a number of important food crops and, irrespective of weather conditions during the remainder of the season, there will be a shortage of grain that will necessitate rather heavy-marketings of grain-consuming livestock and a reduction in the grain ration of the livestock wintered," the board said.

Another result of the shortage, not discussed by the board, was expected to be a heavy increase in both wheat and corn importations from abroad. Imports of wheat already have been climbing rapidly in recent weeks, and purchases from Canada are expected to far exceed last year's 35,000,000 bushel total. Argentina will be the principal supply of foreign corn.

The crop reporting board's estimate for the total domestic wheat crop was 632,745,000 bushels, showing a further drop from the 638,399,000 July 1 estimate, and a sharp slash under the average production of 863,564,000 bushels harvested between 1928 and 1932.

Estimates Are Surprise.

Whereas large surpluses have been grown in normal years for shipment abroad, and for carry-over purposes, the board reported that this year's wheat crop would be only "about equal to the usual domestic requirements." The winter wheat outlook of 519,097,000 bushels compared favorably with last year's 464,203,000-bushel output, but production of all spring wheat was seriously hit by the drought. With the exception of 1934, this year's spring wheat crop will be the smallest on record.

Due to the close relationship of corn and meat supplies, Government experts showed most concern over the imminent corn shortage. Only twice before in the present century has the corn crop fallen below 2,000,000,000 bushels. In 1901 the production was 1,715,752,000 bushels, and in 1934 it was 1,457,027,000 bushels. This year's corn crop promises to be the smallest since 1881.

Official etsimates, placing this year's corn crop at 1,439,135,000 bushels, came as a surprise even to Chicago grain traders, who usually are in a position to discount such figures through private preliminary estimates. Yesterday's Washington figure, however, was 133,000,000 bushels below the average estimates previously made through five private trade sources.

The greatest losses occurred in Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska, where a fair crop appeared in prospect in July.

"In the Western tier of the North Central group of States the corn crop is practically a failure so far as the production of grain is concerned," said the crop reporting board. "A considerable portion of the acreage in these States will be abandoned and most of the remaining acreage will be utilized for forage, grazing and silage."

In anticipation of the shortage, 410,000 bushels of Argentine corn arrived at Pacific Coast ports last

Coughlin Unit Selects Holt as Rally Keynoter

Senator, New Deal Critic, Silent on Topics; Mass Meeting Planned.

By the Associated Press.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 10.—Senator Rush D. Holt (Democrat), West Virginia, was announced today as the keynote speaker of the first national convention of the National Union for Social Justice, opening Friday, which the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin has said would make Cleveland's Republican National Convention a "sideshow" in comparison.

Reached at his West Virginia home, Holt, the 31-year-old "baby" of the Senate and outspoken critic of acts of the Roosevelt Administration, declined to say what he would discuss in his address. He said only that he would give his own "viewpoints."

Among the speakers, Davis said, will be Representative William Lemke, of North Dakota, and Thomas C. O'Brien, of Boston, the Union Party's candidates for President and Vice President.

They will appear, together with Father Coughlin, at a giant rally in Cleveland Stadium Sunday afternoon, which will close the convention. Father Coughlin will make his principal speech of the convention at the rally.

The Sunday meeting, said Sylvester V. McMahon, national secretary of the Coughlin-founded organization, will draw a crowd of 100,000 persons.

Davis reported that all available hotel rooms already were taken for the convention. Ten thousand rooms in private homes also have been reserved, Davis said.

Father Coughlin has indorsed the Lemke-O'Brien ticket, with this qualification: "We are supporting individuals. We are not supporting parties."

"The National Union for Social Justice," he said in a speech at Scranton, Pa., is not going to support the Union Party, or any party. We are going to support men who will stand shoulder to shoulder to preserve America for Americans and for God."

Girl Refuses to Kiss 'Mother' in Courtroom

Los Angeles, Aug. 10 (AP).—Thirteen-year-old Edith Fellows, film actress, refused in court today to kiss Mrs. Harriet G. Fellows, who declares she is her mother and seeks her custody.

"Won't you kiss your mother?" Mrs. Fellows pleaded.

The child shook her head and kept her eyes lowered. Edith is in the custody of her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Fellows, who testified she has cared for her since shortly after her birth in Boston.

Attorneys said they would show that the mother did not know the whereabouts of Edith for ten years.

week and shipments from Buenos Aires destined for the United States were reported at 287,000 bushels. The commercial attache at Buenos Aires reported sales of around 12,000,000 busels to United States firms during July.

Other Harvests to Be Light.

The livestock feed situation was made more serious by prospective light harvest of other feed grains—oats, barley and grain sorghum, with corn, they were estimated at 58,000,000 tons, the lowest of any recent year except 1934. Hay was estimated at 69,000,000 tons, compared with 87,000,000 last year. To offset short feed supplies, the Government already has started buying cattle for slaughter, and has purchased more than 2,000 head.

Steps have been taken to encourage production of emergency feed and forage crops in areas affected by unusual weather conditions. Farmers whose yield of soil-depleting crops has been curtailed by the drought, will not be deprived of payments if their acreage is devoted to other feed crops, it was said.

Yesterday's Agriculture Department estimates further struck at home larders by forecasting light crops of rye, buckwheat, beans, potatoes, several commercial truck crops and canning vegetables. The potato crop has been badly hurt and the forecast shows 295,000,000 bushels as the probable production, the smallest potato crop since 1916. Severe injury to home gardens was reported.

The predicted 1,107,000,000-pound tobacco crop would be the third smallest harvested in recent years.

Situation Called Disaster.

Emergency moves for relief were continued yesterday, as Morris L. Cooke, chairman of the Great Plains drought committee, announced plans to leave Washington for Amarillo, Tex., Saturday.

The Department of Agriculture drought committee added 30 counties in 7 States to the list of emergency drought areas, bringing the total to 920 counties in 22 States. Illinois was placed on the list for the first time, and every county in Oklahoma was included.

Aubrey Williams, deputy Works Progress administrator, authorized an increase in the WPA employment quota to 108,500 in 13 States. Howard O. Hunter, assistant in charge of drought operations, reported 52,000 destitute farmers were assigned to projects in the stricken areas yesterday. Red tape in the way of speedy certification and assignment was ordered removed.

"The drought in the West and Midwest is no longer just a drought—it is a disaster," said Hunter. "The WPA intends to meet the needs of impoverished farmers on a disaster basis."

built the great and prosperous empire of the Middlewest.

"Behind them, though they did not know it then, was to be built the great State of Iowa. Before them, across the river, were the raw prairies out of which a great people were to build yet another State, Nebraska.

"Tamed Wilderness."

"America and the spirit of America not only settled the wilderness, they tamed it and brought forth from the riches of the Creator a bounty and a prosperity never dreamed of. And they did this thing in only a little more than a half century.

"Thus it was possible for the great Lincoln to visit Council Bluffs only 23 years later and from your hills, where the pioneers had stood, look out over the splendid panorama of the Missouri River Valley and envision the needs that would unite forever the East and the West. And then in four years because Abraham Lincoln had stood on your hills and knew the land, Congress, on his urgings, officially named Council Bluffs as the Eastern terminus of the Union Pacific, the great railroad that was to reach out across the prairies and the mountains and tie the golden West to the Union.

"It was a splendid day in December, 1863, when the first shovel turned the dirt for that great enterprise. How splendid and fitting it is that the Council Bluffs Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution has enshrined the memory of Lincoln in the monument that stands where he stood on your hills, looking out toward the west. How fitting that there should be inscribed on that monument 'King of Men Whose Crown Was Love, Whose Throne Was Gentleness.' The great railroad and the West, forever a part of the Union, is the monument to his statesmanship. All these things you celebrate today and yet more, you celebrate the future of America as well as its past.

"If America could tame the wilderness shall we cry quits because in these modern days there are problems to face? Ours is to dedicate ourselves anew to the great future of America. The Cretator has given us unbounded resources. With a population only 6 per cent of the pouulation of the world we have created here one-third of the wealth of the world. Let the challenge go forth from your celebration: 'America here today renews its vision and from the vantage point of all that it has achieved looks forward in the courage and the spirit of the men and women who wrought this achievement to an even greater future.'"

Roosevelt Policies Lauded by Hazen

Policies and acts of the Roosevelt Administration were praised by Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen in an address before the Young Democratic Club of Arlington County last night.

It was District of Columbia night and more than 300 members gathered in Lee Tavern on Glebe road to hear prominent Washingtonians speak.

Hazen particularly lauded the social security act, which created the Social Security Board. He asked Arlington County Democrats to co-operate in getting Congress to increase the District appropriation, and recalled that, until 1842, Arlington County was a part of the District.

Rose Blair, 62, Is Dead; Daughter of Contractor

Rose Blair, 62, daughter of the late Francis P. Blair, well-known Washington contractor, died yesterday at her home, 1801 Belmont road. Surviving her are two sisters, Mrs. W. H. Bright and Mrs. E. A. Doyle, both of Washington.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Almus Speare funeral home, 3200 Rhode Island avenue, Mount Rainier, Md. The Rev. Dr. Bernard Braskamp, pastor of Gunton Temple Memorial Presbyterian Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

The Political Arena

Beckley, W. Va., Aug. 10 (AP).—An organization of West Virginia Democrats opposed to the re-election of President Roosevelt took form today under the leadership of J. Lewis Bumgardner, Beckley attorney, and C. C. Dickinson, Charleston coal operator.

Bumgardner, a Democratic Presidential elector in 1932, said a meeting will be held, possibly next week, to perfect the organization.

Atlanta, Aug. 10.—Two Georgians are running for an office that doesn't exist.

The post is that of lieutenant governor. Delacey Allen, former State American Legion commander, and State Senator J. Ellis Pope are the candidates.

Democrats will choose one of the two at the September 9 primary, but the winner will not know whether he has gained an office or an empty honor until voters in the November election act on creating the position.

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal, director of women's activities for the Republican National Committee, said today that Gov. Alf M. Landon and Col. Frank Knox this fall "will get most of the votes of the 'silent' group of women voters."

"The greatest number of women voters are in this 'silent' group—women who spend most of their time in their homes," said Mrs. Hoyal, on arriving here from Chicago for a series of speeches in New York State.

Chicago, Aug. 10 (U.P.).—Townsend Plan officials tonight struck back at the Rev. Alfred J. Wright, of Cleveland, former Ohio State manager for Old Age Revolving Pensions, who disturbed the organization's last convention with a demand for an accounting of $1,000,000 he said OARP had taken in.

National headquarters here announced an order had been secured in Cleveland for Wright to appear Wednesday before Notary Public Frank I. Hogan to answer questions about $100,000 which allegedly passed through his hands when he was Ohio State manager.

The order was obtained by Charles H. Hubbell, attorney for Capt. Raymond J. Jeffreys, of Cleveland, citizen maximus of the organization.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 10 (AP).—Replying to a wire from the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin today, Frederick L. Jenckes said that promissory notes for $25,000 for the priest's share of a bet on whether Lemke would lead Landon in Rhode Island at the November election were not good enough. Promissary notes posted for a wager, as "you well know," wired Jenckes, "would be uncollectible." He insisted that cash be posted and stated that his share of the 3-to-2 wager, $1,666,666, in cash was ready.

Bakery Peace Pact Rejected by Union

Robert C. Lester, business agent of Local No. 33, Bakery Salesmen's Union, yesterday rejected terms offered by Dutch Baker Boy, Inc., to settle a strike of drivers which began Thursday.

Submitted by William M. Edwards, president of the bakery whose products are sold from house to house, the peace pact provides for a profit-sharing plan which would make all employes partners in the business. According to Edwards, the present pay roll is about $120,000 a year and the annual net earning is "less than $25,000."

Lester pointed out that the union rejected practically the same offer in January, 1935, and was spurning it again because it makes no provision for unionization of the plant. He said union members will continue picketing, chiefly by distributing explanatory literature to families which patronize the bakery.

Two Deny Guilt In Narcotics Case

Arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage for alleged violation of the Harrison narcotic act, two men pleaded not guilty and one guilty. The latter, Curtis Carter, 34, of the Gospel Mission, was ordered held for the grand jury under $2,000 bond.

John Hend, 41, and Charles Johnson, 54, both of the 800 block Third street northwest, will receive a hearing before Commissioner Turnage on Friday. Bond was set at $3,000 each.

The men were arrested last Saturday night at Third and I streets northwest by narcotic agents accompanied by Detective Sergts. Daniel Jones and Charles Mansfield. Hend and Johnson were accused of transporting heroin here from New York and vending the drug to hangers-on in Judiciary Square.

Capital Optimists To Dedicate Clinic

Final plans for the dedication of the clinic which it has donated to the Washington Boys Club Camp at Dumfries, Va., were approved yesterday by the Washington Optimists Club, at the Hotel Mayflower.

Wally Gardella, chairman of the boys work committee, announced the dedication will begin at 2 p. m. Saturday. After the exercises, a baseball game will be staged between campers and the Optimists.

Medical and dental equipment furnished by the luncheon club has been installed in such a manner that it can be returned to Washington when the camp closes in the fall and used in the boys clubrooms here.

Primaries Today

Senate veterans figure in two State primaries today, while voters in a third State will nominate to fill a senatorial vacancy.

Democratic leader Joe T. Robinson is seeking renomination in Arkansas in a campaign in which his opponent, Cleveland Holland of Fort Smith, has been indorsed by the State Townsend plan convention.

In Idaho, Senator William E. Borah is up for another term in the Republican primary, while Gov. C. Ben Ross is after the Democratic nomination. Borah is opposed by Byron Defenbach, former State treasurer, while Ross' opponent is U. S. District Attorney John Carver.

Florida Democrats will nominate either former Gov. Doyle E. Carlton, of Tampa, or former Judge C. O. Andrews, of Orlando, to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Park Trammell.

Brother of Gen. Dawes Surrenders in Oil Case

Chicago, Aug. 10 (AP).—Henry M. Dawes, president of the Pure Oil Co. and a brother of former Vice President Charles G. Dawes, surrendered today to United States Marshal William H. McDonnell in connection with his indictment with 83 other individuals and corporations on charges of violating the Sherman antitrust law.

Dawes was released in $5,000 bond by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, pending hearing August 14 on removal proceedings to Madison, Wis., where the indictments were returned.

WE'RE PROUD

OF OUR AIR-CONDITIONING

Air-conditioning is not news to us. We have been interested in it since its inception. Today the Hamilton Hotel is completely Air-Conditioned from cellar to roof-top. It is another development in the steady progress of the Hamilton toward the attainment of better living.

It is a fact that the majority of the people have come to think of air-conditioning as a means of cooling the rooms they occupy . . . a method of relief from the intense heat of summer. But our air-conditioning is considerably more than that. It actually includes, in addition to cooling, five other important processes in the preparation of more comfortable air to live in.

These processes are circulating, washing, humidifying, dehumidifying and heating. Although cooling secures the greatest publicity for air-conditioning, it is by no means its only function.

We feel that we are abreast of the times with our fine type of air-conditioning equipment. We feel that our coffee shop . . . our dining room . . . our Rainbow Room . . . our guest rooms . . . every inch of space in our eleven floors of modern hostelry will meet with your demands for coolness and comfort.

So we say to you, Washington . . .

THE HAMILTON HOTEL

was present?—A. Marylyn was in the patio.

Q. Is this the time Mr. Barrymore fell over Marylin?—A. I don't know, because that did not happen.

Q. How long did Mr. Barrymore stay the first time?—A. Oh, about an hour.

Q. How long did he stay the second time?—A. I don't know. Not very long.

Q. Was anyone with him the first time?—A. Yes; Mr. Camomile. (Ed Camomile was Barrymore's manager.)

Denies Serving Drinks.

Q. Who was with him the second time?—A. I don't know; maybe someone out in the car.

Q. Did Mr. Barrymore come to your home alone before you went to New York?—A. Well, I said Mr. Cammomile——

Q. Were any drinks served to Mr. Barrymore in the presence of Marylyn?—A. No, there were none.

Q. Didn't you plan to leave for New York immediately on the termination of your contract? (He was referring to Miss Astor's contract with Warner Bros., which expired about October 10, 1935.)—A. Well, I think it was about that time.

Q. Did you meet Kaufman in New York?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you meet Bennett Cerf there?—A. Yes.

Her Lawyer Overruled.

At this point Roland Rich Woolley, Miss Astor's attorney, objected to the questioning, saying, "this is an attempt to scandalize innocent people." The court overruled Woolley.

Q. Did you know Cerf before?—A. Yes, I had met him out here.

Q. Did you go out with him?—A. Yes, several times.

Miss Astor's attorney again objected, declaring events in New York had nothing to do with the child-custody phase of the case, adding that "the child was here at that time, not in New York."

Miss Astor said she lived at the Gotham, the Lombardi and later the Seville Biltmore hotels in New York. At the first two hotels she registered as "Mary Astor." At the latter, as "Mary Thorpe." She also told of the Havana visit during the 1935 Christmas holidays. She said that among those who accompanied her were Carlos Paraga (Cuban planter) and his sister, and Silberberg.

"Did Danny Silberberg go to Havana with you?" Anderson asked.

A. Among others.

"Didn't Stay With Anybody."

Q. With whom did you stay in Havana?—A. I didn't stay with anybody.

Q. Well, wasn't Mr. Silberberg there at the time?—A. No.

Q. When you returned to New York, where did you stay?—A. At the Seville Biltmore.

Q. Did anybody stay with you?—A. No.

Anderson asked Miss Astor if, on her return, she told Dr. Thorpe "about your trip and your affairs in New York."

Miss Astor said, "I can answer part of that question."

Q. Well, then tell part of it.—A. I told him about the plays I had seen and the work I was doing. I told him about a story I had written and sold to the Saturday Evening Post.

Names Hurled at Her.

Q. Did you tell him anything about Bennett Cerf.—A. I don't know. The name might have come up.

Q. About Mr. Silberberg?—A. I don't remember.

Q. About George Kaufman?—A. I tell you the names may have come up, but I don't remember.

Q. Did you tell him you had an affair in New York with George Kaufman?—A. I don't recall discussing any such matters.

Q. Do you deny you had such a conversation?—A. No, I won't deny it. It might have come up.

Examination Resumed.

After a recess, cross-examination of Mary Astor was resumed this afternoon with Joseph Anderson, of the physician's counsel, hammering away at her friendships with men.

Q. Did anyone else ever visit you at the Tower road address?—A. Yes, I have a great many friends.

Q. Name some of them who visited you.

Roland Rich Woolley, attorney for Miss Astor, objected again, declaring "this is an effort to scandalize innocent parties."

The presiding judge asked Anderson if he were referring to any particular people, and if so to name them himself.

The cross-examination proceeded after Woolley's objections.

Q. Did Mr. George Oppenheimer ever visit you?—A. Yes.

Q. On how many occasions?—A. Many occasions.

Q. Were Mr. Oppenheimer and yourself served drinks in the bedroom?—A. No.

Visited Her Once Weekly.

Q. Were you and he ever in the bedroom?—A. I might have taken him through while I was showing him all the rooms in the house.

Q. How many times did he visit you?—A. About once a week.

Q. Did he ever stay all night?—A. Never.

Q. Did he ever leave the premises early in the morning?—A. Sometimes he brought me home from the theater or something.

Q. Well, did he ever stay as late as 2 o'clock?—A. I don't recall.

Q. One o'clock?—A. I don't think so.

Q. Did you ever take Mr. Oppenheimer into Marylyn's bedroom and wake her up early in the morning?—A. No.

Never Drunk, She Says.

Q. Had you ever been drinking on any occasions when you returned home?—A. What do you mean by drinking? Do you men was I drunk? I was never made drunk.

Q. Well, were you ever under the influence of liquor?—A. No.

Q.—Never at any time?—A. No.

Q.—Did John Eldredge ever visit you at the Tower road address?—A. Yes.

Q.—How many times?—A. Several times while we were making a picture together.

Q.—Did he ever accompany you to the bedroom?—A. No.

Q. Weren't you served drinks in the bedroom? A. No.

Admits Knowing Count.

Q. Did you know a Count Carpegna?—A. Alfonso Carpegna? Yes.

Q. Did he ever visit you at the Tower road address?—A. Yes.

Q. Did her ever accompany you to the bedroom? A. No.

Q. Did you ever serve him drinks in the bedroom?—A. Never in the bedroom.

Q. How close to your bedroom is Marylyn's bedroom?—A. They are separated by a bath.

Q. How many times would you say that Count Carpegna visited you at Tower road?—A. Two or three times, possibly.

Q. Did he ever bring you home late?—A. Yes.

Q. How late did he stay?—A. A few minutes.

Child Disciplined.

Anderson then turned to the question of Dr. Thorpe's visit to the home on Tower road, and asked what time of the day he usually came in. Miss Astor replied, "After office hours"—usually around 5 p. m.

Q. Did he ever discipline the child—A. Yes.

Q. How often?—A. Practically every time he came.

Q. Did you ever discipline the child? —A. Yes, but not as bad as he did.

Q. Tell us how he disciplined her the last time you remember.—A. Whenever he disciplined her it was in a fit of vile, maniacal temper. He would take hold of her and jerk her and spank her roughly. I can't fix the last time—it happened too often.

"Did you ever tell anybody about any brutal treatment of the child by Dr. Thorpe?" Anderson asked.

Says He Chastised Her.

"Yes," replied Miss Astor. "I went up to Miss Ann Harding's and told her about it. I told Marcus Goodrich about it. He was at Miss Harding's."

In answer to objections from Woolley, Anderson said he wanted to show that Miss Astor went to New York the time she said Dr. Thorpe was treating the child brutally. He said he wanted to learn if she had complained to anyone else about the treatment before she went to New York.

Concerning a stay at her Toluca Lake home with the doctor and their child, Miss Astor was asked:

Q. Did you discipline her (the child) there?—A. Yes.

Q. Twenty times?—A. I don't know. Many times.

Q. Did he (Dr. Thorpe) ever show any affection for the child?—A. No. I wouldn't call it that. He required her to show affection for him. He rehearsed her how to do it. When he came home he would tell her to put her arms around him, and would say, "Do you love daddy, and so forth." He would chastise her if she wouldn't do so.

Child Afraid, She Says.

Miss Astor said she was at her Toluca Lake home when Judge Goodwin J. Knight came there recently to see the child. Dr. Thorpe was there.

"Did the child appear to be afraid of Dr. Thorpe?" Anderson asked.

"Yes, she seemed so," replied Miss Astor. "She acted as she had been trained to act."

"Did you go to Palm Springs and find the child ill when you returned?" Anderson demanded.

"Yes," said Miss Astor.

Q. Was George Kaufman at Palm Springs at that time?—A. He was.

Q. What was the nature of the child's illness?—A. She had a cold—not serious.

Q. When did you return from Palm Springs?—A. I returned after she was over the cold.

Q. Did you see George Kaufman there?—A. Yes, I saw him. I saw several people.

Miss Astor testified she found several bruises on her daughter's body. Some of these were the marks of Dr. Thorpe's hands, she said. Asked where the bruises were, Miss Astor said, "on the back."

Remembers Portion.

Anderson asked Miss Astor if she recalled the conversation between herself, Dr. Thorpe and Ethel M. Pepin, attorney, relative to the impending divorce.

A. I remember only a portion of it. Miss Pepin said, "I don't think you are getting a very fair deal, Mary, but there's nothing you can do—you're stuck."

Q. Is it not a fact you said "I want my freedom at any price?"—A. I don't recall.

Q. Do you remember saying, "I hate this —— town"?—A. I don't recall.

Q. Didn't you say, "I hate Hollywood?"—A. No.

Q. Don't you remember saying, "I want to get away from here as far as possible. I want to try my luck in the legitimate theater in New York"?—A. Possibly. I also wanted to try that.

Q. Do you remember saying, "I have an opportunity to do some work there now"?—A. I don't think so—I don't know what work I would have been referring to.

Never Discussed.

Q. Isn't it true you were going to appear in a play written by George S. Kaufman?—A. I don't think so. I never discussed it with him.

Q. Weren't you going to appear in "Merrily We Roll Along"?—A. I said I never discussed it.

Q. Do you remember Dr. Thorpe saying: "Then the next step is London. Where would I bee with a practice in Los Angeles"—A. He may have said that, but I though he was going to give me the baby for extended periods of time anyway.

Q. Didn't you mention educating Marylyn in Switzerland —A. I don't recall.

Q. Wasn't that why Dr. Thorpe asked Ethel Pepin to come and talk to you?—A. I don't know what you mean.

Q. Didn't Dr. Thorpe say, "I want you to realize what you are doing before it is too late." And don't you remember saying, "I don't want to give up my child"?—A. I probably said that.

After two hours of further testimony, the hearing was recessed until tomorrow morning. Miss Astor said she had asserted, shortly before Dr. Thorpe divorced her in April, 1935, that she was "perfectly satisfied" with their divorce agreement. This included a property settlement in favor of Dr. Thorpe and an understanding he would have full custory of their daughter.

"Had a Highball."

Miss Astor was asked about a conversation she had with Dr. Thorpe last July 5 about their daughter.

"You said Miss Evelyn Laye was there—what had the two of you had to drink?

"She had a glass of wine. I had a highball before dinner."

"Did you offer Dr. Thorpe any intoxicants?"

"Possibly, out of hospitality."

Anderson tried to establish that Miss Astor was at the Trocadero Cafe, Hollywood, with Kaufman, or left the cafe with him, last July 8, "the night Mr. and Mrs. Irving Thalberg were there."

Thalberg is a film producer and his wife is Norma Shearer, the actress. Miss Astor said: "I don't think I did."

"Were you there in June with Kaufman?" Anderson asked.

"Yes."

"Did you drink anything?"

"I had a cocktail before dinner."

"Where did you go?"

"I either drove him home or he drove me home, between 10 and 11 p. m."

Later she said: "He doesn't drive."

"Were you sober?"

"I certainly was."

"Did you see the child that night?"

"Yes, I always do."

"Isn't it true that you have consumed one-fifth of a gallon of Scotch whisky a day since your divorce?" Anderson asked.

"No."

"Didn't you send Kaufmann a telegram on April 12, 1935?"

"Yes."

"Did he send you any telegram?"

"Yes, two or three."

Judge Cuts Her Short.

"On April 5, 1935, didn't you say you were perfectly satisfied with the divorce settlement—at a conference with Dr. Thorpe and his attorneys?"

"Yes, because——"

Miss Astor attempted to explain, but the judge cut her short.

He said the affirmative answer was sufficient.

A colloquy between counsel ensued. The upshot of it was that Judge Goodwin Knight ordered produced in court tomorrow the property settlement agreement approved at the time of the couple's divorce.

Miss Astor has pending a suit to set aside the divorce decree and the property settlement and to have the marirage annulled instead.

Mrs. Helen Langhanke (left), who, with her husband, was accusing their actress daughter, Mary Astor, of failing to support them properly not many months ago, apparently had that difficulty adjusted. Group Protests Cafe Proposal In Silver Spring

Zone Change to Permit Theater Is Opposed at Hearing.

Strong opposition to a rezoning of Darby Farm, in Silver Spring, so as to enable Steven E. Cochran, manager of the National Theater, to erect a summer theater and cafe, was voiced by a large group of Montgomery County citizens at a hearing before the commissioners last night.

Aims and purposes of rezoning the property from residential to commercial classification in order to make way for the erection of the proposed structure were set forth in a petition filed in behalf of Cochran by Nathaniel Trimble.

About 50 residents in the new county office building in Silver Spring heard the petition read. It stated that the new theater, which would attract some of the Nation's leading actors, would be a handsome brick structure, ultra-modern in design.

Leading opposition to the project, Dr. Merton A. English, who lives on his 40-acre estate across from Darby Farm, presented a counter petition, bearing the signatures of 40 residents of the neighborhood, who claimed erection of the theater would harm the value of their property.

"I own 600 acres here which the theater would damage," stated Harold E. Doyle, prominent realtor.

The proposal was opposed by the fashionable nearby Manor Club, which was represented by Henry F. Gibbs, of its board of governors.

Others who appeared in opposition included Capt. Frank L. Hewitt, Scott Beall, J. S. Ebert, Edwin C. Powell, Calvin Bready and Mertin A. English, jr., all of Silver Spring.

Cochran appeared in his own behalf and explained that the projected theater would cost about $75,000. With him was Judge Harold C. Smith, of Rockville.

The commissioners took the rezoning under advisement. A decision will be given next Tuesday night, they said.

Harry Bannister Denies Accusing Ann Harding

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Harry Bannister denied from the witness stand today that he had ever accused Ann Harding, his divorced wife, of being intimate with Gene Fowler, author and playwright, for the reputed purpose of obtaining money from her.

As the trial of three men charged with extorting $1,800 from Bannister was opened in General Sessions Court, David Slade, attorney for Harry S. Hechheimer, one of the defendants, asked Bannister under cross-examination:

"Did you blackmail your wife for over $100,000?"

"No, Mr. Slade." Bannister replied.

"Did you at any time obtain money from your wife on the threat of exposing some intimate relations between her and a man named Gene Fowler?"

"No, never, Mr. Slade, and I never attempted it," was Bannister's answer.

Slade asked: "Is Gene Fowler a writer?"

"Yes," Bannister replied.

"Did you ever accuse your wife of intimacy with him for the purpose of obtaining money from her?"

"No."

On trial with Hechheimer, formerly Bannister's lawyer, were Jerome A. Jacobs, 48, an attorney, and Raymond Derringer, 39, a motion picture operator.

Miss Harding, divorced from Bannister, took their 7-year-old daughter Jane to England several weeks ago after Bannister failed in an effort to prevent the trip.

Eugene A. Finnegan, assistant district attorney, said the State would prove that the three men took advantage of Bannister's fears he would lose custody of the child and that he paid money to them under her threat of being accused of immoral acts.

Sheriff Thinks Youth Intended To Attack Co-ed

Doubts Slayer's Statement That He Meant Only to Rob Clevenger Girl.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 10.—The theory was advanced tonight by Sheriff Laurence E. Brown that Martin Moore, lanky colored bellhop who murdered Helen Clevenger, 18-year-old honor student of New York University, went to the girl's room, not to rob her, but to assault her.

"I think he lied in his confession," Sheriff Brown said. "He said that he tried the doors of two other rooms before he went to hers, but I think he went directly to her room to attack her.

"He saw her twice the night of the murder. Once he saw her leaving her room to visit her uncle's room. Why didn't he go to her room then if robbery was the motive?"

Moore, in his confession, said he shot the vacationing co-ed when she discovered him in the act of robbing her and began screaming.

Suspects Watching.

Sheriff Brown said he had reason to believe Moore watched the girl for several nights from a backstairs window before invading her room late on the night of July 16.

A speedy trial, with a death sentence seemingly inevitable, was in prospect for Moore tonight.

Shortly before noon today the towering bellhop—he stands 6 feet, 3 inches—was taken from his cell on the fifteenth floor of Buncombe County's handsome courthouse and jail and rushed before Judge J. P. Kitchen on the seventh floor.

He waived a preliminary hearing on murdering Miss Clevenger and of burglary with firearms. Each charge carries upon conviction a mandatory death penalty.

Asks Immediate Trial.

The grand jury convenes Monday and Solicitor Zeb V. Nettles, who probably will prosecute Moore, will ask that the belhop's case be considered first so that the trial may be started immediately.

Thomas A. Jones, jr., Asheville attorney, was named as counsel for Moore today.

The only person allowed to call on Moore in his cell today was Bishop W. M. Ainsworth, of the Methodist Church. He asked Moore if liquor was responsible for his downfall. The colored youth said it was not.

Father "Dissatisfied."

New York, Aug. 10 (U.P.).—Joseph F. Clevenger, whose daughter, Helen, was murdered in Asheville, N. C., last July 16, intimated tonight that he was dissatisfied with the manner in which North Carolina authorities handled the search for his daughter's slayer.

"It is, of course, a great satisfaction that the case has been finally solved and the murderer of my daughter apprehended," Clevenger said in his first statement to the press.

"As to the manner in which the case has been handled, however, and as to the manner in which it was finally solved, I have no comment to make at this time. I will issue a statement on that matter later."

'Non-Payment' Arrest Voided In Divorce Case

Court Overrules Contempt Action Against Husband in Arrears.

Holding that enforcement of the decrees of the District Court providing for money payments do not come within the provisions of the District code making failure to meet such payments a virtual "contempt of court," the United States Court of Appeals yesterday, in a majority opinion, upheld the right of Louis W. Rapeer to obtain his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus.

According to the opinion, Mrs. Frances C. Rapeer, wife of Rapeer, obtained a Virginia divorce in 1924. Under it she was awarded custody of three minor children and $75 a month for their maintenance. Then in 1925 she brought suit in the District to enforce payment, although her suit here failed to mention the Virginia provision for $75 a month.

Eventually a consent decree providing for the payment was entered in District Court, but was later modified to $30 a month. Mrs. Rapeer in 1935 filed a motion here, asserting that her former husband was in arrears $1,284 and asking that he be adjudged in contempt of court.

Rapeer obtained his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus after he had been apprehended by United States marshals and he then asked the Court of Appeals to rule whether a divorced father could be imprisoned for failing to obey a court order directing maintenance when the District code specifically provided that "any husband" * * * is subject to the provisions that maintenance must be paid according to the code or a contempt action would lie.

In its opinion, the Appellate Court held that section 102 of the D. C. code, which provided "* * * but wherein the decree only directs payment of money, no defendant shall be imprisoned except in those cases especially provided for" was a limitation on the power of the court in the fundamental sense.

continuing, the opinion read:

"All that we rule is that Section 102 (the section in question) is a limitation upon the power of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in respect of the manner of enforcing its orders, and that it permits enforcement by imprisonment for contempt of 'decrees only directing the payment of money' only in cases especially provided for, and that a maintenance order for children against a divorced father is not such a case, since it is not within the terms of Section 75 or of any provision of the local statute."

Hughes Lands in Dayton On Flight to New York

Dayton Ohio, Aug. 10 (AP).—Howard Hughes, millionaire sportsman flier, landed his "flying laboratory" transport plane at Wright Field at 5:44 p. m. today (Eastern standard time), after flying nonstop from Los Angeles, and made preparations for take-off at 4 a. m. tomorrow for New York.

Five men accompanied Hughes on the trip, which required between 11 and 12 hours. Hughes was reticent concerning the flight. Landing here, he communicated with Maj. Gen. A. W. Robins, head of the materiels division of the Army Air Corps. This led to rumors that Hughes' flight provided a test for a special radio wave-length allotted to him by the Federal Government for possible use in a flight around the world.

Spanish Heir Reaches Vienna to See Alfonso

Vienna, Aug. 10 (AP). — Former Prince Juan of Spain, heir to the nonexistent Spanish throne, arrived tonight at the lake resort of Velden, near Poertschach, where he is expected to meet his father, former King Alfonso, tomorrow.

Prince Juan—whose claim to the Spanish succession grew out of the renunciation of rights by his two older brothers—was accompanied by Alfonso's second son, Jaimie, and other members of the former ruling family of Spain, who left Cannes, France, earlier in the day.

The former King was to leave Vienna tomorrow morning for Poertschach, where President Wilhelm Miklas of Austria and Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania are vacationing.

Ex-Magistrate Gets 3-Yr. Term In Assault Case

J. Hall White, of Easton, Md., Pleads Guilty; Fired Shots at Sheriff.

By the Associated Press.

Easton, Md., Aug. 10.—J. Hall White, former magistrate who engaged in a gun battle with officers on a city street here, was sentenced today to three years in the penitentiary on a charge of assault with intent to kill Sheriff Samuel G. Carroll.

White appeared for trial before Chief Judge W. Mason Shehan, of the Second Judicial Circuit, at a special session today. He pleaded guilty to two charges of assault with intent to kill and to a charge of carrying deadly weapons.

Judge Shehan ordered the three-year sentence on one of the charges and suspended sentence on the other two.

The only new testimony came from Dr. L. S. Welty, county health officer. Dr. Welty said White had threatened him for having him committed to an institution for mental observation.

White, Sheriff Carroll and Town Officer Kemp Marshall exchanged shots here July 9 in front of the home of Miss Jennie Reynolds, with whom White's wife lived. No one was injured and White surrendered after officers threatened to shoot to kill.

Miss Reynolds had told officers that White was armed and was seeking his wife, whom he had had domestic troubles. The affray occurred after White had been dismissed from Spring Grove State Hospital, which he had entered after being acquitted on a charge of shooting at his daughter.

White was a magistrate at the time of the battle with Marshall and Carroll. Gov. Harry W. Nice, notified of the affair, demanded and received his resignation as a justice of the peace.

He had been appointed in May, 1935, as justice of the peace for the First District, Talbot County.

While White was in jail here, he cut an artery in his arm with a piece of metal from his cot. Sheriff Carroll then placed another prisoner in his cell to watch him.

Lindbergh to Show 'Mechanical Heart'

Copenhagen, Aug. 10 (AP).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the unwilling center of attraction at a congress of medical scientists, will demonstrate the "mechanical heart" tomorrow.

The American flier, and co-inventor of the artificial heart with Dr. Alexis Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute, almost bolted the sessions at their opening today, angered by the presence of photographers. He agreed, however, to remain after the photographers consented to limit their pictures to groups.

Col. Lindbergh and Dr. Carrel were to have shown their invention, hailed as an important aid to medical research, today. The demonstration was postponed until tomorrow, however, to be given at a joint session of the scientific groups comprising the congress.

Although some of the most eminent physicians and scientists in the world attended the meeting in the common hall of the Danish Parliament, the general public showed interest in only one personality—Col. Lindbergh.

Descendant of La Place Dies in Transient Camp

Shakopee, Minn., Aug. 10 (AP).—Robert Place, 60, interior decorator, known as a great-grandson of Marcus Pierre Simon de La Place, astronomer and friend of Napoleon Bonaparte, died in a transient camp yesterday following a heart attack.

Interior decorator in New York, Milwaukee, Omaha and Des Moines, Iowa, Place entered the transient camp at Shakopee approximately a year ago.

La Place, the astronomer, was one of the group that watched beside Napoleon's bed until the warrior died on the Island of St. Helena May 5, 1821. Place's sister, Lillian Place, lives in New York City.

Echols Funeral Set for Today At Arlington

Masonic and Military Rites Planned for Pressman in U. S. Bureau.

Funeral services, with Masonic and military rites, will be held in Arlington Cemetery today at 1 p. m. for Irwin H. Echols, 44, assistant foreman of the Government Printing Office press room.

Mr. Echols was born in Atlanta, Ga. In 1920 he moved to Alexandria, Va., where he was employed as press room foreman by the Newell Cole Printing Co. He lived in Alexandria for a decade before moving to this city. He had his residence at 2301 Thirty-ninth street northwest. Seven years ago he went to the Government Printing Office as assistant foreman of the press room. He served with a Cavalry unit during the World War.

The veteran pressman was a member of the Andrew Jackson Masonic Lodge, the Government Printing Office Post, American Legion, and the Printing Pressmen's Union, No. 1.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Marjorie M. Echols; his mother, Mrs. M. M. Echols, Atlanta, Ga.; three brothers, A. M. Echols, Birmingham, Ala.; W. V. Echols, Douglasville, Ga., and L. M. Echols, Winston, Ga., and four sisters, Mrs. C. E. Cobb, Mrs. J. N. Powell, Mrs. C. C. Rogers and Mrs. G. M. Clogstern, all of Atlanta.

Roosevelt Itinerary Revealed

Cleveland Friday morning, and is expected to visit a number of WPA projects before a trip through the exposition grounds. Exposition officials will be hosts at a luncheon, at which Mr. Roosevelt will speak informally.

He will then entrain for Mayville, N. Y., whence he will motor to nearby Chautauqua for his foreign affairs address at 8 p. m. The address may be broadcast nationally.

Returning to Mayville after his speech, Mr. Roosevelt will leave about midnight by train for Binghamton, N. Y., where, the next morning, he will again meet the flood control experts who accompanied him to Johnstown, and the party will make a survey of the flood area around Binghamton.

Will Go to Scranton.

From there the party will go to Scranton, Pa., Saturday morning, and thence by motor to Wilkes-Barre, inspecting flood areas en route.

From Wilkes-Barre he will take a train to Highlands, near his Hyde Park home, and will stop at Hyde Park for several days.

Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York, and Gov. George Earle of Pennsylvania are to accompany the president on his inspection trips in their respective States.

Others to be in the inspection party are Maj. Gen. Edward M. Markham, chief of Army Engineers; Robert Fechner, CCC director, and representatives of the Soil Erosion Service, WPA and the National Resources Committee.

Returns to Capital.

The President returned to the Capital yesterday morning from his month-long vacation, on which he cruised to Nova Scotia and his summer home at Campobello, N. B., and then visited Hyde Park. Immediately he held a conference with his special flood control commitee which had prepared a list of projects which can be started quickly.

Among the conferees were Gen. Markham, Fechner, Frederic Delano, chairman of the National Resources Commitee, and Dr. Abel Wolman, member of that committee; Aubrey Williams, deputy, and Col. F. C. Harrington, assistant, WPA administrators; Courtland B. Manifold, of the Soil Conservation Service, and Daniel Bell, acting director of the budget.

It was made clear that the list of projects had not been approved at the conference and still was subject to revision. Pending formal approval the list is not being made public.

Christians Urged To Aid World Jews

Geneva, Aug. 10 (AP).—Dr. Mayer Ebner, former Rumanian Senator, asserted today before the World Jewish Congress that Hitlerism was crushing Jews in Germany and reaching out into the rest of the world.

In an appeal to the Christian world to aid Jews, Dr. Ebner denounced the "indifference" with which "the powers permitted Hitlerism to destroy the life not only of German Jewry but also to penetrate throughout the world."

He continued: "Speaking from the Tribune of the League of Nations, I ask the Christian world how long we are to be oppressed. How long is this hate and terror to continue?

"Why does the Christian world permit this oppression to remain unpunished?"

Dr. Ebner added: "Through the World Jewish Congress we shall not cease to defend our position until the Jewish problem is ended and Jewish rights assured."

Artists Praise Lincoln Steffens

Carmel, Calif., Aug. 10 (AP).—Carmel's colony of artists and writers joined in tribute today to Lincoln Steffens and made plans to attend his funeral tomorrow.

Steffens, 70, died last night of a heart ailment in his home here. He had not been in good health since he was stricken two years ago on a lecture tour.

Funeral services will be at 3 p. m. tomorrow in Cypress Lawn Cemetery, San Francisco, with burial in the family plot.

"While many of us frequently disagreed with him," said Perry Newberry, the writer, "we all accepted him as a man of rare ability and genius."

Armin Hansen, noted painter and friend of the liberal writer, said Steffens' autobiography "will remain as a living monument of his great work in political and social reform."

Samuel G. Blythe, widely known political writer, characterized Steffens as "one of America's foremost reporters whose death will be mourned by the writing profession and the entire country."

C. I. O. Will Ignore Federation Ouster

By the Associated Press.

John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization decided last night to disregard the American Federation of Labor executive council's suspension threat.

The committee made its decision at an unheralded meeting in the United Mine Workers' headquarters.

In the course of the prolonged struggle between the federation's craft and industrial union factions, the executive council last Wednesday directed that the ten unions affiliated with the Lewis committee be suspended September 5 unless they withdraw from the committee beforehand.

Children Hold Model Regatta At Park Today

Playground Events for Week Include Pet Shows and Tennis Tourney.

With a vehicle show at Bancroft Playground and a model boat regatta at Langdon Recreation Center scheduled for today at 2 p. m., weekly activities at District playgrounds indicated a new record for this season.

As hundreds of District playground children are participating in a series of baby, doll, health and pet shows, the list of events scheduled by Miss Sibyl Baker, supervisor of the Playground Department, also includes a junior and senior playground tennis tournament, with finals Wednesday morning at Chevy Chase Playground.

The program for the remainder of the week includes:

Wednesday—Doll show, 2 p. m., Mann Playground; health show, 2:30 p. m., Lafayette Playground; doll show, 2:30 p. m., Congress Heights Playground; health show, 3 p. m., at the wading pool, Georgetown Playground; doll show, 3 p. m., Van Buren Playground; model boat regatta, 3 p. m., Chevy Chase Playground.

Thursday—"Old home day" and all-day event, Garfield Playground; doll and "tacky" show, 1 p. m., Cooke Playground; "lady-come-and-see," 2 p. m., Bancroft Playground; doll show, 2 p. m., Wallack Playground; pet show, 3 p. m., Paul Junor High; baby show, 3 p. m., Potomac Playground.

Friday—Pet show, 10:45 a. m., Kingsman Playground; model boat regatta, 3 p. m., Rosedale Playground; Frank Portillo, "the children's clown," 3 p. m., Jefferson Junior High Playground, and baby show, 3 p. m., Johnson-Powell Junior High Playground.

Woodrum Injured When Auto Skids

By the Associated Press.

Newport News, Va., Aug. 10.—Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, of the Sixth District, injured this morning when his car skidded and left the road on a sharp turn at Toano, was reported tonight by Mrs. Woodrum not to be seriously injured.

The Roanoke legislator is in Langley Field Hospital, where it is expected he will remain about two days for treatment of a number of cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Woodrum said that reports earlier in the day from Toano that he had suffered considerable loss of blood appeared to be overdrawn and that her husband had experienced nothing serious in this respect.

Mrs. Woodrum, who has been on a camping trip at Langley Field for the past two weeks with her daughter, Miss Martha Anne Woodrum, said that Representative Woodrum was coming to the field to join them at the time of the acident. When he reached the sharp turn in the highway at Toano there was a dense fog and his car left the road on the curve, plunging against the community house there.

School Bus Overturns.

Trenton, Ontario, Aug. 10 (AP).—A bus carrying 35 pupils of South Western Teachers' College, Atlanta, Ga., turned over on its side on No. 2 highway, at Smithfield, 4 miles west of here, today, but only one woman occupant was injured.

Matron Fined $25 In Baby Theft Case

Kahoka, Mo., Aug. 10 (AP).—Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench laughed and clapped today during retrial on charges she and three others conspired to obtain unlawful possession of an unwed servant girl's day-old son, and the titian-haired society matron declared her demonstration was worth a $25 contempt fine.

"Pay it, it's worth it to me," Mrs. Muench said to her husband. Dr. Muench, Attorney Wilfred Jones and Mrs. Helen Berroyer are co-defendants in the "gift of God" baby case.

The demonstration was precipitated by Mrs. Grace Carolyn Thomasson's testimony that Jones was cut on the hand last fall by a sword Mrs. Muench held.

Previously the State's star witness related she talked with the Muenches and Jones about getting a baby that Mrs. Muench could represent as her own. Mrs. Thomasson said Mrs. Muench expected to get $250,000 from Dr. Marsh Pitzman, wealthy St. Louis physician, "who was sold on the idea that he was the father."

Mrs. Muench announced birth of a son last August, but a court later ruled the child belonged to Anna Ware, Pennsylvania domestic.

Mrs. Longcope Loses Plea for More Funds

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—An application by Mrs. Dorothea Livermore Longcope, former wife of Jesse Livermore, sr., Wall street operator, for additional financial aid from Livermore, was dismised in domestice relations court "without prejudice" today.

In a prepared statement handed to newspapermen outside of court, Livermore announced he had made ample provision for the support of Mrs. Longcope and their two sons, Jesse, jr., and Paul A. Livermore.

He declared he felt no responsibility for the medical care administered his namesake after he was shot accidentally by his mother in California last Thanksgiving.

Wallace Says Wheat Scarcity Scare to G. O. P.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, in an interview tonight, accused Col. Frank Knox, Republican nominee for Vice President, and John Hamilton, Republican national chairman, of creating an "unnecessary scare" about the Nation's wheat crop.

Wallace said the two Republicans, in campaign speeches, had blamed the New Deal farm program for causing a wheat shortage which necessitated imports of grain from Canada.

Ascribing these statements to "gentlemen apparently intent on politics," the farm Secretary asserted "the truth of the matter" was that the August 1 crop report issued yesterday estimated the wheat harvest at 633,000,000 bushels.

"This is about the normal consumption," Wallace said, adding that the wheat carryover July 1 was 150,000,000 bushels, "better than the 136,000,000 average from 1921 to 1929."

The Secretary said imports of hard winter wheat were being made from Canada, but were necessary only "because we are so finicky" about wanting bread made from hard wheat. There is a bountiful supply of soft wheat, he said.

Any necessity for imports, he continued "is due almost entirely to the drought" for crop restrictions on winter wheat were withdrawn at his insistence during the 1934 dry spell.

Wallace said he "judged" from Col. Knox's address at Indianapolis and Hamilton's talk at Spokane—in which both attacked Roosevelt Administration crop reduction policies—that "they would be in favor of a policy which with ordinary weather would bring a return to 40-cent wheat."

Prices were that low last, he said, in 1932, when the Hoover farm board was "buying wheat without regard for price."

Airport Aid Likely For Hagerstown

Baltimore, Aug. 10 (AP).—The Maryland WPA office will look favorably on a project for improving the Hagerstown airport if certain changes in the plans are made, Harry D. Williar, jr., State WPA head, said today.

Williar said Hagerstown officials had discussed the plan with him and then taken their application back to consider the recommended changes. They called for minor modifications in the methods of getting materials. The amended application has not been formally filed with him, he said.

The project calls for hard-surfaced runways for the airport and construction of a hangar. The project has been approved by the city council with the proviso that the city's share of the cost shall not exceed $12,000.

Tilting Events Set For Marshall Hall

The fifty-second annual tilting tournament at Marshall Hall Park will be held August 29. The first contest will start at 1 p. m.

This year's jousting will be under direction of A. D. Langley, knight, of Clarendon, Va. It is expected that knights from Maryland, Virginia and Washington will take part in both professional and amateur tilting.

Following the ancient custom, the winner of the tourney will crown his lady. This ceremony will be in the ballroom at 7:30 p. m. with Arthur P. Shanklin making the coronation address. Four trips will be made by the Wilson liner City of Washington to the park at 10 a. m., 2, 5:30 and 8:30 p. m., for the events.

Robert Bender Funeral In New York Today

New York, Aug. 10 (U.P.).—Funeral services for Robert J. Bender, former vice president and general news manager of United Press, will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow at the Davis Funeral Chapel in New Rochelle, N. Y. The body will be cremated and later the ashes will be taken to Abilene, Kans.

Bender, brilliant nwespaperman of the Woodrow Wilson era, died yesterday afternoon after a long illness. He was 46.

The Rev. Herbert H. Brown, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Pelham, will conduct the services. Honorary pallbearers will be Roy W. Howard, W. W. Hawkins, Cary T. Grayson, Joseph P. Tumulty, Fred Ferguson, Westbrook Pegler, L. B. Mickel and Cecil N. Lescher.

Mrs. E. W. Whitaker with a piece of the towel used as a flag of truce at Appomattox. She is the widow of Gen. Whitaker, who received the flag from a member of Gen. Longstreet's staff.

Part of South's Truce 'Towel' Fails to Arrive at Smithsonian

The Smithsonian Institution recently received the towel used as a flag of surrender at the close of the Civil War, but the Smithsonian didn't get all of it. Mrs. E. W. Whitaker, widow of Gen. Whitaker, and her daughter, Mrs. George Gordon Siebold, still have a piece, neatly framed and hanging in their home at 756 Rock Creek Church road.

At one time Gen. Whitaker had the whole towel. When the Union and Confederate forces met at Appomattox Court House, Whitaker was chief of staff for Gen. Custer and was sent out to receive the truce when it was offered by a member of Gen. Longstreet's staff at Gen. Lee's request.

After cutting off a small piece, Whitaker turned over the towel to Gen. Custer, who later presented it to Mrs. Custer. She said that at her death she would send half of it to West Point and would give the rest to Gen. Whitaker. Later she changed her mind and left the improvised flag of truce to the Smithsonian, along with other Custer relicts.

Now an extremely valuable strip of cloth, the plain honeycomb towel never was cheap. War had skyrocketed prices so high that Maj. R. M. Sims paid $40 in Confederate money for it, never dreaming it would someday be placed in a museum.

According to letters in the possession of Mrs. Whitaker and Mrs. Siebold the Confederates at first planned to use a handkerchief. Next the officers called for a white shirt. Nobody had a white shirt. Fnally Maj. Sims came forward with his $40 towel and the offer was gladly accepted.

Later Maj. Sims was to know days in South Carolina when towels were as great a luxury as they were during the war. He wrote to Gen. Whitaker, the Northern friend he had made on the battlefield as hostilities came to a close, and said that while he would like to visit him he was then "too poor to expect ever to get as far from home as Washington City, unless, my dear sir, you can find some profitable employment there for me."

Mrs. Whitaker, now 89 but with the spirit of a girl, remembers hearing her husband tell over and over of the circumstances of hte surrender. She and her daughter have kept all his papers and letters, including several from Mrs. Custer. Gen. Whitaker died in 1922.

Moscow Welcomes 3 Distance Fliers

Moscow, Aug. 10 (AP).—A million Muscovites roared a tumultuous welcome to three Soviet long-distance fliers who returned from the Far East today.

After landing at a military airport 25 miles from Moscow, the aviators were driven to the Kremlin through highways and streets massed with cheering humanity. There they were received officially by Joseph Stalin.

The immensity of the home-coming reception and the emphasis on the flight in the press—which has been devoting almost entire editions to the trio—were unprecedented in Soviet aviation.

The flight fell short of its goal but its sponsor, the Commissariat or Heavy Industry, said its purpose was fulfilled and acclaimed it a success.

The fliers—Chekaloff, Baidukoff and Belayakoff—landed July 22 in Siberia after a 5,858-mile, nonstop flight in their single-motored plane. They were ordered down by radio when they encountered a stiff wind and a shortage of fuel. Their goal was Chita or Irkutsk, Siberia.

Reception for Perkins.

Geneva, Aug. 10 (AP).—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins today was given an official reception to Geneva by the International Labor Office.

She signed the visitors' "Golden Book," which contains the names of many of the world's eminent statesmen and later was the guest of honor at a luncheon at the International Students' Home.

Francis Benoit, 89, Dies; Rites in West

Born at Longeuill, Canada, he moved to St. Onge, S. D., in 1877, where he became a farmer. Seven years ago he retired and moved to this city to live with his daughter, Anna, employed in the Census Bureau, Department of Commerce.

A brief funeral service was held last night in the Hysong funeral home, after which the body was sent to South Dakota. Services will be held in St. John's Catholic Church at St. Onge Friday morning.

He is survived by a son, Edgar Benoit, Rapid City, S. D., and two daughters, Miss Anna Benoit and Miss Eldina Benoit, both of this city. His wife, the former Miss Naldina Choquette, of St. Onge, died 30 years ago.

Moslem Leader Is Shot By Native in Algiers

Algiers, Aug. 10 (AP).—Mufti Constantine Sidi Ahmed Ben Habibatni, Moslem leader, was shot and wounded tonight by a man dressed as a European as the mufti was returning to his home. Police said the assailant was a natve who masqueraded as a foreigner. The attacker escaped.

It was the second attack on Moslem leaders within a fortnight. Mufti Ben Dali was stabbel to death August 2 and four men are being held on murder charges.

Mrs. Green Named As Administratrix

Kaufman, Tex., Aug. 10 (AP).—Mrs. Mabel H. Green, widowed by the recent death of Col. Edward H. R. Green, son of Hetty Green, America's noted "railroad queen," today was named administratrix of her husband's vast fortune, once indirectly denied her by terms of a will.

County Judge Ben Brooks, 31-year-old jurist, granted a motion making permanent her temporary appointment as administratrix of Col. Green's estimated $80,000,000 estate, largely inherited from his mother and enriched by his own railroad earnings.

Twenty-five years ago Hetty Green drew a will and bequeathed a fortune of nearly $67,000,000 to her son, Col. Green, and a daughter, now Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks, of New York. She stipulated that neither her son's wife nor her daughter's husband could inherit the estate.

Col. Green's will, dated in March, 1908, nine years before his marriage, bequeathed all his property to his mother and sister. No provision was made for a wife. But today Mrs. Green was named administratrix without contest.

Teacher Is Drowned As Boat Goes Over Falls

Miden, Ontario, Aug. 10 (AP).—A Detroit school teacher drowned and five companions escaped a similar death here over the week-end when their skiff, powered by an outboard motor, was swept over Moores Falls in the lake country of Haliburton County.

Details of the accident which occurred Saturday afternoon reached here today from the isolated section near Gull Lake. The drowned woman was Mabel Wray, 53.

Ken Pritchard, of Miden, an eyewitness to the tragedy, pulled two members of the party to shore while three others gained shore without assistance.

Pritchard said the pilot of the boat apparently misjudged the current above the falls and shut off the motor too soon. The skiff was drawn swiftly to the brink of the falls and toppled into the white water below.

Nation's Police Hunt Chinese-German Girl

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Authorities throughout the Eastern States were enlisted tonight in the search for Marie Wendt, alias Marie Watana, 23-year-old Chinese-German girl wanted in connection with activities of one of the largest smuggling rings exposed in this country.

Federal authorities here believed she headed for New York by airplane after escaping Friday night from a hotel room in Los Angeles, where she was under guard. It was not until her arrest that the expose of the ring became known.

Premium Rates Likely to Stand, SaysFDIC Head

'No Immediate Prospect' of Reduction, Declares Chairman Crowley.

By the Associated Press.

Chairman Leo T. Crowley, of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., yesterday said there was "no immediate prospect" that the agency's $6,000,000 profit during the past year would lead to a reduction in its premium rates.

Although the corporation showed large earnings for the first year of its permanent operation, Crowley said that "five years of experience" would be necessary before the directors could determine exactly what rate should be charged on "a long-term basis."

Each insured bank now pays an annual premium of one-twelfth of 1 per cent of its total deposits. Established to protect depositors against bank failures, the corporation insures deposits of $5,000 or less in 14,118 national and State institutions.

Crowley said that any reduction in the rate of assessment must be made by Congress, although the corporation's directors could make recommendations in the light of their experience.

During the ten months after August 23, 1935, when it began permanent operations, the agency, collected $28,000,000 in premiums from insured banks. In addition, it had an annual income of more than $8,500,000, Crowley estimated, from the interest on its investments.

Administrative expenses, he said, would amout to less than $2,500,000 a year.

Losses during the ten-month period totaled $4,814,955, including $1,500,000 paid to depositors of closed banks.

Most of the remaining losses resulted from loans to banks or from purchase of their assets to prevent failures or to facilitate mergers. If bank failures had not been forestalled by such loans and purchases, Crowley said, the corporation would have been forced to pay out a far larger sum to depositors after the banks had closed.

Princess, Mother of 5, Gets License as Flier

Rome, Aug. 10 (AP).—Princess Adelina Colonna, Duchess of Rignano, mother of five children and a member of one of Rome's oldest families, received her pilot's license today.

Her husband, the duke, is already a licensed pilot, and her eldest daughter expects her flier's certificate shortly.

Friends quoted the princess as explaining that she needed to fly because of their extensive ranches in Argentina which ordinarily can be reached only by a long and dusty journey from Buneos Aires.

'Woman' Athlete Weds Girl After Operation

Plymouth, England, Aug. 10 (U.P.). Mark Weston, 30, who, as Edith Weston, was an outstanding English "woman" athlete, has been married secretly to Miss Alberta Bray, a friend of many years, it was learned today. The marriage took place in the registrar's office.

Failure of Motor Hinted in Air Crash

St. Louis, Aug. 10 (AP).—Questions raising the possibility of motor failure today accompanied the Senate Air Safety Committee's entrance into an official investigation of the Chicago & Southern airliner crash which killed all eight aboard near Lambert-St. Louis airport last Wednesday night.

Senator Bennett C. Clark, of Missouri, a member of the committee, and Lieut. Col. H. E. Hartney, technical adviser, interposed questions as the investigation entered its second day.

Hartney asked Charles Quinn, a Chicago & Southern pilot:

"Can you think of any reason other than lack of power that would have kept Pilot Carl Zeier at a low altitude?"

"No," replied Quinn.

"And you can't think of any reason why he should be flying so low at that time?"

"No," said Quinn.

"Then it pretty well gets down to a matter of power, doesn't it?"

U. S. Liner's Crew Strikes.

Singapore (Tuesday), Aug. 11 (U.P.). Sixty-four crew members of the Dollar liner President Hayes struck today following Capt. Pierson's disciplinary action against several firemen for refusing to obey orders. The strikers include the engine room and deck crews and stewards. The ship has a total crew of 141.

ICC Reports Gain In Rail Revenues

By the Associated Press.

Substantial upturn in railroad passenger revenues during July was reported yesterday in a preliminary Interstate Commerce Commission survey.

With new low passenger rates in operation for the second month, partial reports from Eastern roads fixed July passenger receipts at $16,868,435, an advance of 20.2 per cent over the $14,037,056 for the same month a year ago.

In the South, revenues were listed at $2,289,968 and $1,766,686 for the respective months, an increase of 29.6 per cent, while Western roads received $5,394,436 and $4,209,650, an increase of 28.1 per cent.

The low passenger fare rates of 2 cents a mile in coaches went into effect on Eastern carriers June 1, having been operative previously in the South and West.

July Store Sales Show Big Increase

By the Associated Press.

The Federal Reserve Board reported last night that department store sales in July were nearer 1923-1925 levels than at any time since the middle of 1931.

"Total sales in July were 14 per cent larger and for the first seven months of the year 11 per cent larger than in the corresponding periods of 1935," a board statement said.

It added that the board's index increased from 88 per cent of the 1923-25 average in June to 91 per cent in July, comparing with an average of 79 per cent during 1935.

Why Gulf is the Gas for August

"C'MON IN, FELLAS, and cool off!" Most days are hot in August. Gasoline must be refined specially for this weather. If it isn't, part of the fuel goes out the exhaust unburned, wasted . . . and you don't get the mileage you should. Use That Good Gulf Gasoline in August. It's refinery-adjusted for summer weather—"Kept in Step with the Calendar"—all of it goes to work, none of it goes to waste.

Arlington Frees District Baking Firm Strikers

Sheriff Fields Recommends Dismissal of Charges; Men Warned.

Judge B. M. Hedrick of the Arlington County Court yesterday dismissed the disorderly conduct charges against 20 striking employes of Dutch Baker Boy, Inc., Washington bakery. The men were arrested Friday for alleged interference with a driver of a company truck.

The charges were dismissed on the recommendation of Sheriff Howard B. Fields and James Simpson, assistant to Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas. Judge Hedrick warned the men not to repeat their action which the police said was congregating around the bakery truck when it stopped, to impede the driver in making deliveries. The man admitted having followed the truck around the county in automobiles.

The Arlington County Civic Federation is seeking to have the Federal Government improve sections of Military road runnin g through the Washington Air Port and in front of the Arlington National Cemetery. It is expected that county officials will join in the movement.

Several sections of this road are practically impassable for automobiles and the sections in front of the cemetery are so narrow its side ditches are considered dangerous hazards to the large volume of traffic.

Col. Kenyon Joyce, acting chief of staff of the Third Corps Area, United States Army, has written the federation that an extensive survey of the work necessary on Military road has been made by Army engineers. They estimate $50,000 was needed for improvements. He stated that it was impossible to spend any part of the limited funds appropriated to this area for army posts on improvement of the road. The request of the federation has been referred to the War Department.

The status of the Arlington County school board is expected to be settled only through legal action, but the decision as to when and by whom the action will be started has not been decided by the interested parties.

Charles R. Fenwick, chairman of the legal committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation, has pointed out that two courses of action are open by which the controversy over the legality of the appointment of the school trustees may be settled.

Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas, who has held legal the appointment of Mrs. Ruby G. Simpson, member of the former school board, who was not re-appointed to the new board, could start the action.

Douglas could ask the court to rule on the legalty of the appointment or Mrs. Simpson could institute mandamus proceedings on the ground that she is being illegally denied a position on the school board.

AAA in District Gains Members

Improved business conditions in Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia are indicated by the number of new memberships in the American Automobile Association District of Columbia Motor Club during the first six months of 1936, according to the club's midyear progress report yesterday.

Reaching the highest membership point since pre-depression days, new members for the first half of this year gained 48 per cent over the corresponding period of last year.

Increased strength enables the club to expand its civic and service program, with particular emphasis on safety activities, the report pointed out, and to serve visiting motorist members with greater efficiency, the report stated.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills. (Advt.)

Eighty-Odd Years on One Set of Teeth

C. R. Ramsey, who recently celebrated his ninetieth birthday by getting a new set of teeth. He is pictured with his daughter, Miss Elizabeth Ramsey.

Virginian Eats 80,000 Meals, Gets New Teeth

For approximately eight-tenths of his life, the teeth of C. R. Ramsey served him well. He had few toothaches and rarely had to go to the dentist.

Those teeth lasted him 80 years, taking into consideration the fact that he grew them before he was 10. He was 90 on Saturday and got a new set.

Ramsey lives in Cherrydale. He got up early yesterday and ate breakfast with his daughter, Elizabeth. That meal, since the average persons eats about 1,000 meals a year, was about the 80,000th meal Ramsey ate before he got false teeth.

After he finished breakfast he went to the dentist and stayed there for two hours. When he came out he told the doctor:

"They fit fine."

And then he went home to dinner and reminisce over the days of his youth.

He was born near Huntingdon, Pa., in 1846 and went to a one-room schoolhouse. When he was a boy he worked on his father's home. After he was grown he kept on working on his own farm and even now he chuckles when anybody says farmers can't make money any more.

Ramsey reads a lot. He smokes while he reads, but he won't take a drink, because:

"It's the downfall of youth today."

Fairfax Issues 47 Construction Permits in July

Work to Cost $89,494, Peak for Year; Mrs. Teachum to Be Honored.

Commissioner of Revenue James U. Kincheloe, of Fairfax County, in whose office building permits are issued, ha sannounced that during July the permits issued exceeded the June figure by 23.7 per cent and reached the highest point during the year. During the month 47 permits were issued for a total of $89,494 in construction work. According to the records, $86,294 represents new buildings and $3,200 for improvements.

It was pointed out that under the county ordinance repairs to property costing less than $250 do not require a building permit. Therefore the actual value of work done during the month would be considerably in excess of the permit figures.

Permit values for the seven months from January totaled $412,896, including both new buildings and improvements. No comparative figures are available for 1935, since the county had no building permit ordinance prior to 1936.

Providence and Falls Church districts continue to lead in building activity. For the former district the total for July was $39,744 and in the latter $21,500.

Another all-time peak was in the recordation of deeds and trusts in the office of County Clerk John M. Whalen, was reached during July. In this office, 377 recordations were reported for July, a jump of 3 over the former peak of 374 during the month of June. The previous high figure for the county was 333 recordations during the month of April.

Mrs. Mary E. Heachum, Grand Lecturer of District of Columbia, will be the guest of honor at the regular meeting of Herndon Chapter, No. 55, Order of the Eastern Star, tomorrow night. Alexandrians To Give Dinner For Rev. Kelly Priest, to Go to Capital, Will Be Honored at Affair Tomorrow.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
807 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The transfer of the Rev. Joseph J. Kelly, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Alexandria, to a post in Washington has caused regret here. He will leave here about September 1, to serve as assistant pastor of the Holy Redeemer Parish, New York and New Jersey avenues, Washington.

His many friends will meet him at a testimonial dinner in the George Mason Hotel tomorrow evening, to express their regret at his leaving, and to wish him success in his new field.

Father Kelley was born in Philadelphia. He entered Epiphany College, in Baltimore, for his classical studies, and on graduation was sent to St. Joseph's Seminary for a theological course, and was ordained to the priesthood December 21, 1907, in the Cathedral in Baltimore, by His Eminence James Cardinal Gibbons.

His first mission was St. Joseph's Orphanage in Wilmington, Del., where he remained for six years, being then sent to Jackson, Tenn., to organize a new parish. Here he labored for two years, relinquishing that post to come to Alexandria.

Arrived in 1915.

A parish for colored Catholics had been organized about three years prior to the arrival of Father Kelley. He came here August 16, 1915, and on November 21 of that year the cornerstone of the church was laid. The edifice was consecrated and mass celebrated for the first time on May 16, 1916.

Father Kelley immediately set about establishing a school, and in a few years had the Oblate Sisters come here as instructors. For ten years the school was conducted in the basement of the church, and in 1931 the new brick school was opened. This building is sufficiently large to house 120 pupils, whom it carries through a full seven-grade course of instruction. The rectory adjoining the church was erected in 1922.

Father Kelley is serving his second term of six years as one of the four consultors of the St. Joseph's Society of the Sacred Heart, which is governed by the superior general and four consultors. The work of this society is devoted entirely to the colored race, and they have many churches and schools in the South, Washington, Richmond, and other places.

Robert L. Battenwhite, of Chester, Pa., arraigned in police court yesterday before Judge James Reese Duncan, was fined $25 and costs on a charge of reckless driving. Robert Bookes, of Washington also was fined $25 and costs on a similar charge.

Conway Johns, 32, charged with disorderly conduct and minor assault, was fined $25 and costs, and given a suspended jail sentence of 90 days.

Depositors May Get $1,100,000 Dividend

Depositors of the defunct Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. will receive an additional $1,100,000 if the RFC is willing, it was learned yesterday. This will amount to 13 per cent of the total deposits. Depositors already have been paid 50 per cent.

The RFC holds all remaining assets of the Federal-American as security for a loan of $900,000. The loan agreement stated that no further dividends would be paid depositors without its consent.

This additional sum was released for depositors following a recent agreement with one of the large stockholders not to contest further an assessment of $140,000 levied on stockholders. The $1,100,000 represents the total assessments paid by stockholders and was held in trust by the receiver, Cary A. Hardee, pending decision by the courts. The District Supreme Court has decided the assessment was justified.

Miss Campbell Is Bride.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bradley Campbell, of Sandidges, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Roy Thompson Mays.

Funeral Today

DR. HANS WEISS.

Dr. Hans Weiss' Funeral Rites Will Be Today

Juvenile Court Worker Was Killed in Oxford, Pa., by Auto.

Funeral services for Dr. Hans Weiss, 41, international authority on juvenile delinquency and chief social worker for the District Juvenile Court, killed by an automobile Saturday in Oxford, Pa., will be held at 3 p. m. today at the Washington Cathedral. Last rites will be administered by the Rev. Chancellor G. Freeland Peter and the Rev. J. Francis Wenchen. Dr. Weiss' home was in Lee Heights, Va.

Dr. Weiss was born at Maschwanden, Canton of Zurich, Switzerland, on August 15, 1895, and became a United States citizen by naturalization on November 19, 1928. Educated in Switzerland, he held cum laude degrees in social science and law with special work in psychiatry.

He came to Washington, January 21, 1935 to serve as supervisor of probation on the Juvenile Court. He was promoted to director of social work on July 1, 1936. Dr. Weiss came to the court highly recommended as a man of unusual abilities and unique training. His kindly personality and outstanding professional qualifications had won him the affection and respect of his fellow workers in the Juvenile Court.

Before coming to Washington, Dr. Weiss had been assistant superintendent of the Lyman School for Boys, Massachusetts State industrial school. He had devoted his life to children's welfare, working with boys in State industrial schools in New York, New Jersey and California.

For several years he was probation officer in the juvenile court in Boston, under the guidance of the late Judge Cabot. He resigned later to do research work with Sheldon Glueck at Harvard Law School for the Harvard crime commission, and later at the Norfolk State Prison colony in Massachusetts.

Dr. Weiss is survived by his wife, who lives at Lee Heights, Va., with his infant daughter, Ann Elizabeth; his father, retired minister, now engaged in social work in Zurich; his mother, who had arrived in this country Friday for a visit; a sister and two brothers, of Zurich.

2 Soviet Aviators Arrive in Alaska

Ketchikan, Alaska, Aug. 10 (AP).—Two Russian aviators en route to Moscow via the Arctic arrived unheralded here today from Bella Bella, B. C., where they were forced down Saturday.

The airmen, Sigismund Levanevsky and Victory Levchenko, immediately asked for weather reports, intending to take their pontoon-equipped plane to Juneau, original destination of the present flight from Seattle.

A strong tail wind aided the fliers on the hop from Bella Bella, isolated fishing settlement, and they landed here at 3:55 p. m., Eastern standard time.

Rain forced them down at Bella Bella on the third leg of their leisurely flight from Los Angeles to the Russian capital.

Because no word had been heard from the plane's radiophone since it landed at Bella Bella, Russian officials in Seattle had expressed concern over the fliers' safety and were considering means of starting a search when reports came they still were down.

Edward, Incognito, Attracts Throngs

Sibenik, Yugoslavia, Aug. 10 (AP).—King Edward VIII, as the Duke of Lancaster, cruised today among the beautiful islands of the Dalmatian coast as thousands of tourists, many of them Americans, thronged the coastline for a glimpse of His Majesty.

Off for a month's holiday aboard the yacht Nahlin, Edward strolled about the deck, and to those on the shore with strong glasses he appeared to be enjoying himself.

Exact plans for the vacation cruise were contained in two sealed envelopes given to the captain of the Nahlin. They remained undisclosed. It was expected, however, the King would proceed either tomorrow or Wednesday to Split, to the south of Sibenik on the coast, where the commander of the Yugoslav navy, Admiral Politsch, waited to greet him.

Progress Is Reported In Gas-Strike Parley

Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 10 (AP).—Edmund Ruffin, director of the Toledo Industrial Peace Board, late today said some progress had been made toward settlement of a gas union workers' strike, which threatened to interrupt gas service to Toledo.

Members of the union, who walked out today at the plants of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. and its affiliate, the Northwestern Ohio Natural Gas Co., scheduled a meeting for tonight. Ruffin met with representatives of the company and the union today and said some progress had been made during an exchange of opinions. Another meeting will be held tomorrow, he announced.

102, He Survives Accident.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP).—Struck by an automobile driven by a 77-year-old motorist, Henry Peet, 102, apparently was recovered today. The police reported Peet was struck by an automobile driven by Charles W. Lee. The report said Peet walked into the side of Lee's car.

Stratosphere Hop Across U. S. Is Set

Chicago, Aug. 10 (AP).—The first coast-to-coast airplane flight in the substratosphere today was scheduled for September 15.

A "flying test tube" developed by the Transcontinental & Western Air Line will make the hop from Los Angeles to New York, employes of the line reported.

The ship is now undergoing preliminary tests at Kansas City, Mo., these sources said. There, it was disclosed, the plane rose to 30,000 feet in 30 minutes one day last week.

This was the top of a 10,000-foot thick layer of air which the late Wiley Post popularized as the "substratosphere." In this layer the "test tube" was to fly to test the desirability of passenger flights at that level.

Airmen said the 20,000 to 30,000-foot air blanket was "smoother" for flying than the 6,000 to 12,000-foot layer at which most flights are now made because it is far above clouds and other weather troubles.

Leap to Save Son Is Fatal to Mother

Cape Charles, Va., Aug. 10 (AP).—Mrs. Henry Stiles, 23, of Birds Nest, was killed this afternoon when she jumped from a moving truck to save her 6-year-old son from death beneath the wheels of approaching automobiles. The boy escaped injury.

Mrs. Stiles and her son, David, were riding in the front seat of a truck operated by her husband. As they approached Cheriton, clouds of smoke suddenly poured from beneath the hood of the vehicle. Frightened at the sight of the smoke, the boy jumped from the truck directly in the path of several approaching automobiles.

The mother, fearing the child would be killed, leaped from the truck to carry him to safety. Her foot slipped as she left the truck and she fell, her head striking the road. A motorist placed her in his car and started for the Nassawaddox Hospital, but she was dead before she reached the institution.

Stock Withdrawal Is Refused by SEC

By the Associated Press.

For the first time since its action in the widely-publicized Jones case, the Securities and Exchange Commission yesterday denied an application for withdrawal of a statement for the registration of securities.

The denial was on a withdrawal plea of the National Boston Montana Mines Corp., which owns mining properties in Beaverhead and Deer Lodge Counties, Mont. The registration had become effective and, the commission said, some stock sold.

Although saying "we make no finding at this time as to the truth or falsity of the registration statement or the prospectus," the commission added there was evidence "for the conclusion that the registration statement and the prospectus as filed and now effective, as well as the subsequent amendments, are replete with false and misleading statements of material facts."

In the Jones case, the Supreme Court ruled that J. Edward Jones, a New York dealer in oil securities, had the right to withdraw a registration statement which had not yet become effective.

Peace Has Her Victories.

Japan's victory in the marathon race, the epic event of the Olympic games, comes as a fitting sequel to the selection of Tokyo as the seat of this international sports festival four years hence. And it is not merely the most hightly-prized of all the individual trophies which will be carried back to the empire of the rising sun. By their showing in the track and field events alone, to say nothing of swimming, the Japanese athletes have placed their country's total score high in the list of the 50 contesting nations. In points gained Nippon is exceeded only by the United States, Finland and Germany.

There is something which touches the imagination in the victory of a Japanese subject, and a Korean at that, in the race which more than any other symbolizes the classic tradition of the Olympic games. Not since Spiridon Loues, a Greek shepherd boy, won the marathon of 1896 at Marathon itself, has there been a triumph which seemed more appropriate to the spirit of this quadrennial festival. It was the hope of Count de Coubertin that the revival of the old Greek games would do much to strengthen international friendships. But 40 years ago even he could scarcely have foreseen the day when a Korean college student, closely followed by an English miner, would emphasize so strikingly the scope of healthy athletic competition.

Reports from Japan emphasize a very gratifying result of the award of the 1940 Olympics to Tokyo. The selection, it is said, has greatly helped to stabilize Japan's stormy internal politics and to assist those moderates who are seeking to curb the jingoistic elements. Together with the Olympics, four years hence, Japan will celebrate the twenty-sixth centennial of the traditional founding of her ruling house. These events are more important allies for the cause of international stability than would appear at first glance.

Kitei Son, winner of the Berlin marathon, is today a greater hero in Japan than all her generals and admirals. His gold medal is perhaps more esteemed than any national decoration. And history may show that his record 26-mile race has done more than many naval conferences to direct Japan's desire for national distinction into peaceful channels.

A King's Vacation.

King Edward, unable to go to the Riviera for a vacation because of the unrest in Spain, will cruise along the Dalmatian coast. He could scarcely have chosen a better part of the world in which "to get away from it all," as must be his desire. The six months since his father's death have not been the easiest in which to take over a king's responsibilities.

Only royalty (divine or economic) can make the trip properly. For it needs a yacht in which to travel to taste the full delight of that balmy coast of gingerbread hills lapped by crystal blue water. There are roads and trains in Yugoslavia, assuredly. But the principal charm of the country lies along its shore: in the myriad little bays and inlets, in the fishing-towns where bearded men wear the flattest red skull-caps, in the tiny island villages with which the eastern Adriatic is speckled.

The King may begin at the north, say, in Zara. On reflection, however, Zara's chief attraction is its duty-free shops—considerations which could scarcely interest a king. Perhaps, then, he will put in first at Trau, though he must beware the swift tides if he swims there. In Trau, he may well be able to wander through the market-place unrecognized (a king's dream) to inspect the Lion of St. Mark—last trace of the Venetians' rule—on the tombs before the old Roman Church. From Trau, he can proceed to Spalatto (today, Split) where another emperor, Diocletian, was born of slave parents, joined the army, rose to become a general and, as head of the Roman Empire, returned to build a palace where he might "cultivate his cabbages" in preference to wearing the purple. Edward has no such freedom.

And then Ragusa (now called Dubrovnik) with Lacroma across from it—Ragusa of the yellow walls and red-tile roofs where the baggy-trousered hill-folk come down to peddle their gay embroidery. Further south, there's Cattaro with its Norwegian fjord; and the Island of Leucas where the great Dorpfeld believed Penelope sat awaiting Ulysses' return while the suitors raised riot in his halls. Then comes the Gulf of Corinth: Itea with Delphi and Parnassus behind it; New Corinth, the landing place for Corinth and Mycenae; and the Canal, leading through to the Aegean . . . Naxos . . . Delos . . . Thera . . .

Bon voyage, bon voyage, bon voyage!

Profits And Dividends.

The upturn in business, regardless of rival political claims as to the date of its beginning, was not immediately reflected in a rise in profits. For some time production costs were likewise increasing rapidly and causing profit margins to narrow. During the second quarter of the present year, however, industrial earnings were sharply on the ascendant. The adjusted earnings index of the Annalist, covering 168 industrial corporations, attained the highest level reached since the first quarter of 1930, excepting only the last quarter of 1935, when there was also a pronounced advance.

These gains in earnings have been accompanied by a rise in dividends which causes speculation as to the effect of the newly passed revenue act imposing graduated taxes upon undistributed earnings. There is no question that many corporations, preferring to build up a surplus for future lean years by withholding part of their earnings from stockholders, will find such a policy too costly to be followed. Computations of the taxes that would have to be paid by a corporation with net earnings of $1,000,000, if no dividends were paid out, show that the tax on undistributed earnings would amount to $174,488. Added to the so-called normal tax on income, amounting to $148,840, total corporate income taxes would in this case equal almost one-third of earnings.

A tax law which penalizes the withholding of profits will tend to exaggerate fluctuations in income from stock dividends. Business concerns with surplus funds acquired before the tax on undistributed earnings became effective will be inclined to hold on to them in bad years, instead of dipping into reserves, as formerly. On the other hand, businesses without adequate surpluses will be forced to disburse a large percentage of their earnings in good years. The effect of this changed policy in accentuating the rise and the fall of general business activity over long periods of time promises to be pronounced.

To some extent corporations will be encouraged to avoid tax payments on surplus not by increasing dividends but by increasing their expenditures. Needed improvements will doubtless be hastened, and new lines of activity developed. It is interesting, for example, that a large number of concerns are now planning to spend more money on industrial research. Of course that development comes naturally with business improvement. But heavy and punitive forms of taxation on corporate earnings will stimulate the quest for new sources of income, as well as the search for ways to remove income already earned from the grasp of the tax-collecting agencies.

The Brute Spirit Advances.

"I take no prisoners," said a leader of the Spanish rebels to an American correspondent. "Anybody other than uniformed soldiers of the Spanish army caught by me carrying arms finds the death he deserves."

If reports are to be believed, this shocking disregard of elementary standards of decency and humanity is not confined to one side in the Spanish civil war. That is why it has proved so bloody and destructive an affair, with no fewer than 35,000, according to the latest estimates, already killed.

But no nation and no people can assume an attitude of superiority and point a finger of scorn at the Spaniards. Nor can anyone take comfort in the fact that no such terrible things can happen at home.

It is all too plain that since the World War there has been an increasing brutalization of conduct in many parts of the world. One need but contrast the practices pursued by the prewar autocracies, even by Czarist Russia at its worst, with those that are everyday matters with the ruthless dictatorships of today, to see how far the world has retrogressed in this respect.

The injustice done to one man, Dreyfus, shook all France to its foundations and stirred the feelings of the entire world. Now thousands, and in the case of the German Jews hundreds of thousands, are treated in worse than medieval fashion, and the world's indignation quickly subsides. We are seemingly growing immune to atrocities; not because we no longer believe that they occur, but, alas, because they occur and recur so often that our senses become dulled and our capacity for righteous indignation exhausted. It is not the least frightening aspect of the modern scene that this is so.

An Impartial Appraisal.

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the United States Department of Commerce has released its "World Economic Review for 1935." Like previous compilations, the present volume is conspicuous for its objective presentation of facts and its unprejudiced interpretation of data which require explanation. In an atmosphere surcharged with political antagonisms, it is a difficult task to select material for the purpose of tracing the progress of business recovery. It is especially hard for Government officials to weigh facts judicially in the midst of political controversies over the extent and causes of recovery.

One may not always agree with the opinions expressed, but there is a refreshing absence of anything that savors of political propaganda in the present review—a virtue that cannot be claimed for all Government publications. After summarizing the results of detailed surveys covering the trend of national income, industrial output, employment and trade the conclusion is that although recovery has been substantial, business is "still far from a condition in which it gives full employment to labor and utilizes productive equipment to its maximum."

Although this is a simple statement of a very obvious fact, a good many business analysts are so absorbed in contemplation of recovery signs that they neglect the existence of obstacles ahead. The study sponsored by the Department of Commerce makes no attempt to minimize the seriousness of the unemployment problem, despite the increase in numbers at work. It also calls attention to the limited demands of private industry for new capital, adding that the type of enterprise made possible by such operations is "particularly potent in stimulating economic activity and hence employment."

There is also a pointed reference to the need for cutting budgetary deficits in order to eliminate, to some extent, the present uncertainties regarding future taxation. This emphatic linking of the future course of business recovery with the solution of our budgetary problems comes very close to being a public warning against continuance of present spending policies. An official information service certainly could not venture to say much more without laying itself open to charges of trenching upon forbidden ground.

Lincoln Steffens.

Forty years of journalistic research, during the course of which he had opportunities to study a world war and a major revolution at first hand, led Lincoln Steffens to the conclusion that "good" men are helpless in a world generally "bad." In these circumstances, he recommended that the world should either change its economic system or revise traditional concepts of good and evil. Yet, Steffens himself became neither a revolutionary nor a cynic. Instead he retired—albeit under doctor's orders—to his home in California. And there what he himself described as his "optimistic grin" is now removed by death.

He was in the midst of writing the third volume of his autobiography—a unique work. For it was designed not as an invitation to the world to look at Lincoln Steffens, but as an invitation to the world to see itself through his penetrating eyes. Steffens had the gift of expressing not only his own views simply, but also those of men with whom he came in contact. His long writing career took him all over the world and thus such different types as Theodore Roosevelt, Richard Croker, Benito Mussolini, Henry Ford, Big Bill Haywood and Lenin appear in his pages, each drawn with a veracity that makes them live on paper. He liked all robust figures, particularly the "bad" men, because he believed they were the more honest. And this was strange because if ever a man was brought up to revere only the Mosaic virtues, it was Lincoln Steffens.

In this he was typical of his times and country. But, unlike most of his contemporaries, Steffens grew to appreciate the other edge of the "terrible, swift sword"—the cant and emptiness of the Golden Rule and its corollaries when applied to only certain aspects of the Twentieth Century world. And his latter days were dedicated to an attempt to rationalize this view, confirmed by every new scene he looked into. He ended by believing that whatever is, is right—provided one sincerely thinks it so.

Looking Ahead.

The first seared leaf has not yet fallen, but shop windows are already full of pelts and felts.

With a keen imagination, a woman can visualize just how she will look when bent against winter winds. But it will take more than that for the average male to digest this fall's forecasts. If he reads the fashion news from Paris it will be incomprehensible to him how anyone can follow it and, at the same time, keep from looking like an apparition from Edgar Allan Poe's most gruesome tale. For veils are being designed to blot out features, gloves have no fingertips, and hats without tops will put stovepipes to shame.

It is a little too early, however, for the conservative woman and the uncomprehending man to throw up their hands in despair. Fall fashions which come out prematurely are invariably startling to behold. There are three possible explanations for this: the designers may be putting out "feelers" to see just how far they can go; it may be an honest effort to give a new joie de vivre to the tail-end of a cotton-tired summer; or it may simply be that anything guaranteed to keep out the snow looks cockeyed in mid-August.

The people are sharply divided into two classes at this time: The ignorant, illogical, prejudiced and emotional rabble—and those who are going to vote for your candidate.

Condensed summary from overseas: European national problems and war debts continue unsettled.

"You can avoid most troubles by keeping hard at work," declares a psychologist. Yes, and you can avoid most of a shower of rain by jumping into the river.

We received a questionnaire from the Literary Digest asking if we knew that railroad rates had been reduced. What is a railroad?

Airplanes Vs. Flutes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This has been my first summer in Washington. As a New Hampshirite, I can truthfully say that the summer has been alleviated to a large extent by the Watergate concerts. And I want to take this opportunity to commend the praiseworthy work of the orchestra and all those who have made these concerts possible. It is a great step toward making Washington more than a political Capital.

However, I, with last Friday night's audience, and I believe the orchestra would join us also, would like to protest against the inroads (I should say the in-airways) of science. It is a beautiful sight to see these seemingly Jules Vernian one or two eyed airplanes come out of the dark blue horizon and silver streak the Potomac; but—this optical beauty is soon lost and turned into disgust when the motors first compete and then completely drown out a wonderful tonal and beautifully executed flute solo from Bizet's "L'Arlesienne Suite."

One could not help but wonder if the pilots were anti-flutists. Because during two successive flute solos in "Bizet's Suite," two different planes hovered over the acoustic range for just about the duration of the solo passages. With full or sectional orchestra, the beauty of the music and volume of the orchestra obliviates any extraneous attractions or noises; but the delicate pulsations of a flute, harp, or muted strings are lost to us 25-cent sitters when they come within the orbit of airplane vibrations. Jackson And Roosevelt.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It has been disconcerting to students of our political history to read about objections to Mr. Roosevelt as a Democrat. It was the friends of the Administration of Andrew Jackson, who adhered to the party name of "Democrats," and it was the acts of President Jackson, like those of Mr. Roosevelt, that alienated the commercial sections of the voting population, 100 years ago.

In President Jackson's Administration, the weight of the gold eagle of the United States was reduced 12 grains, being equal to 66½ cents less in value than the old coin of that denomination. He closed the Bank of the United States which dominated the economic life of the Nation, saying in his veto message of July 10, 1832: "It is to be regretted that the rich and powerful too often bend the acts of government to their selfish purposes." . . . "Many of our rich men have not been content with equal protection and equal benefits, but have besought us to make them richer by acts of Congress. . . .

"If we cannot at once, in justice to vested interests, make our Government what it ought to be, because of improvident legislation, we can at least take a stand against all new grants of monopolies and exclusive privileges, against any prostitution of our Government to the advancement of the few at the expense of the many."

Certainly Mr. Roosevelt has followed the path outlined by the father of the Democratic Party.

A Prediction Of Fascism In America.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. Gamble's lonely defense of a policy between laissez-faire and liberalism should fall on deaf ears. I doubt, even if Mr. Gamble could yodel, whether his song would become more than a hymn to a dying day and class. The issue, as Mr. Gamble points it out, is between communism and liberalism, and nothing more absurd has developed in a democratic brain than this; the issue is not between communism and liberalism, but it is between democracy and fascism.

A few years ago if one were to yell "Fascist" at a liberal or a conservative who disagreed with certain political theories, the crowd would laugh at you—now, the term "Fascist" as applied to certain reactionaries in the intellectual and political camps is no laughing matter. Fascism, in more than one European nation, has become an actuality; fascism in America is still in its swaddling clothes, but that makes the menace just as great, and just as possible so long as we are confronted with the vacillating Mr. Gambles, who, consciously or unconsciously, become the Social Democrats, the Kerenskys and the Hitlers of tomorrow. Behind the front of the pseudo-democratic reactionaries lies the structure of the future totalitarian state and the terror of a Fascist America.

Mr. Gamble is at liberty to object to the above, but his objection would be weak if we remember the Manchester Guardian report on March 23, 1934:

The Croix de Feu, the Jeunesses Patriotes, the Action Francaise and other reactionary organizations have probably not more than 25,000 to 30,000 "fighting members" in Paris. Nevertheless, if this force were armed, it would be sufficiently impressive, though even then it could do little if it had the police and the army against it. But there is just a danger that at the critical moment both the police and the army might be on their side, or at any rate neutral.

The fate of sincere liberals and democrats in the countries of Italy and Germany should convince Mr. Gamble that the odds against his survival are slim indeed, even with his anti-communist front.

The form of American fascism is hard to predict, although the picture presented in Lewis' "It Can't Happen Here" is probably a mild one. Certain aspects of the terror in the South against mill-workers, sharecroppers, Negroes and liberal professors, and the deeds of that Horst Wessel gang in the North—the Black Legion—predict a sordid and bloody future for an America under the black or brown shirts. That we are in for a change is inevitable; the Current History Magazine's associate editor remarked in July, 1933:

The new America will not be capitalist in the old sense, nor will it be Socialist. If at the moment the trend is toward fascism, it will be an American fascism, embodying the experience, the traditions and the hopes of a great middle-class nation.

Here again, we meet the swan song of a decadent class, the paean of an ivory-tower sitter who tries to lift himself up by his boot-straps into a Valhalla peopled by the mythical gods of a middle class—that heterogeneous mass practically destroyed by the crisis, and forced into jobs and professions formerly deemed only worthy of menials and slaves.

Will there come, as Mr. Gamble hopes, a savior from this social scum, the supporters of Coughlin, Lemke, the Rev. Mr. Smith, Hearst and countless other demagogues this Nation has sired? I doubt it. Indications are that the worst of us will herd the best of us into concentration camps before many years are past, unless a Popular Front rises in America as in Spain and France to offset the schemes of the reactionaries.

In this fight we have not time to haggle over political affiliations—it is a common fight and a common enemy, and even Mr. Gamble can take part in it—on the side of the fence with Liberty against Reaction.

'Successful Fisherman.'

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Who is Harold Ickes that he should become the spearhead of the Democratic assault on the Republican nominee for the Presidency? He has been every specie of a Republican that there ever was. He has fished in all the Republican streams that flowed since the turn of the century, whether the stream flowed into the Great Lakes, the Atlantic, the Gulf, or the Pacific. Failing to make any good catches in these waters, he decided that he would cast a hook and line into the stream that was flowing through Democratic domain in the year 1932. He observed that this stream was being stocked with some peculiar species. At least, they were not any too familiar with Republican tackle and bait, especially the latter. So he figured his chances were as good in these waters as the waters in which he had theretofore tried his luck.

But he did not contemplate any catches better than a tuna or two (the Commissioner for Indian Affairs, at the most), so he was entirely unprepared for a whale as a catch. When he found that such a fish was in these waters and willing to take some liberties with his tackle and bait, he argued that he would never be able to make a landing of this fellow. And just here the strangest thing of all piscatory experience happened. This whale of a fish (the Secretaryship of the Interior) offered a perfect solution of his difficulties. Why, it said that if he would just hold the rod, that it, the whale, would jump out on dry land and offer no resistance. And, to the consternation and chagrin of Democratic fishermen, veterans and novices alike, just that thing happened.

This piece of fortuitous experience, or luck, or by whatever turn of the wheel of fortune you may call it, went to this piscator's head. This makes him the king fisherman of this stream flowing through Democratic domain (strange to relate) labeled Democratic. In this capacity he arrogates to himself the office of speaking for the Democracy of the Nation; and just as well that he does, for he knows what it takes to make any and all varieties of a Republican, for he has been them all. This gives what he says some aspects of the authentic. But I am wondering what he will be saying about the Democrats when this stream he is now fishing in becomes low and muddy.

Business In Government.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I agree with Mr. Frank Putnam when he says that the owner of a business would rather have Landon as the manager of his firm than Roosevelt. Our President's whole life has been that of a public servant, not of a "practcal" business man.

Mr. Putnam's comments resemble the voice of an ambitious business man who believes the United States Government should be dealt with as if it were a business enterprise. Doesn't he know that the two are as different as night from day? As I see it, the end of business is to make money for the owner, whereas the end of this Government is not only to tend to the wounds of the Nation, which some ignorant, selfish or unscrupulous business men, unknowingly or otherwise, have had so great a hand in inflicting, but also to attempt to destroy the causes of these wounds. Granting that some business methods should be employed in governing, I still can't see why many business men, who were rescued a few years back, should attempt to make the terms "government" and "business" synonymous.

Of course I can't, nor can any observing, unbiased person, agree with Mr. Putnam that the employes of this Nation will pick Landon. Where can a better example of the employe class be found than within the ranks of organized labor and tell me, whom has organized labor recently indorsed for the Presidency?

Kidnaping—By Coach.

Post Office, Tuesday.

CONSIDERING the well-known penchant for anniversaries which distinguishes our editorial-writing brethren, we are surprised to note that they this year failed to commemorate the 110th anniversary of the King (English) vs. Wakefield, G. & W.

Considering our own share in the penchant, we are equally surprised, by the necessity of confessing that, until E. H. Bierstadt reminded us of it, the anniversary had escaped even our elephantine memory.

Yet the affair ought to be recalled because it contained all (well, nearly all) the elements of romance; abduction of a lovely little heiress by a young Lochinvar of (of sorts)—wedding at Gretna Green—flight to France—pursuit by wrathful guardians.

And it ought to be recalled because it evoked the legal talents of two men who became famous; for the prosecution, Henry Brougham (afterward Baron Brougham and Vaux); for the defense, the subsequent Lord Abinger.

* * *

Marriage could not be entered into lightly in England a century ago. It isn't easy now; but in those days (see Wilke Collins) English minors were constantly eloping over the border to Gretna Green, the Scotch Elkton, where, under Scottish laws, the blacksmith-parson, David Laing, could—and did—marry them by the scantiest of ceremonies.

Were such unions binding in England?

It was hoped that the Wakefield-Turner cause would prove a test case.

* * *

In 1826 Gibbon Wakefield, a penniless young gentleman, consumed by an Horatio-Algerian ambition to better his fortunes, decided that the easiest way to achieve his aim was to marry money—which betrays the essential innocence of his nature. He learned that one of the richest girls in England was 15-year-old Ellen Turner, whose parents lived in Cheshire, but who herself attended the select female seminary of Mistress Elizabeth Daublet, at Liverpool.

Expeditious Gibbon had never set eyes on the Ellen. Yet what of that? Isn't love blind, anyhow? He enlisted the assistance of his brother, William, determining to see the girl forthwith—and to marry her 24 hours thereafter.

* * *

The cheerful brothers bought a second-hand coach of evident respectability and sent it to the school, with William's servant and a letter purporting to have been written by the Turners' new family physician: Mrs. Turner had been taken seriously ill—wanted to see her daughter immediately. Would Mistress Daubly have the goodness to dispatch Mistress Ellen by this, the physician's, coach?

Mistress Turner dispatched Mistress Ellen.

* * *

The brothers Wakefield met her en route, at Manchester. They said that her father, financially ruined, was in flight before an army of bailiffs, but that (Mr. Bierstadt's summary, in his book on "Curious Trials") they "had a rich uncle, who had agreed to advance £60,000" if Ellen would marry Gibbon Wakefield. The ardent lover even "pretended to read a letter from the (Turner) family solicitor, alleging that only this way could Mr. Turner be saved."

And Ellen consented! Blacksmith Laing performed the ceremony at Gretna Green. Gibbon hurried his bride to Calais, whence, he probably fancied, he could comfortably negotiate with her parents.

* * *

Therein, however, he was mistaken. The family's envoys ran him down, told the girl the truth (whereupon she properly cried, "I will never go near you again; you have deceived me!") and hauled her husband home—for trial with brother William, on a charge of abduction.

* * *

But was Gibbon really a husband?

Force in the elopement would invalidate the marriage, even under Scotch law, whereas the only fraud of which that law took cognizance was fraud involving identity—and in this case no such fraud existed. The future Lord Abinger did not argue, as the facts entitled him to argue, that the marriage had never been consummated. He produced testimony to prove that no force had been employed: on their Gretna Green journey, the couple had laughed, chatted, munched gingerbread.

* * *

Alas, the Court took another line! The only question that mattered was a question of abduction—and abduction (by deceit) had been admitted.

So the case that was to test Gretna Green marriages didn't test anything. Each of the Wakefields got a three-years' sentence, and Ellen had to get a divorce by Act of Parliament. Brother William disappeared from view. Lochinvar Gibbon Wakefield went to New Zealand and there behaved himself well. Ellen became a Mrs. Leigh, of Lyme, and, dying young, left, as issue, one daughter.

* * *

Undoubtedly she had been badly treated. But would any 15-year-old schoolgirl of 1936 believe all that rigmarole that this 15-year-old schoolgirl of 1826 believed?

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler.

Behind The Machine.

The Connecticut State Journal, a shrewd and watchful organ of the Republican party, comes out with the shocking suggestion that James A. Farley is not responsible for the sinister specter of Farleyism in our politics but that Mr. Roosevelt himself is to blame for this scourge

Do you suppose there can be any truth in that?

It is a grave insinuation, but this editor appears to be a keen man, and he may know something which most of us don't even suspect. So I wish he would get specific and let us know the worst about Mr. Roosevelt, because, as matters stand, Mr. Farley is carrying the target for the Administration and may be the victim of a cruel wrong. The truth might be a terrible blow to our illusions about Mr. Roosevelt, but we could brace ourselves and take it somehow.

The State Journal's bombshell, as you might call it, was hurled at me in reply to a recent essay of mine on the sinister specter. In that piece I said nothing more than I had heard from patriots on the platform in the Republicans' own convention in Cleveland. I am rather gullible in this way, and when I heard Senator Stiewer denounce Farleyism I took that to mean that Mr. Farley was the sordid spoilsman of the New Deal. If there is anything I hate in public life it is sinister specters, so I denounced it myself strictly in the interests of good government, adding that Mr. Roosevelt no doubt was the innocent victim of Mr. Farley's sordid machinations.

* * * *

But now the astute editor of the State Journal heaps ridicule on me and suspicions on our President. He says I don't know what I am talking about and puts in a very plain suggestion that Mr. Roosevelt knows all about the character of Mr. Farley's appointees and the political standard of fitness.

I suppose that means that Mr. Roosevelt knows the true nature of the Pendergast machine in Kansas City, the Chicago machine, the New Orleans and Boston and New York machines and Frank Hague's machine in Jersey. It must mean that he is fully aware of the sordidness of these machines but does business with them, anyway. It means that he knew why old Senator Bilbo of Mississippi was put to work clipping newspapers at $6,000 a year of the taxpayers' money while he was fixing to run for the Senate. Senator Bilbo was put to work cutting up papers to keep off Pat Harrison's neck, but I never thought Mr. Roosevelt knew anything about that. I thought Farley deceived him into an honest belief that Bilbo was the best paper cutter in America.

And those machines. That Kansas City machine has been suspected of relations with the underworld. The New Orleans machine takes money from gamblers for tolerating violations of the law. And the Chicago machine takes money from ladies who sit around places and converse with gentlemen to whom they have not been properly introduced.

Is this editor trying to tell us that Mr. Roosevelt knows all about these machines and has truck with them, anyway? Is he trying to tell our citizens that our President knowingly dictates or even permits the appointment of judges, collectors and prosecutors on the basis of their party regularity in their home districts?

* * * *

This is a pretty grave thing if true, and the more shocking to a man whose ideals are represented by the fine non-partisan patriotism of Mr. Hoover's Walter Brown. Or the noble Republican altruism of Mr. Harding's Harry Daugherty and Will Hays. I imagine a man of such ideals must feel pretty scornful about a President who would knowingly permit political considerations to influence his appointments and then pretend otherwise. Or ally himself with corrupt local machines.

But what puzzles me is how the editor ever stumbled onto the information. Genius, I suppose.

said the flames still were 15 miles from the ranch which the monarch owns and visited as the Prince of Wales.

Alexander said low bush country and open prairie in the line of the fire would help to bring the blaze under control before it endangers the ranch.

Thousands Fight Fires.

By the Associated Press.

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 10.—Thousands of men and boys poured into forests on Lake Superior shores tonight to fight flames which threatened their homes.

Three thousand WPA workers were released from their jobs to join the firefighting forces in northern Minnesota, where cross roads communities were threatened with extinction.

Forty-five residents of two settlements, Skibo and Allen Junction, were ordered to be ready to flee before advancing flames. A train waited at Allen Junction to evacuate settlers if the blaze there jumped the St. Louis River, where 1,500 men were on the fire line.

A dozen blazes were burning out of control.

Dense smoke clouds spread over the countryside and made travel hazardous. Two firefighting trucks collided in the murk and one driver was injured.

A fire which burned within 3 miles of Iron River, Wis., swung north suddenly toward other settlements. Other blazes, all uncontrolled, swept toward Beldwin, in west central Douglas County; Bennett, to the southwest; Cornucopia, on the north shore of Lake Superior. Two thousand WPA men and CCC boys were battling them.

Task of Pruning 40 Emergency Agencies Would Require Great Political Courage.

Date.	Classified Fed'l Workers.	All Fed'l Workers.
June 30, 1932...	467,161	583,196
June 30, 1933...	456,096	572,096
June 30, 1934...	450,628	673,095
June 30, 1935...	455,264	719,440
June 30, 1936	Not available	824,259

Classification	No. of employes	Monthly pay roll
Civil executive	824,259	$129,487,167
Ag. dept. per diem	24,178	1,173,469
CCC workers.	337,581	16,039,813
Judicial employes	1,947	470,000
Legislative	5,043	1,188,000
Military	297,433	22,041,000
WPA	2,322,043	122,596,196
Veterans Administration (Not including bonus)	852,248	33,163,841

240,000 New Workers Followed Last 'Slash.'

Assuming June was a normal month, the total direct pay roll for the year would range around $3,912,000,000. The Department of Commerce estimated the total National income to be $53,587,000,000. Assuming that is correct, and many critics think it is too high, the Government's annual pay roll outlay would be about 7.3 per cent of the national income.

If the history of past reorganization efforts is repeated, few workers need fear for their jobs. In fact, under the so-called $25,000,000 reorganization plan put into effect by Roosevelt in the summer of 1933, the net result was a huge increase in personnel. For every function of government that was abolished under the 1933 reorganization attempt, manifold emergency additions were made to the complicated machinery of administration. Many employes released from their regular jobs found employment in the rapidly expanding New Deal structure, and more than 240,000 new workers were brought in.

So rapid has been the growth of new agencies and functions, and so kaleidoscopic the changes in their names and make-up, that one emergency unit is still kept busy cataloguing the fluctuating administrative structure that is our present Government.

Agencies, boards, commissions, committees were established by executive order as well as by act of Congress. Some of them filled temporary purposes, the terms of some expired by law, the acts creating others were invalidated by the Supreme Court, but few were ever abolished outright. Where emergency laws themselves were invalidated, the new agencies administering those laws usually were continued, frequently tucked away as a division of some other department.

Although under present classifications, and confusion of functions, it is difficult to demark what constitutes an independent emergency unit, at least 40, many with interlocking and overlapping purposes, still survive

This does not include old agencies which have taken on new functions by act of Congress since March, 1933. The latter group would include the merged Farm Credit Administration, the Interstate Commerce Commission, which has taken on motor transport regulation; the Federal Trade Commission, which has taken over numerous new functions, including administration of the chain store law; the Federal Power Commission, which administers some phases of the utility holding company law.

Many of the new agencies found their services cutting across their own and regular department lines, giving rise to duplications of effort that largely inspired the current reorganization move.

Byrd Will Attack Duplicated Functions.

Senator Harry Flood Byrd, who initiated the move for reorganization, told The Post that his Senate Investigating Committee will strike first at these duplicated functions.

"The first step is to ascertain the facts with respect to overlapping activities and duplication of effort," he said. "The chief field as I see it is in the 40 new bureaus and boards. As soon as the facts have been assembled, I intend to hold public hearings and to present a practicable plan to the next Congress.

Byrd, who believes that the issues involved are important enough to merit non-partisan consideration of the highest order, is anxious to keep reorganization out of politics.

But the question of waste in Government far antedated the Byrd investigation, and it was apparent from the start that proposals to coordinate the ramified emergency structure would be carried into the campaign. The Republican national committee already has published the following charges:

"Before the Roosevelt Administration there were 10 agencies dealing with the production and distribution of power. In 1935 there were 23 agencies concerned with it.

"Two agencies of the Federal Government were primarily concerned with the settlement of labor disputes in 1932. Four years later 12 agencies are interested in the settlement of labor disputes.

"Housing problems were being considered by four agencies of the Government before the Roosevelt Administration. In 1936, 15 agencies are dealing with the problem.

"In 1932 there were six agencies of the Government to which foreign trade was a major concern. Today there are 12 agencies concerned with this activity.

"Four Government agencies were making loans to farmers four years ago. Today there are 13 agencies engaged in making such loans.

"Eight agencies of the Federal Government exercised extensive control over the public lands. In 1936 such control was being exercised by 15 different organizations in the Federal Government."

In combing the New Deal haystack for the nearly forgotten economy needle, the reorganizers are not setting out to burn down the stack.

They hope to divide the permanently necessary from the obviously useless, and rebuild he salvaged parts into something like a working maching. And that is a lot to hope.

Here is a revised list of the new agencies that have survived the New Deal's stormy ups and downs, and will be first scrutinized by the reorganization experts:

Commodity Credit Corporation.
Export-Import Bank of Washington.
Rural Electrification Administration.
Resettlement Administration.
Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.
Federal Housing Administration.
Federal Home Loan Bank Board.
Home Owners Loan Corporation.
Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.
Public Works Administration.
PWA Housing Division.
Electric Home and Farm Authority.
Federal Alcohol Administration (yet to be set up).
Federal Communications Commission.
Securities and Exchange Commission.
United States Maritime Commission (yet to be set up).
National Labor Relations Board.
Railroad Retirement Board.
National Bituminous Coal Commission (now largely a research unit).
Tennessee Valley Authority.
National Archives.
Central Statistical Board.
Foreign Trade Zones Board.
Social Security Board.
Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation.
Works Progress Administration.
National Youth Administration.
Emergency Conservation Work.
National Munitions Control Board.
National Resources Committee.
National Mediation Board.
National Emergency Council.
United States Information Service.
AAA Division of the Department of Agriculture.
NRA, with remaining functions now assigned to both Commerce and Labor departments.
National Re-employment Service.
Committee of Industrial Analysis.

Maryland to Open Bids On $55,000 Bond Issue

Annapolis, Aug. 10 (AP).—Bids on an issue of $55,000 State of Maryland 3 per cent bonds will be opened by the board of public works here at noon Wednesday. The issue is part of the $855,000 construction loan authorized by the 1935 Legislature. A $100,000 issue of these bonds was sold last year, while $700,000 was tax transferred as the State's payment to the teachers' retirement fund.

The proceeds of the $55,000 issue will be used for the Maryland Tuberculosis Sanitarium at Henryton, Carroll County.

Automobile—A vehicle used to find a parking space; a motorized equipage generally found beside a fire hydrant; a carriage attached to a loud horn.

Carburetor—The thing that is on the opposite side of the motor from the side where you look for it; a contraption blamed for everything except the grease spots on the upholstery.

Dashboard—A place where so many curious instruments, dials, etc., are displayed that a man never knows whether to light his cigar on the clock, or look at the electric lighter to see how fast he is going.

Speedometer—A dial which the driver watches now and then to determine how crazy he is; a clock-like device for making certain that the sign "Speed Limit 30 Miles" is ignored.

Clutch—The thing you throw out when you throw out the thing you throw out.

Oil gauge—Something you look at when the car comes to a dead stop after a series of loud knocks.

Brakes—Bands which close about the wheels usually too late to make much difference; gadgets which occasion the frequent inquiry, "What's burning?"

Transmission—Just another place you forget to lubricate.

* * * *

Chassis—What's left after the collision; the part of a car used to help fill in meadow land marked "Public Dump."

Accelerator—A gadget from which you remove your right foot when she says, "I think I hear a motorcycle behind us, Arthur."

Radiator—The part of the car to which you attach a squirrel tail so you can tell, regardless of the picnic, which way you are facing.

Fan—The part of the car where that funny noise comes from; the place where you locate the squeak after paying $11 to oil everything else.

Battery—A black box in which you forget to put water; a square container which is under the seat if you look for it under the floorboards and under the floorboards if you look for it under the seat.

Bumper—A band of steel placed in front of the car in case you hit the other fellow first, and in back of the car in case he hits you first.

* * * *

Fenders—Smooth surfaces on each side of a car and used to record collisions, close calls, mental lapses, etc.

Valves—All I know is that it costs about $35 to grind 'em.

Rumble seat—A compartment over the rear wheels used to throw suit cases, sacks of potatoes, old rags, dead fish and week-end guests.

Tool kit—A 10-cent bag containing the cheapest and most inadequate tools obtainable and generally supplied to the owner with a car costing about $2,500; the reason most autoists have to wait for a tow-car if a nut comes off.

Shooting Stars, 'Size Of Pin,' Flash Tonight

Philadelphia, Aug. 10 (U.P.).—The perseid meteors, brilliant bits of matter known as shooting stars, will make their annual appearance tomorrow night.

Appearing no larger than the head of a pin, the "perseids" will live their life with a flash of dazzling light as they enter the solar system from outer space. The flare lasts but a second and the minute meteors disappear while still 50 miles or more above the ground.

Favorable conditions are forecast for the inspiring display, which is viewed annually by thousands of amateur astronomers as they attempt o count he "perseids" as they fall from the heavens.

Lewis Assails Landon Before Labor's Nonpartisan League

Harris & Ewing.

Candid shots as John L. Lewis, president of United Mine Workers, and organizer of the C. I. O., spoke before Lanor's Nonpartisan League during which he attacked Gov. Landon, Republican Presidential nominee and also advised labor to organize politically for the coming campaign.

Liberal Party In 1940 Is Aim Of Labor Rally

witnessed a more brazen piece of political effrontery than it is now witnessing when the leaders of the Republican Party nonchalantly ask the American people in the next election in November to elect for themselves to the office of Chief Executive of the United States a puppet President responsible to the Standard Oil Co., the steel industry, the Hearst newspapers and the bankers of Wall street—a pitiful puppet from whom you and I and the average man who works for a living may expect, if he should be elected, no more consideration than his masters who discovered him, who nominated him and who are trying to elect him, will permit him to give you and me and the average man."

Lewis predicted that both Pennsylvania and New York would go Democratic in the November elections, called Roosevelt "the greatest humanitarian who ever served in the Presidency," and, referring to foreign transformations in government, declared that "breakdowns come when the people do not get their share of the national wealth."

Hillman in his speech declared that "everything that will affect the future of labor is at stake" in this campaign, and reiterated Berry's statement that "after the election of 1936, there probably will be a realignment in the political organizations in this country."

Hillman referred to Landon's recent broadened labor stand, outlined in a letter to Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate.

"With all due regard to one of the minority candidates, Norman Thomas, I think his letters to Mr. Landon try to pull him out of that position which he placed himself in, but we know from the platform, the record, the man and the interests back of him, that the election of Landon will put the National Manufacturers' Association and all their allies in power of the national Government November next."

"Represent Masses."

Hillman said he was calling on groups to make the 1936 election "a mandate for liberalism, a mandate for constructive progressivism."

"We can do it because we represent the great masses of the people, labor in its broadest term, the liberal desire of the great masses of the American people."

Following the three scheduled speeches, delegates from the various States were called to the platform by Berry and gave unvarying indorsements of the President and prophesies of his re-election. One, David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, said he has been a Socialist since he was 16, but had recently resigned from the Socialist party to work for Roosevelt's re-election.

From Topeka, Kans., meanwhile, came dispatches quoting Munro Roberts, St. Louis labor leader, as viewing Gov. Alf Landon's labor record as "satisfactory" and one that labor would accept once it was familiar with the facts.

"Landon's labor record is satisfactory," Roberts asserted. "I have investigated it thoroughly and when all the facts are known to labor generally the Nation's workingmen will find that it is all right. Their votes won't be influenced by wild charges.

"Of course, there have been a few labor leaders who have attacked Landon. But these charges can and will be refuted."

Defends Landon.

F. W. Brinkerhoff, editor of the Pittsburg, Kans., Headlight and Sun, in an interview-broadcast with William Hard last night in the radio time of the Republican National Committee, declared "Alf Landon has fought the big oil companies all his life in business, and the big oil companies have fought him in politics."

"To call Alf Landon an oil trust candidate is just 100 per cent absurd," Brinkerhoff said, declaring that Landon's whole career in private business and in politics has been on exactly the other side from the big pipe line and refining companies.

"Alf Landon is not a dealer in oil," Brinkerhoff continued. "He is a digger for oil. He has had oil on his shirt, oil on his hat, oil on his pants, oil on his boots. He does not buy or sell oil stock. He produces oil. He finds oil, pumps oil and sells oil—oil itself—to the big companies which own the pipe lines. He is a producer—like a farmer. * * * Landon has been an 'independent' all his life. And he has led the fights of the 'independents' against the big oil companies."

Roosevelt Indorsed.

Denver, Aug. 10 (AP).—The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers indorsed President Roosevelt for re-election.

Roosevelt, a resolution said, "has distinguished himself during his term of office by impelling Congress to pass legislation emeliorating the cause of labor and protecting the same from coercion from employers in the cause of self-organization."

Gov. Alf M. Landon, the Republican nominee, was criticised in the resolutions as being "unfair" to organized labor. He was specifically condemned for sending State troops into southeastern Kansas during a zinc mine strike last year.

British Flier Is Killed By Arabs; Second Hurt

Jerusalem, Aug. 10 (U.P.).—Two Royal Air Force officers, returning from Gethsemane, were shot by Arabs today. One died, spurring the police and military to renewed efforts to pacify Palestine.

Included among new incidents was an attack by 48 Arabs on the Iraq petroleum pipe line. They ignited the escaping oil. A strike of Arab employes of the Iraq Petroleum Co. at Haifa spread to port and railway workers, but officials said that all essential services were being maintained.

Roosevelt's Letter to Berry

The text of President Roosevelt's letter to George L. Berry, president of labor's Nonpartisan League, read at the league's first national convention yesterday, follows:

My dear Maj. Berry:

It gives me real pleasure to extend a word of greeting through you to labor's Nonpartisan League upon the occasion of the meeting of its State chairmen in Washington.

I am certain that you and your associates are coming to Washington to join in a thorough consideration of the vital issues of the time and to consider how best to co-operate in the great task of promoting national progress and of enlarging the sphere of human rights through democracy of opportunity.

It is fully realized by all of us that you are gathering to support a political cause, but that merely makes it the more certain that you are determined to enlarge the scope of human welfare in our Nation.

I should like to have you know that I am sincerely proud that you are gathering in support of my candidacy. This could not be the case if you did not know, out of the experience of the past three years, that the present Administration has endeavored to promote the ideal of justice for the great masses of America.

Trying to Correct Evils.

We all know that our country has been going through profound changes and that these changes have necessitated special reconsideration of the poblems of the wage earners and the farmers. Automatic machinery, the device of corporate ownership and management, the monumental accumulations of capital—these are some of the factors that have made it necessary for our country and its Government to look at men and measures from a new point of view, seeking new means for the restoration of equality and opportunity.

During the past three years we have endeavored to correct through legislation certain of the evils in our economic system. We have sought to put a stop to certain economic practices which did not promote the general welfare.

Some of the laws which were enacted were declared invalid by the Supreme Court. It is a notable fact that it was not the wage earners who cheered when those laws were declared invalid. I greet you in the faith that future history will show, as past history has so repeatedly and so effectively shown, that a return to the reactionary practices is ever short-lived. Having tasted the benefits of liberation, men and women do not for long forego those benefits.

Working for Same Goal.

I have implicit faith that we shall find our way to progress through law. Your support is a priceless contribution toward continued faith in that outcome.

What is of vast importance at this critical time is the fact that we have a common heritage of principle and that we are bound, with millions of our fellow Americans, in a common determination to preserve human freedom and enlarge its sphere and to prevent forever a return to that despotism which comes from unlicensed power to control and manipulate the resources of our Nation, and the destiny of human lives.

In extending to all who attend your meeting my hearty felicitations, I am heartened by the conviction that we are all working for the same ideal—the restoration and preservation of human liberty and human rights.

Life In A Trailer

By William Lyon Phelps.

"Folding Bedouins."

The phrase, I think, is Eugene Fields'; though I do not remember to have seen it before. This book ascribes it to Fields, and I can, of course, remember the times when folding beds were a constant theme for humor, both in writing and on the stage.

This little book, called "Folding Bedouins," is by the distinguished journalist and novelist, Howard Vincent O'Brien, of Chicago, and is published in that city by the firm of Willett, Clark & Co. It describes life in a trailer, how the author, with his wife, his daughter, and his daughter's fiance, left Chicago on a bitter winter day, and traveled South, driving their car and pulling a convenient trailer behind them. They entered Florida, spent some time there, and returned North. During the entire season, they lived happily and much more cheaply in their trailer than they could have lived at home. The book is copiously and humorously illustrated.

When some years ago I read Sheila Kaye Smith's novel, "The Gypsy Wagon," I wondered how soon, owing to taxes and difficulty of finding employment, the major part of the population would have as their only home a vehicle; in England drawn by a horse, in America by a motor-car.

An enormous number of people are now doing this, some by necessity, others for fun. They find it is the cheapest way to spend a vacation, to change the climate, and to have the fun of the open road. Thousands are doing this in the summer, and more and more are going South in trailers in the winter. George Ade's joke, "I know this is going to be a severe winter, because all the cars are going South," has become fact instead of fancy.

* * * *

Now the beauty of this small volume is that it contains only the truth. Mr. O'Brien is a skillful writer, hence there is plenty of humor and imagination displayed in the descriptions. But it is the perfect guide for those who are contemplating either this summer or in the coming winter a journey in a trailer. He states frankly the advantages and the disadvantages; the practical difficulties are mentioned in full detail. The expenses of travel, the anchorages for the night, every problem that confronts the use of the trailer is clearly presented.

Tammany Slate For State Rally Omits Al Smith

He Will Miss His First N. Y. Convention in 25 Years, Friends Declare.

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—John T. Dooling, head of Tammany Hall's law committee, disclosed tonight that former Gov. Alfred E. Smith would not be a delegate to the Democratic State convention in September.

He said Tammany's slate of delegates was completed late today. Neither he nor his brother, James J. Dooling, leader of Tammany Hall, would comment on Smith's omission.

There were reports that Smith had been asked to be a delegate and that his name had been omitted at his own request, but sources close to the former governor said he had not discussed the subject with anyone.

Smith, who is one of Tammany's 13 sachems, has not missed a State convention in more than a quarter of a century.

In 1930 when he was at odds with Tammany he was not named a delegate but attended the convention and nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt for a second term as governor.

A close associate of Smith said tonight after talking with him that he definitely would not attend the convention, which will be in either Syracuse or Rochester September 28 and 29.

U. S. Planes 'Bomb' Camps in War Test

Allegan, Mich., Aug. 10 (AP).—Roaring down out of cloudless skies, 77 powerful planes of the Army's air force theoretically gassed, bombed and machine-gunned various encampments of the Sixth Corps Area, Second Army, late today.

Bombers of Langley Field, Va., operating as part of the "Red" army which is attacking a "Blue" force encamped in this western Michigan area, flew over Allegan, Fennville and New Richmond in the formation they would use in dropping the 2,000-pound bombs for which they are fitted.

Then they proceeded to the army concentration areas to the northwest, simulating their attack over each camp. The attack ships, from Shreveport, La., dropped close to the treetops in power dives to get in position to rain machine-gun fire on the encamped troops.

Pursuit planes from Selfridge Field, Mich., as a defense force, climbed to high altitude, then went into power dives that sent them thundering down and around the larger ships in huge circles. All the planes returned to Selfridge Field after the maneuver.

Widow of Schall Ordered to Rest

The strain of the last seven months, during which her husband died of auto accident injuries and her home was put up for sale at public auction, has brought nervous collapse to Mrs. Margaret Schall, wife of the late blind Senator Thomas Schall, of Minnesota.

The little gray-haired woman, who was the eyes of the blind Senator during his lifetime, has been ordered to bed in the Schall country home at Berwyn, Md., it was learned last night.

Last December Senator Schall was knocked down by an automobile as he was crossing the Washington-Baltimore boulevard near his home. He died several hours later. Mrs. Schall was for a time able to lose her sorrow in a fight for her husband's Senate seat. She met defeat in the Minnesota primaries.

Only last month the Schall home was put up for auction, but a sale failed to materialize because bidders were too few and the price offered was considered too low by Mrs. Schall and her agents.

It was at the auction July 31 that the public learned of the secret marriage of her son, Thomas D. Schall, jr., to Mrs. Martha Lillian Coupal, widow of Maj. J. F. Coupal, physician to President Coolidge.

Nation's Relief Total Is Placed At 15,700,000

Jobless and Other Taxes Are Levied to Care for Dependents.

Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.

Fifteen million, seven hundred thousand men, women and children—one for every eight persons in America—depend on their national, State or local government for a livelihood, according to best estimates available today.

They are the Nation's relief roll, a social-economic problem born of the depression, a problem costing taxpayers billions of dollars as the country seeks its solution.

There is no solution apparent in the immediate future. Relief spending must continue in some form whether the Republicans or the Democrats win the November Presidential election.

Federal officials foresee that fact even though the number of needy—composed almost altogether of unemployed and their dependents—declined 5,000,000 persons in the last 18 months.

3,274,601 Have U. S. Aid.

The relief roll is providing what seems to be a bottomless well which Federal spending cannot fill. For many States and countless cities, it means sales taxes, tolls on public improvements and other levies.

The National Administration now is providing a place on the public pay roll for 3,274,601 jobless. Its work projects are in every county, almost every hamlet, financed by two record peacetime appropriations of $5,425,000,000.

Those 3,274,601 are able-bodied citizens from every walk of life. Before the dark years after 1929 uprooted them from their foundation of independence, they were preachers and ditchdiggers, lawyers and steamfitters, nurses and charwomen, teachers and chorus girls.

States and localities are caring for another estimated 1,600,000 cases. They are unemployables—the halt and the lame, the blind and the sick, widowed mothers with little children. They could not earn their own living even if economic boom times returned miraculously with tomorrow's rising sun.

No Regular Reports.

Altogether, the Nation's relief roll is set at a current 4,874,601 needy families and individuals. Applying the Government's own formula that 90 per cent are family groups with three and one-half members each, and that 10 per cent are single, they become 15,742,134 persons looking to others for food, clothing and shelter.

Relief officials say tha figure is only an estimate; that they do not and cannot know exactly how many are on relief. Since the Government forced States to provide for their own unemployables, they explain, States do not regularly or definitely report on relief conditions.

No definite records of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, however, the course of Government relief may be absolutely plotted since May 23, 1933.

Harry L. Hopkins, a paradox of welfare work background and native hard-boiled practicality, became the New Deal's FERA administrator with 18,900,000 persons on relief. The Government spent $48,-000,000 that month supporting them.

Hopkins did not believe in a dole for needy. They were Americans, he said, and should have the privilege of working for a living. He put the $800,000,000 Civil Works Administration into effect in November of that year and cut the direct relief load to 11,671,559 individuals by the next month.

Peek in January, 1935.

CWA, roundly criticized by Administration critics for its alleged leaf-raking projects, ended in April, 1934. Relief rolls jumped up to the 16,843,507-persons mark. By December there were 20,676,773 receiving Government aid.

Need reached its all-time high in January, 1935. That month, the Government spent $151,819,566 caring for 20,676,773 men, women and children. In addition, the Public Works Administration's $3,300,000 construction program was in full swing. There were civilian conservation camps throughout the country.

The Nation counted the cost of dole relief from January, 1933, and December, 1935, and found it expensive—$4,096,433,367 in 36 months. Of that amount, the National Government put up $2,905,701,296, or 70.9 per cent; the States, $533,779,-000, or 12.8 per cent; localities, $667,-951,422, or 16.3 per cent.

Greater costs were yet to come. President Roosevelt decided with Hopkins that the Government should finance a work program. Declaring "we must end this business of relief," he asked Congress for $4,000,000,000 and $880,-000,000 more to close out the dole. The United States Senate gave Mr. Roosevelt the money only after a 70-day legislative fight. He immediately laid plans for the Government to employ 3,500,00 relief roll able-bodied, accounting for 16,-000,000 needy, and made the States care for the other 4,000,000.

Hopkins Spender-in-Chief.

The President closed down FERA. Hopkins, handicapped by illness as he was, became head of the new Works Progress Administration and spender in chief of the new drive against hunger and want.

The Administration claimed on December 1, 1935, that it had ended the dole. It did, virtually, although WPA'S latest progress report showed that several States had spent $18,-000,000 of old Federal dole money during the first three months of 1936.

Setting up WPA was a governmental task comparable to the wartime draft. Hopkins planned his agency, with complete organizations, should employ 3,000,000 persons. PWA, CCC and other Government bureaus would make up the other 500,000.

He ordered, furthermore, that each person should do work for the Government similar to what he had done for private industry in the past.

The job was big, classifying the skills and experiences of 3,000,000 individuals. Corrington Gill, a deputy administrator, was assigned to the work.

He found that 2,250,000 of those to be employed were unskilled. Developing work projects for them was comparatively simple. They could earn their living on highways, roads or streets, or developing park areas, flood-control developments. The women could can food or sew.

Professionals A Problem.

The other 700,000 were skilled or semi-skilled, including: 300,000 one-time construction employes; 146,000 office workers; 128,000 technical or professional workers, and 64,000 supervisors and foremen.

The building tradesmen could work at public improvements, put in heating plants, sewer and water systems, erect brick and stone. But Gill encountered more difficult problems.

A study of the relief roll revealed 6,200 actors; 4,700 sculptors and artists; 3,400 writers and editors; 40,200 teachers; 13,200 musicians; 18,500 playground and recreation workers.

Hopkins went on with his plan. He organized a drama division which stages plays with relief talent in major cities. He financed a writers project to compile an American guidebook. Musicians were paid to give concerts with their relief symphonies and play for free street dances.

More than 6,000 teachers were engaged teaching 266,630 other needy persons how to read and write. The new National Youth Administration provided recreation jobs and paid grammar, high school, college and postgraduates enough to remain at their studies.

Wage Average Up to $50.

The $4,000,000,000 work program hit an employment record last March with 3,850,000 persons drawing "security" wages from $19 to $103.40 a month for a maximum of 140 hours of work.

Hopkins started with $94 a month top pay. However, WPA strikes forced him to increase the Government's bi-monthly pay checks 10 per cent. Trouble subsided, but WPA workers finally forced their pay up to an average of $50.03 each throughout the country.

Hopkins started cutting work-relief rolls last spring. WPA's employment dropped from 3,000,000 to 2,300,000 by July 1. But the job program declined only 400,000 workers to 3,400,000 July 1 and then to a current 3,274,601. He estimated 400,-000 of those dismissed found a livelihood for the summer in agriculture or private industry, and 300,-000 on other Federal projects.

Hopkins also counted his money, and found his WPA alone had spent $1,400,000,000 in a year. Spending of other Government agencies left him a $1,100,000,000 nest egg for next year. Costs were high, but Hopkins balanced them by counting increased morale and listing new public improvements.

President Roosevelt has definitely committed his Administration to a continuation of work-relief. He asked for, and received $1,425,000,-000 for the 1936-1937 fiscal year. Indications are now that it will not be enough.

The second dispatch of this series, which will describe the relief outlook for the coming winter, will be published soon in The Post.

The Federal Diary

By Samuel Lubell.

We were Johnny on the spot yesterday at the Library of Congress. We had gone over to learn when the new library annex will be completed (it won't be for another six months) and found Martin A. Roberts, superintendent of the reading rooms, checking out 19 talking-book machines for distribution to blind persons in the District.

The 19 machines are the last of a lot of 5,000, especially manufactured for the library, that have been loaned out throughout the country in the last two months. Another 5,000 machines are on order. When they are distributed next January, as is planned, 12,500 of the Nation's blind will have had new literary worlds opened to them by the library's talking-book machine program.

The machines are improved portable phonographs. To insure the reader's voice being easily understood, the machines are geared to the low speed of 33 1-3 revolutions a minute. Ordinary phonograph records require 78 revolutions a minute. At present all the machines are operated by electricity, some also containing midget radios. Included in the next group, however, will be a number worked by springs. This, Roberts explained, will make possible the distribution of machines to needy blind living in homes that have no electricity.

Good for Adults.

The chief boon of the machines, said Roberts, is for persons who go blind while adults. Children pick up Braille with ease, but too often grown men and women find that their sense of touch has been coarsened by years of toil.

The machines, whose manufacture was made possible by two WPA grants totaling $423,000, are "loaned out" by the library to blind persons who cannot afford their purchase through State commissions for the blind. Although the machine remains Uncle Sam's property, the blind person is assured use of it as long as he or she lives provided it is properly cared for.

The last 5,000 machines were distributed on the basis of 1 to each 25,000 population in the State. To the leper colonies in Louisiana and Honolulu four machines were sent. These, of course, will never be withdrawn.

Records are furnished the blind through the Library of Congress' 28 distributing libraries. For the District of Columbia, the library, with the co-operation of the American Red Cross, maintains a special delivery service with Mrs. Maude G. Nichols and Adelia M. Hoyt in charge. All the blind person has to do is phone or write in for the records. There are 121 blind in the District with talking-book machines, most of which were supplied them through funds raised almost two years ago by the committee headed by Mrs. George H. Dern.

All Kinds Included.

"Sweets for every type of literary tooth are included in the books already recorded. There is the Bible, the philosophy of William James, Shakespeare, the poetry of Coleridge, Tennyson, Shelley, Keats, Browning, Poe and Wordsworth; the much-debated Constitution, Lincoln's Gettysburg and Washington's Farewell addresses, detective thrillers, Dickens, Wodehouse, Kipling, Hardy, Tarkington, Wilder and at least one book on the current best-seller list, Anne Lindbergh's "North to the Orient."

Most of the books recorded are established classics. That is so, Roberts explained, not only because the library prefers worth-while books, but because publishers who offered their books freely for Braille translations have balked at having the books recorded for talking machines.

Offsetting this disadvantage, however, has been the working out of a co-operative arrangement with the British, who also are manufacturing the machines, for the exchange of records. The arrangement was made last May when Sir Ian Fraser, who lost his eyesight during the war, visited the city, and the first batch of records are expected soon.

Roberts is not certain that British records will prove adaptable to American machines. British records are made with 200 concentric lines to the inch, while the American records have only 150 lines to the inch, which American engineers claim is the maximum for long use. Yes, it takes an engineer to make a perfect phonograph record. Roberts, however, is not pessimistic, as Western Electric engineers, who are beginning to record talking books, claim they will get in as many as 280 lines to the inch.

Highlight of the entertainment program at the Social Security Board Lodge's birthday dance at the Hotel Washington, Friday, will be a melodramatic skit, "Bessie of Bar-X Ranch." Directed by Kathryn Fenn, the cast of melodramatists will include Jean Herndon, the beautiful heroine; Irving Wood, the fair-haired hero; Thurman Weaver, the weak-willed brother; Elaine Couper, the dangerous vamp; Seymour Glassman, the mustachioed villain; John Hader, the broken-down pappy, and Fred Hetherington, the jovial bartender. Edna C. Moreland will add a few songs to the program.

Astronomer Ulysses S. Lyons, of the U. S. Naval Observatory, will take part in the Office of Education's "Have You Heard" broadcast on astronomy at 1:45 p. m. this afternoon over NBC.

Seven new courses will be offered at the Department of Agriculture's graduate school, according to an announcement from Dr. A. F. Woods, director of the school. They are advanced inorganic analytical chemistry, by Dr. James L. Hoffman; agricultural prices, by Dr. F. L. Thomsen; geography of agriculture, by Lyle R. Fletcher; phase rule and colloids, both by Dr. O. A. Nelson; developmental history of American agriculture, by Dr. Carleton R. Ball, and the economics of instability, by Drs. Mordecai Ezekial and Louis H. Bean.

The Ezekial-Bean course will start October 5; the others on September 14, when the school reopens for the fall session. Other courses that may be added to the curriculum are statistics for biological workers, by Dr. W. B. Kemp; safety engineering, by Dr. David J. Price and P. L. Blake, and landscape architecture, by F. L. Mulford.

Congratulations to Ruth Jane Adams, of the National Labor Relations Board, who will march down the aisle with Robert T. Bartley, of Dallas, Tex., tomorrow at the Hamline M. E. Church.

Bernard Fishman will be the Social Security Board Lodge delegate to the A. F. G. E. convention in Detroit. His alternate is Louis Levine . . . The Bureau of Engraving and Printing Local of the N. F. F. E. will meet at 8 p. m. tonight at the Hotel Willard.

Orsen Nielsen to Wed New York City Artist

Second Secretary of American Embassy in Warsaw Will Marry Miss Lynette Morgan, Painter and Sculptor, in September.

By Jessie Ash Arndt.

Word has reached Washington of the engagement of Mr. Orsen Norman Nielsen, who was one of the Capital's most eligible bachelors, and now is second Secretary of the American Embassy in Warsaw and charge d'affairs there during the absence of Mr. John Cudahy, American Ambassador. Mr. Nielsen's bride will be Miss Lynette Morgan, New York painter and sculptor.

Miss Morgan is the guest in Warsaw of her aunt, whom she has visited several times since Mr. Nielsen has been at the embassy. The announcement of the engagement was made at a dinner dance, and the wedding will take place in Warsaw the middle of September.

Miss Morgan, whose family has a country place on one of the Finger Lakes near Canandaigua, N. Y., as well as a residence in New York, has spent much of her time there as well as abroad in pursuit of art. A few months ago, she spent five weeks on the Island of Bali gathering color for her canvases.

Mr. Nielsen, who is a native of Beloit, Wis., attended the University of Wisconsin and later went to Germany, where he attended Berlin University. He has been in the United States foreign service in Moscow, Stockholm, Berlin, Dublin and Teheran, and was in Washington, on duty in the Eastern European Division of the State Department, from 1928 to 1932. While in the Capital he lived at the Carlton and entertained extensively.

During his stay in Persia, he became interested in Oriental rugs, and not only had a collection of them but also became recognized here as an authority. He also is an enthusiastic sportsman and recently has gone on several hunting trips in Poland with the American Ambassador.

Mr. Nielsen and his bride will go by motor on their wedding trip to the Austrian Tyrol and then over the year-old Grossglockner road to Italy for a few days in and near Venice before returning to Warsaw to live.

Miss Schneider To Be Married

Engagement Is Announced to Mr. B. R. Detwiler, Jr., of Forest Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Schneider, of Richmond Hill, N. Y., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise Agnes Schneider, to Mr. Benjamin R. Detwiler, jr., of Forest Hills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin R. Detwiler, of Washington.

Miss Schneider attended the Sea Pines School, in Brewster, Mass., and Hunter College, New York.

Mr. Detwiler was graduated in 1930, from Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., where he was captain of the varsity tennis team. He is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity and the Quill and Dagger.

Mrs. King Honors Miss Betty Angus

Bride-Elect Will Leave for Wedding Tomorrow.

Miss Betty Angus, daughter of Mrs. Grace Kendall Angus, will leave tomorrow for Meyerdale, Pa., where her marriage to Mr. James O. Johnson, of Toledo, Ohio, will take place on August 29.

Yesterday afternoon she was guest of honor at a shower given for her by Mrs. Neitah King at her apartment on Connecticut avenue. The party was a surprise to Miss Angus and, when refreshments were served, a wedding cake, with a miniature bride and bridegroom in the center, was brought in for her to cut. Among the favors in the cake was a wedding ring which went to Miss Mary Senate Howes, daughter of the Acting Postmaster General and Mrs. William W. Howes.

This evening Miss Angus will be guest of honor at a dinner being given at Normandy Farms by a group of about 30 of her friends.

Mrs. John F. Gay Will Go to Orange

To Be Matron of Honor at Sister's Wedding.

Mrs. John Francis Goy, of Chevy Chase, Md., will go next month to Orange, N. J., where she will be the matron of honor on September 18 at the marriage of her sister, Miss Elizabeth Jane Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold William Francis, to Mr. Frank Arnold L'Hommedieu, son of Mrs. Frank Arnold L'Hommedieu, of South Orange.

The wedding will take place at the Church of the Holy Innocents, in West Orange, and a reception will follow at the Essex Country Club. Mr. John Francis Goy will be one of the ushers.

Mrs. Goy and Miss Francis are grandaughters of the late Maj. Adolphus Rutherford Andrews and the late Mrs. Andrews, who were well known in the Army circle of Washington.

Mr. Henderson And Daughter Arrive Today

Return From Visit to Ohio; Will Attend Concert at Watergate.

Miss Suzanne Henderson, young daughter of Mr. Berkeley Henderson, special assistant to the Attorney General, and Mrs. Henderson, is returning today with her father from Kenton, Ohio, where she has been visiting her grandparents, Judge and Mrs. William P. Henderson, for a month.

Suzanne is coming home in order to be in the audience Friday night when her mother appears as soloist at the Watergate symphony concert. Mrs. Henderson, who is professionally known as Helen Stover, has sung with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra in Cincinnati, with the Goldman Band in its summer concerts in New York City and with the orchestra of the Metropolitan Opera Co. in the Hippodrome in New York.

She is now a resident of the Capital and although she has sung here a few times, is better known to Washington society as Mrs. Henderson than as Miss Stover.

Her appearance in concert on Friday is expected to bring to the Watergate many prominent members of the official set. Among them will be Mrs. Homer S. Cummings, wife of the Attorney General, and Judge and Mrs. Harold Stevens.

Saturday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson and their daughter will leave for a motor trip, going to New York and possibly from there to Virginia Beach, although their plans still are indefinite.

Miss Lazenby Will Be Bride

To Be Married on Sept. 5 to Mr. John O. Green at Annapolis.

Invitations have been received in Washington for the wedding of Miss June Lazenby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hopper Lazenby, and Mr. John Cawley Green, son of Mrs. Kirt Green and the late Capt. Green, U. S. N., of Washington, which will take place September 5 at 5:30 p. m. in the chapel of the Naval Academy in Annapolis. A small reception will follow at Dumblane-on-the-Severn, the home of the bride's parents.

The bride has chosen her sister, Mrs. Delano Jackson Fitzgerald, as her matron of honor and another sister, Miss Catherine Lazenby, as her maid of honor.

Her other attendants will be the Misses Nancy and Virginia Chapman, of Anne Arundel County; Mrs. Carter Blake, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Colby Rucker, of Annapolis. She has chosen as her flower girl her niece, Miss Patsy Fitzgerald.

Miss Baldwin Wed To Mr. Garrissen

Col. and Mrs. T. A. Baldwin, jr., of Houston Tex., announce the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Fay Baldwin, to Mr. Hans Gorrissen. Mrs. Gorrissen is the granddaughter of the late Gen. and Mrs. T. A. Baldwin and of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Judge, of New York City and Salt Lake City. She is a graduate of the Warrenton County School and Spence School, New York City.

Mr. Gorrissen is a son of Mrs. Charles Gorrissen, of Buenos Aires, formerly managing director of the Cia Hispano Americana de Electricidad and great-grandson, on the maternal side, of the late Field Marshal von der Göltz. He was born in London, educated in England and Hamburg, Germany, and is a resident of New York City and Buenos Aires.

Mr. and Mrs. Gorrissen will make their home in Buenos Aires where Mr. Gorrissen will be associated in business with his father.

Mr. William Burton Weds Miss Blackburn

Mss Lillian Irene Blackburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Blackburn, of Hyattsville, Md., and Mr. William Burton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burton, of Cottage City, Md., were married last night at 8 o'clock at Calvert Baptist Church. The Rev. C. T. Murray performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by Miss Ethel Brightwell, of Hyattsville, as maid of honor. The best man was Mr. Walter Mattingly, of Cottage City.

The couple will reside in Cottage City.

T. W. Clark, Philadelphia, Weds Hon. Anna V. Fisher

Ceremony in England Is of Interest to American Society; Bride and Bridegroom Both Well Known in Capital.

A wedding of much interest to American society took place yesterday at Thetford, England, when Hon. Anna Vavasseur Fisher, daughter of Lord and Lady Fisher, of Kilverstone Hall, became the bride of Mr. Thomas W. Clark, of Philadelphia. The bride's mother made her debut in Philadelphia and was a belle in the society of that city as well as Baltimore and Washington. Miss Fisher also made her debut in Philadelphia and Baltimore last season, under the sponsorship of her stepgrandmother, Mrs. Randall Morgan, of Philadelphia. Mr. Clark is a brother of Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Clark, of Cynwyd, Penn.

The ceremony was performed in the historic Kilverstone Church, not far from the estate of the bride's parents.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Mrs. Randall Morgan 3d, of Philadelphia, as matron of honor, and by her sister, Hon. Katherine Vavasseur Fisher, as maid of honor. The bridesmaids included Miss Marie Louise McIlhenny, daughter of Mrs. Edgar Allan Poe, of Baltimore; Miss Katherine Fullerton, Miss Paulina Blackett and Miss Jinny Lucinda Musgrave, of London. The Hon. Barbara Vavasseur was flower girl.

Miss McIlhenny will be a debutante in Baltimore, Washintgon and Philadelphia this season. Last season, when the bride of yesterday was in this country, she visited Miss McIlhenny at the home of her stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Allan Poe, near Baltimore, and they both attended many of the social functions given in Washington for the younger set.

Among the group of young men who were groomsmen and ushers were a number who are well known in Washington: Mr. Percy H. Clark, jr., brother of the bridegroom, who was best man; Mr. Nelson Dean Jay, jr., Mr. George Clark and Mr. William L. Clark, brothers of the bridegroom; Mr. Randall Morgan 3d, Mr. J. Randall Williams, Mr. William G. Foulke, related to the Washington family of that name; Mr. John C. Walcott, of Boston, and the Hon. John Vavasseur Fisher, who also is well known in American society.

After the ceremony a large reception was held at Kilverstone House. Mr. and Mrs. Clark will come to this country in September and will occupy a house on the Clark estate near Cynwyd.

Mme. Dimitriu To Speak on Air

Wife of Rumanian Aid Plans Radio Broadcast on Balkan Nation.

Mme. Emanuel H. Dimitriu, wife of the assistant financial counselor of the Rumanian Legation, is to speak over the radio on August 14 at 1:45 on Rumania. The broadcast will be over a national hook-up, one of a series sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Roosevelt spoke at the beginning of the season, and the Minister to Denmark, now the wife of Capt. Boerge Rohde, last year talked on Denmark.

Mme. Dimitriu, although a Washingtonian, knows her husband's country well, and has spent much time studying its history and customs.

She and Mr. Dimitriu are spending the summer in the Capital and at present she is engaged in revising a novel, the first she has written, although she is author of many short stories, magazine articles and short plays. She takes time from her writing to attend the informal teas and dinner parties which are given by members of the diplomatic corps who remain in the Capital during the summer season, but most of her days are devoted to her literary work.

In addition to short stories, she has written short plays, one of which, "The Survival of the Fittest," has been used extensively by little theaters in New York. She represented the women of Rumania, speaking on their achievements, at the international conclave of women in Chicago three years ago, and has lectured in the East, South and Southwest, on the theater.

Polish General's Widow to Return

Mme. Gustav Orlicz-Dreszer, widow of the late inspector general of the army of Poland, has written her mother, Mrs. E. G. Neal, she expects to return to Washington as soon as her affairs in Warsaw are arranged so she can leave.

Mme. Orlicz-Dreszer visited her mother and two daughters, the Misses Margaret and Elvina Rowe, here a few weks ago, and it was on the way to meet the boat on which she was returning to Poland that her husband was fatally injured in an airplane accident.

Mrs. E. B. Kay Will Entertain For 30 Guests

Program Includes Theater Party and Affair at Home.

Mrs. Edgar Boyd Kay will be hostess tonight to 30 guests at a theater party for "Mary of Scotland," the scenario for which was written by her nephew, Mr. Dudley Nichols. After the theater the party will be entertained at her home.

Mrs. Kay visited her nephew and his family last winter in Hollywood at the time he was working on the scenario. He is one of three brothers, all of whom have distinguished themselves in their professions. She has just returned from Long Beach and Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., where she visited Mr. Robert Nichols, an editor of Field and Stream, and his family. The third brother is Dr. John Hatcher Nichols, a prominent physician, of Cleveland. All have friends in Washington.

The end of the week, Mrs. Kay expects to leave for another trip West, going to Denver and Estes Park, Colo., and stopping for short visits in Chicago and other cities en route.

Wedding Draws Interest Here

Mrs. Lemira Gillett-Hill Is Bride of Risley G. Hunt.

The marriage in Baltimore last week of Mrs. Lemira Gillett-Hill to Mr. Risley Goldsborough Hunt, of Washington, was of interest to many Washingtonians. Not only is Mr. Hunt popular in Washington and nearby Virginia, where his family has lived for many generations, but his bride also has been a Washington resident. They will make their home at 2133 R street northwest, the quaint studio house where the new Mrs. Hunt lived when she made her debut and was married to her first husband, Mr. James N. W. McClure, of Washington.

As Miss Lemira Gillett Hill she was introduced to Washington society at a brilliant ball by her mother, Mrs. Katherine Gillett-Hill, some years ago. She was known for her musical ability and always was a leader in society dramatics. Recently her home has been in Lincoln, Ill. She was a guest of relatives in Baltimore prior to her marriage there.

Mr. Hunt is an official of the telephone company.

Dr. Walter H. E. Jaeger, of Washington, is at Dixville, N. H., for a short stay.

Fruit Desserts Are Given Zest By Meringues

Post Cooking Expert Offers Two Simple Recipes.

By Dorothea Duncan.

FAMILY INTEREST in food is a difficult thing to maintain. Anyone would think after a sweeping glance through the Washington markets which reveal such delicious fresh fruits as peaches, apricots, pears, nectarines, grapes, plums and blueberries that the dessert problem would be negligible. Housewives, however, are constantly calling for new desserts, for it seems that the enthusiasm for these summer fruits soon dies if they are served repeatedly plain and with the ubiquitous accompaniment, cream.

Sometimes it is the very sameness of texture that causes enthusiasm to wane when fresh fruit is served continuously meal after meal. From the standpoint of health, of course, nothing could be better. But to make the fruit dessert one of permanent interest, it must be served in different forms. So if it is merely a new texture that you would like to feel between your teeth, try either of the recipes for baked meringues. The first recipe introduces the hard meringue that is made in individual shapes. This may be filled with lightly sweetened fruit or fresh fruit sherbet or ice cream. A topping of whipped cream or chilled custard for the fruit filling is optional.

The second recipe is called a torte and is a meringue that is of firm consistency, but softer than the so-called hard meringue. This is baked in a pie tin or on a serving plate in one piece.

Hard Meringues.

⅛ teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar.
4 tablespoons sugar.

Add salt and cream of tartar to the egg white, beat until stiff. Add sugar in 1 tablespoon portions. Beat until mixture peaks. Shape with a spoon or pastry bag into mounds on ungreased, dry paper placed on a baking sheet. Bake in a very slow oven until dry, but only barely browned. Unless heavy paper is used, use two or three layers. Baking temperature 275 degrees F., slow oven. Baking time, 40 to 50 minutes. This amount makes four individual services about 3x3x2 inches.

Meringue Torte.

1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon water
3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar

Add salt and cream of tartar to egg white and beat to a stiff foam. Add sugar, in half-tablespoon portions, alternately with the liquids, mixed together—the latter a few drops at a time. Beat until sugar is well incorporated and the mixture has good piling quality. Spread in a pie pan lined with plain, uncreased paper on a greased plate from which the dessert is to be served. (The low oven temperature will not harm the plate.) Spread to leave a rim around the edge so that the ice cream or fruit, or both, added later will be held in by it. Bake in a very slow oven (225 degrees F.) for one hour. Makes a torte 9 inches in diameter. Serves 6 to 8.

To serve, fill the center with sliced or crushed fruit. The fruit may be sweetened slightly, although the usual amount will probably not be necessary because of the sweet meringue. Because sweetness is such an individual matter, superfine, powdered or confectioner's sugar may be passed at the table. A garnish of whipped cream may be used as a final topping, but is quite unnecessary. Some of the fruits served au natural will add an additional touch; for example, cherries with their stems on.

For the easiest service the torte should be cut into the required number of pie-shaped pieces before the fruit is placed on top, especially if the dessert is to be served by the hostess from the table.

If there is no plan for the use of the yolks, convert them into a creamy golden custard and use, well chilled, as a sauce accompaniment to the fruit meringue.

Golden Custard.

1 cup milk, top milk or thin cream
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1-8 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla

Scald milk. Mix yolks, salt and sugar. Pour milk over the yolk mixture and stir thoroughly. Return to double boiler and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture coats spoon. Cool, add flavoring, and chill before using.

It is desirable to cool a custard as quickly as possible after cooking. One of the easiest ways is to set the cooking dish into a bowl or pan of cold water. Or pouring the cooked custard into a cold utensil is another way. Frequently a custard cooked to an ideal consistency curdles after removal from the heat because the heat within the dish carries the cooking enough further to cause a slight overcooking.

Low Heat One Secret of Perfect Meringues

This is the season for baked meringues, for they are a delicious background for many of the fresh fruits found daily in Washington's markets. Baked meringues are not hard to make if you use one of the two recipes suggested in the accompanying story. Be sure to use the constant low temperature suggested if you want perfect texture.

Your Prize Omelet Recipe Is Subject Of Post Contest

WHAT KIND OF AN omelet does your family consider the tops? And what secret formula do you use to prepare it? These are the two questions Dorthea Duncan, Home Economics Editor of The Post is asking Washington housewives this week.

The omelet is such a popular light hot dish for summer meals, luncheon and dinner as well as breakfast, and there are so many versions of this glorified egg dish, that the omelet has been chosen as the theme of The Post recipe contest for this week.

Cash awards will be offered for the five best recipes submitted. The first prize is $5, the second $3, and the three remaining prizes $1 each.

To enter the contest merely write out your favorite recipe for omelet and send it to Dorothea Duncan in care of The Washington Post. Be sure to mail your entry in time to reach this office not later than Saturday morning.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Girl Secretly Engaged Three Months Wonders if Fiance Is Growing Indifferent.

By Hope Rings Miller.
(While Miss Haworth is on vacation.)

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: I have been engaged to a young man for three months. Because of financial difficulties we have decided to wait a while before announcing our engagement. I am very much in love with him and he tells me he is in love with me. Until recently I never doubted his word, but now I begin to wonder. I live in a gossipy neighborhood, and it seems that acquaintances delight in telling me they have seen my finance on the street with other girls. His work brings him in contact with many women, so perhaps I am crossing a lot of unnecessary bridges.

* * * *

He has told my parents and me that he has never been interested in anyone else. But I wonder if a person in love can at times be indifferent. For example, on several occasions he made dates and then didn't either come or call. Later, he always gave the excuse that he was tired and went on home. He has very irregular hours and his work is tiring, so I didn't think so much about it at the time. He has told me that he would like to see me every night, but under present conditions he can't. The fact that the circumstances at home aren't very favorable may have something to do with his decision about this. I am not allowed to entertain at home, so when he comes we must either go walking or sit on the porch with the whole family.

* * * *

When he is with me he is very attentive and always brings me candy or flowers. But I have always thought that when a man is in love he tries to see the girl of his choice as often as possible. You see, we can't be married right away because he hasn't enough money. Do you think I should ask him what he thinks of me, or just let things work out for themselves? To be frank, I am beginning to be worried. M. N.

Try These Tactics.

DEAR M. N.: Don't even consider asking him what he thinks of you. He has told you, hasn't he, that he is in love with you and wants to marry you? Then take his word for it until you have some reason—besides "neighborly remarks"—to think otherwise.

* * * *

The fact that he has been seen on the street with other girls probably means exactly nothing, and when acquaintances bring these reports, act as if you are neither surprised nor annoyed. If he doesn't have a date with you as often as you would like, it is probably because of the conditions you mentioned. I believe, however, that since your marriage cannot take place soon, you should not settle down to one suitor. A few dates with other young men might make your fiance eager to spend more time with you.

* * * *

Make his evenings with you as pleasant as possible, and don't worry because he isn't with you more often. But put your foot down firmly about this business of making a date and not keeping it. The very next time this happens, tell him frankly, but calmly, that you won't permit yourself to be treated in such a manner. His respect for you will probably take an upward swing when he finds you will not tolerate his lack of consideration. No man maintains his respect long for a woman who does not demand fair treatment. And I believe Remy de Gourmont was right when he said, "No love lasts long unless it includes a large measure of respect."

Cheese as Dressing.

Cottage cheese moistened with tomato juice makes an excellent dressing for hearts of lettuce or crisp romaine. A little lemon juice may be added, if desired. This dressing has special appeal for those who do not like the usual French or mayonnaise dressing.

New Handbags Are Designed As Carryalls

Despite Their Huge Size the Purses Nevertheless Appear Smart.

By Ethel Ehlen.
The Post Fashion Editor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—If you are the type of person who insists in carrying everything but the kitchen sink in your handbag (and what business woman doesn't?), you will rejoice at the grand new bags planned for your convenience. They are simply huge, but smart nevertheless, of durable materials, well made and beautifully fitted.

The sensation in the collection of oversized handbags I viewed here this week was made of leather, squarish in shape, with a carrying handle as sturdy as those used for traveling bags—it looks like a glorified brief case. It measures 12½ inches across by 10½ inches deep. The leather lining was of light tone, and there were numerous pockets and zipper compartments, to take care of all your needs.

An alligator bag of the underarm variety has the top shaped to conform with the contour of your body; can thus be carried with tremendous ease and security when the hands are juggling with bundles. Another novel alligator bag has a unique slide fastening right on top, so there is no necessity for fumbling with clasps and tricky fasteners when one is in a hurry. Both are ideal for the weary shoppers.

Sun-Tanned Bags.

Just about everything seems to have fallen victim to the Alpine ray and gone sun-tanned, yes, even handbags. The latest news is "dappled pigskin," which has been sunburned before being made into a bag; by this process it is made impervious to the hazards of sun and other elements which tend to darken the light-colored skin. The newer texture is an improvement over the old and adapts itself well to the ultralarge bags. One especially outstanding was satchell-shape with large top handles which could either be carried by hand or thrown over the arm.

Ostrich has taken to the blonde side, and this luscious new tint in line with the natural color so popular in costume fashions is very effective when combined with brown tortoise shell. Top handles or envelope styles are equally popular in the voluminous blonde ostrich interpretations; they have a dressier and more formal appearance than the usual large bag, making them suitable to carry with almost any daytime outfit.

Available in Hues.

To harmonize with the wide patent leather belts, many of the newest patent bags have assumed amazing proportions. They are lined in self-color and are available in black as well as all of the current high-fashion hues and tints of the mode. Another handbag in this showing of practical bags was made of Chinese silkworm cocoons. They are dried and then combined with dark brown or grayish brown leather to harmonize with the elusive grayish color of the cocoon. The result is smartness and individuality in the nth degree. Such bags are said to have the durability and wearability of lizard, cowhide or shoe calf.

Copying gloves, dark leather bags have stepped out in streamlined models with white hand-stitching completely bordering the entire bag and swank top handle. They are among the smartest of the large bags, particularly for the woman who admires chic simplicity. Gleaming pinseal, the perennial favorite, has gone large size, also, and the effect is striking, especially in the long under-arm creations with gold frames and tops.

Handbags Vie With Zeppelins

Meet the "Transatlantic," one of the new ultralarge handbags. The double zipper fastening is a feature. With one swoop of the wrist you can view the entire contents. It is almost as spacious as a traveling bag and still styled so as to be easily carried under the arm.

TODAY'S HEALTH TALK

By Dr. Irving S. Cutter.

More About the Black Widow.

The black widow spider continues to hold the spotlight among venomous insects and several deaths are listed each year. In 1935 there were 615 cases with 38 deaths. No part of the country is exempt.

The insect is easily identified, as it is coal black except the abdomen, which is marked with patches of red or yellow. The red spot has the appearance of an hour glass. When full grown the body is about half an inch long and the legs can extend over a two-inch area. It is sometimes known as the shoebutton spider.

As a rule, within an hour after being bitten, increasing pains involving particularly the muscles of the abdomen, may lead to a diagnosis of acute appendicitis. The abdomen is rigid and boardlike and there may be nausea and vomiting. Muscle spasms, however, are not confined to this region, but will be present in the extremities and may extend upward to the neck. In severe cases sudden collapse may follow because of failure of the circulation.

Early treatment is imperative. The site of the wound should be scrubbed thoroughly with soap and water and covered with a clean dressing. Suction and cauterization are of little value unless they are employed within a very few minutes. The poison is spread so rapidly that no amount of attention to the point of inoculation will lessen the absorption.

Pain may be relieved by the use of intravenous calcium chloride or calcium gluconate. Either of these solutions produces a more prompt effect than opiates. A warm tub bath that contains some ground mustard is useful in preventing shock. Antitoxin, if it can be obtained, is thought to be of value.

'I Don't Know' Not Confession Of Ignorance

Children Should Be Taught to Admit It When They Are Uncertain.

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

TO SAY "I don't know" is impossible for many people. They must know everything, be informed on every subject in the world. To them a confession of ignorance is a disgrace, though how they can expect to keep up with all the branches of modern knowledge is a puzzle.

When, however, one glances at the treatment of children in homes and schools it is not hard to find the origin of this unwillingness to confess ignorance. Most children are never asked any questions but those to which they are expected to know the answer. At home and at school they are always at a disadvantage, because everyone knows more than they do. If they say "I don't know" they are at once taken to task, and either laughed at or scolded.

Even children at play find that their best protection against being teased by their companions is to tend to knowledge whether they have it or not. Knowledge is power. That fact is hammered into them from babyhood up, and the lesson once learned is hard to eradicate.

Only example can help children here. If the child has parents or teachers who are unable to say "I don't know," he will follow in their footsteps. If he himself is scolded every time he fails to know the answer to a question, the instinct for self-defense will intensify his unwillingness to acknowledge ignorance.

It would be a good thing if parents and teachers would make a point of saying frankly "I don't know" whenever they are uncertain of a fact.

Learn to Dance at Home

Perfectly poised, hands and arms in correct position, they step off into a waltz, a chasse, a tango, as easily as they walk. They know their basic steps — that's why they can add the frills, hesitations, twirls.

Poor Stella and Walter are something else again. They wobble along, slack-kneed and sagging, with a curious clutch at shoulder and waist line. Not sure of their steps. Wishing the music would end.

Why don't they take a tip from airy-footed Grace, who found a slick way of learning dance steps at home? At home, in comfort, with no mocking, critical eyes to paralyze her, she practiced the basic steps.

She used step-by-step diagrams. While the phonograph lilted the tempo, she floated about the living room with an imaginary partner. Now she never sits in frozen agony on the side-lines! Never makes a laughing-stock of herself on the dance floor.

She learned her thistledown dancing from our 40-page booklet, "Social Dancing Self-Taught." Diagrams and text worked out by noted dance instructor who has taught thousands. Let him teach you. All the new dances you want to know. All the fundamentals you have to know.

Send 15 cents for our booklet, "Social Dancing Self-Taught," to The Washington Post, Home Institute, 109 West Nineteenth street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Seattle Honors Rep. Zioncheck At Rites Today

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 10.—The body of Representative Marion A. Zioncheck lay in state here tonight while his young widow awaited a delegation of Congressmen to pay respects to their dead colleague and friends went forward with plans for a large public funeral.

Many persons today filed past the bier of the 36-year-old Congressman, who committed suicide last Friday by plunging through his office window to the street, five stories below.

With the funeral set for 1:30 p. m. tomorrow, Coroner Otto Middelstadt asserted the place of the rites had not yet been definitely decided, but they probably would be held in the Senator Auditorium.

Twice since Zioncheck hurtled to his death his pretty young widow has visited the funeral chapel where he lies in state.

At her side was her sister, Mrs. Jesse Stitt, of Blytheville, Ark., who arrived in Seattle by plane.

"Mrs. Zioncheck is dazed by grief," Coroner Middelstadt remarked. "She seems hardly to know whether it is day or night."

A 17-gun salute will be given at Fort Lawton the moment services start, and an honor guard will stand beside the casket.

Barring a last-minute change, burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery, Mittelstadt said. The Rev. Fred W. Shorter, of the Church of the People, will conduct the rites.

Active pallbearers will be J. D. Ross, Securities Commission member; Frank Turko, head of the Newsboys Union; Jack R. Cluck, chairman of the legal committee of the Commonwealth Federation; Edward Hendrickson, a friend; Fred Shea, of the King County Veterans' Relief Bureau; Deputy Prosecutor Paul Coughlin and Deputy Assessor C. F. Miskay.

Honorary pallbearers will include members of the Congressional delegation. Senators Bone and Schwellenbach and Representatives Hill, Smith and Wallgren, of Washington, and Etwall, of Oregon.

Late today it was announced that the Washington Commonwealth Federation, a political organization in which Zioncheck was interested, had completed preparations for giving him "the greatest funeral Seattle ever has known."

It was Romney who engineered Zioncheck's departure for home several weeks ago despite the wishes of District and Maryland officials to detain the Congressman in connection with some of his escapades which had brought him notoriety since last New Year's Day.

"Marion knows how we feel," said she.

Col. Causey, 71, Noted Soldier, Engineer Dies

War Hero Succumbs in Chicago; Rites Planned at Suffolk, Va.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Col. W. B. Causey, 71, noted soldier and engineer, died at his home here this morning, after an illness of several weeks.

Funeral services will be held at an Episcopal church tomorrow at noon and final rites will be conducted at the graveside in Cedar Hill Cemetery, Suffolk, Va., Wednesday at 4:30 p. m.

A native of Suffolk, Va., Col. Causey attended private schools. He gained fame in the field of railway engineering and management.

As an officer with the A. E. F. in France during the World War, Col. Causey rose from the rank of captain to lieutenant colonel, and won decorations from four governments.

He served as deputy U. S. commissioner at the Century of Progress Expedition. He returned to America in 1923, after serving as adviser to the Austrian government, and was appointed city manager of Norfolk, Va. Two years later he came here as an official with a construction firm.

Children Quarantined.

Manila, P. I., Aug. 10 (AP).—A quarantine of children on Corregidor Island, the American fortress in Manila Bay, was established today to prevent the spread of infantile paralysis following the death of the young daughter of Maj. Henry H. Slicer. All children of Army officers who had come in contact with the major's daughter were isolated. Maj. Slicer is a native of Virginia.

Miss Knight Is Bride.

Stanley, Va., Aug. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Knight, of Stanley, announce the marriage of their daughter, Evelyn Louise, to George H. Collison, of Baltimore. The ceremony was performed on Saturday.

P.U.C. Effects Saving Here To Gas Users

35,000 Consumers Will Benefit as Result of Decision.

Application of $47,000 in Excess Profits Approved, in Effect.

By James D. Secrest.

About 35,000 domestic users of gas will save approximately $24,204 on their bills during the next year, beginning September 1, under a decision reached late yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission after an all-day hearing on the effect of the sliding scale arrangement adopted last December.

Acting with alacrity, the commission ruled on several minor issues before adjourning the hearing and, in effect, approved an application of $47,000 in excess profits to to Schedule A of the domestic service and Schedule C, the commercial and industrial rate.

The only change in the domestic schedule was the reduction of the second bracket in the step-down rates, so that customers using 3,500 cubic feet or more a month will save one cent on every 100 cubic feet used in excess of that amount.

Charge Unchanged.

The initial minimum charge of 75 cents for the first 800 cubic feet was left unchanged in the schedules submitted by E. J. Boothby, vice president and general manager of the Washington and Georgetown Gas Light Companies.

The second bracket, with a rate of 8 cents per 100 cubic feet, was cut from 3,200 to 2,700 cubic feet per month. Thus, whereas the 7-cent rate of the third bracket formerly was not available until after a customer had used 4,000 cubic feet of gas, after September 1 it will become available after consumption of 3,500 cubic feet.

As the average gas customer uses 3,600 cubic feet per month, according to gas company estimates, the rearrangement in the domestic schedule will accrue to his benefit in proportion to his gas consumption beyond the 3,500 cubic feet.

About 86,000 customers consequently will be unaffected by the slight rate reduction for domestic users.

Reduction Cut at $23,033.

The reduction in the commercial and industrial rate amounts to $23,033. This will affect bakeries, restaurants, hotels, churches, manufacturing establishments and the like that use gas. About 80 per cent of the commercial users will benefit.

As in the domestic schedule, the initial minimum charge remains the same. The other comparative net charges are as follows:

Next 9,100 cubic feet cut from 8 to 7.9 cents; next 90,000 cubic feet reduced from 6.7 to 6.5 cents; next 900,000 cubic feet from 5.9 to 5.8 cents over 1,000,000 cubic feet rate remains unchanged at 4.5 cents per 100 cubic feet.

Boothby frankly stated that the company would prefer to apply the entire $47,000 excess profits to commercial rate reductions because of the keen competition in this field, but he admitted that the company feared public resentment should such a proposal be made.

Roberts Makes Attack.

People's Counsel William A. Roberts attacked the company's expenditure of $32,000 for co-operative advertising with Washington builders who install gas appliances and warned the company of public resentment against the lower rates offered to builders compared with the ordinary domestic customer.

He also suggested the elimination of a $1.50 fee for reconnecting domestic services cut off because of non-payment of bills or other delinquencies. He pointed out that the company gets a penalty whenever a customer fails to pay his bill within 20 days and that the delinquents ordinarily are the persons who are unable to pay their bills on time.

The hearing on the whole was conducted with less conflict than any similar gas-rate hearing within recent years and in a far shorter period.

Difference Noted.

The only difference that arose between counsel and accountants of the gas company and the commission was over whether "works in progress" as of June 30, 1935, were considered part of the $21,000,000 rate base as of that date and the handling of accounts on uncollectible bills. About $100,000 was involved in the first and $8,000 in the second issue.

Roberts won on both commission rulings, although he agreed with the company on the latter. The commission held that the $21,000,000 rate base included the "works in progress" as of June 30, 1935, thus preventing an addition of $100,000 to the rate base on which this year's reductions are based.

As a consequence the rate base will be in the neighborhood of $21,049,546.33. Some $964,752, or about 4.5 per cent of the company's property, was allocated for service outside the District before this base was reached.

An increase of $52,906.21, chiefly in the income levy bracket, robbed Washington consumers of a larger rate reduction.

Byers McK. Backman, chief accountant of the commission, pointed out that the income tax levy under the bill passed by the last Congress raised the gas company's payments from a flat 13¾ per cent to about 18½ per cent.

An unemployment compensaton tax of $9,062.18 also helped bring the total tax payments of the company to $525,065.82.

The gas company submitted a graph to show that rate reductions since 1930 had saved domestic consumers about $5,250,000 and that the average bill (for 3,600 cubic feet a monthly had dropped from $4.75 to $3.

Sharecroppers' Plight Assailed At D. C. Session

Landowners Are Fighting Truant Unions, Says Social Worker.

Union organization among Southern sharecroppers has to work under a system that closely approximates fascism, Miss Willie Sue Blagden, Memphis, Tenn., social worker, said in an open meeting of the Washington committee to aid agricultural workers last night in the Friends Meeting House, 2111 Florida avenue northwest.

Deploring conditions of the sharecroppers, whom she described as starving and helpless under present conditions, Miss Blagden discussed planter-sharecropper relationship and the union organization now going on in Arkansas.

Miss Blagden charged that landowners were using every possible method to keep tenant farmers from organizing and told of a flogging she and two men had received at the hand of six unidentified men when they attempted to investigate the disappearance of Frank Weems, colored leader of the Southern Tenant Farmers Union, in Earle, Ark., June 15.

Owed Planters Money.

"An investigating committee from Memphis found that tenant farmers who hired themselves out to the land-owners at the end of the year owed the planters money," Miss Blagden declared, "and that they had to pay from 3 to 10 cents higher for each article allowed them on credit, plus a 10 per cent carrying charge, by the planters."

"Constitutional rights have been thrust aside," she charged.

Organization of tenant farmers and day laborers in the Southern Tenant Farmers Union and other similar unions was pointed out as remedy to the situation.

Discipline, Education.

Speaking last night as a "friend of the Southern Farmers Union," Miss Blagden said the present problem in the union is discipline and education of illiterate members, with the ultimate aim of bettering conditions among the sharecroppers.

"We are determined to make the South a better place for Negro and white to live and work in with equality," the Memphis social worker said.

The purpose of the Washington committee is to raise money to keep union organizers in the field in Arkansas, according to Miss Blagden.

H. D. Catts' Body Taken From River

The body of Harry D. Catts, 24-year-old Washingtonian who drowned in the Patuxent River Sunday while swimming off Broomes Island, was recovered yesterday.

Meanwhile, Harry F. Padgett, 26, who almost drowned trying to save his lifelong friend, was under the care of a doctor at his home, 3305 Brown street. He had collapsed from grief.

Catts is survived by his stepfather, Sergt. Alfred G. Clark, of the Army War College, and his wife, Mrs. Louise Bowman Catts, of the 2800 block of Rhode Island avenue northeast.

Funeral services for Catts will be held tomorrow at Chambers northwest funeral home at 2 p. m. Burial will follow at Bethel Cemetery, Alexandria.

Girl Too Old for Baby Contest; She Enters Her Doll, but Loses

While the older children stood around picking favorites, the babies under 3 years of age at Ludlow Playground yesterday afternoon competed in a baby show, with Dr. L. W. Gray as judge.

When Mary Anna Baker, 3½, was told she was too old to compete, she promptly entered her flaxen-haired doll in the contest. But Betty, the doll, was shoved out by little Gail Lee Hancock and by 2-month-old Barbara Anne Stewart.

Gail Lee, in the "below six months" class, was brought all the way from Boulevard Heights, Md., to take part in the show. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Hancock, of 4321 Ellerslie street, she went home with a blue ribbon.

Second in the youngest class was Barbara Anne, daughter of Kermit (Zuzu) Stewart, one-time George Washington football star, and Mrs. Stewart. Barbara Anne is a niece of little Mary Anna Baker. Another member of the family entered in the competition was Barbara Anne's 9-month-old uncle, Richard Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Baker, of 619 Morris place northeast.

The blue-ribbon baby in the "6-month-to-a-year" class was Norma Jean Rucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rucker, of 612 Morris place northeast.

Bobby Peake, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Peake, 646 G street northeast, came in first in the 1-to-2-year class. Teddy David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Zore David, 519 H street northeast, was second.

In the oldest group, 1 to 3 years, Marvin Shuster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Shuster, 622 Morris place northeast, walked off with the blue ribbon. The red one was pinned on the yellow silk frock of Mary Ann Raffo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Raffo, 829 Third street northeast.

Capitol Cool-Air Installation Halted

Although Congress appropriated $2,550,000 at its last session to finance the air conditioning of the Capitol and the Senate and House Office Buildings, the job has been postponed because bids were too high.

David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, yesterday declared new bids for the installation contracts will be solicited in the next ten days and expressed the hope they will fall inside the appropriation. The contratcors' offers which were opened last Thursday had to be rejected because they were too high.

If the new bids, based upon specifications which have been modified to kee pthe prices down, are still in excess of the stipulated $2,550,000 Lynn will have no alternative but to defer the award until Congress reconvenes and makes a supplemental appropriation, he said.

The air conditioning work was scheduled for this summer, to be completed for the opening of the Seventy-fifth Congress. A shortage of sheet metal workers, as well as the money problem, threatens to dela ythe job indefiniately.

New D.C. Lights Called Success By Van Duzer

Most Complicated Traffic System Works 'Very Well,' Director Asserts.

The most complicated traffic light system in Washington, installed at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, "worked very well" under its first rush-hour test yesterday, Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer said.

The new lights permit traffic to cross Fifteenth street from Pennsylvania avenue to New York avenue for the first time in 30 years, and also allows left turns from Fifteenth street to Pennsylvania avenue.

First test of the new signals was made Sunday under subnormal conditions, Van Duzer explained, and a few minor adjustments in timing were made. The major test under rush-hour conditions yesterday proved very satisfactory, he said.

Working on an 80-second cycle, the lights, of the four signal type, cause street cars to cross on alternate signals, thus speeding traffic. Pedestrians crossing Fifteenth street along the south side of Pennsylvania avenue also are afforded protection by the system.

Full benefit of the lights will not be recognized, Van Duzer said, until track repairs at Fourteenth and New York avenue and at Fourteenth and I streets are completed. Rerouting of automobiles at these intersections cause a 50 per cent overloading of streets in the vicinity, especially in the Fifteenth street and New York avenue section, he said.

Capital Transit Co. officials pointed out that the new lights and improved conditions for motor traffic were made at a cost of $160,000.

Crosby's Daughter Fined for Speeding

Miss Virginia Crosby, daughter and secretary of Representative Charles N. Crosby, of Pennsylvania, was arrested for speeding on Route 40, Hagerstown, Md., yesterday afternoon.

She was arrested by Maj. Enoch B. Garey, chief of the State police, and fined $10 by Magistrate Edward Heard for exceeding a 45-mile-an-hour speed limit. She left after paying her fine.

Ickes Approves $334,000 for Construction Work in Parkway Plans.

Clearance of all financial obstacles to the addition of an arch in Key Bridge in connection with development of George Washington Memorial Parkway and replacement of an old bridge in Rock Creek Parkway was announced yesterday by C. Marshall Finnan, superintendent of National Capital Parks.

Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes has approved a $334,000 allocation to construct the Key Bridge arch and the parkway section which will run below, Finnan said. Ickes also has made available $75,000 to replace the obsolete two-lane military bridge at the parkway approach to the Hotel Shoreham.

Roads and trails funds of the National Park Service will pay for both projects. Contracts will be awarded and other details handled by the Bureau of Public Roads.

Addition of an arch to Key Bridge will enhance the span's symmetry, as well as make possible the northward extension of the George Washington Memorial Parkway along the Virginia shore. The plan has the approval of the Fine Arts Commission.

Increased traffic over the Rock Creek and Potomac Parkway since its full length was opened this summer emphasized the inadequacy of the two-lane military bridge below the Hotel Shoreham. Its replacement will be of masonry and reinforced steel construction, wide enough to provide for future needs.

Sevitzky Will Conduct 3 Watergate Concerts

Fabien Sevitzky will remain in Washington to conduct the concerts at the Watergate tomorrow, Friday and Sunday in the place of Dr. Henry Hadley, officials of the Washington Summer Concert Association announced last night.

Dr. Hadley is unable to come to Washington on account of illness.

Lawyers Attack Administrative Court Proposal

Federal Bar Opposes Bill to End Judicial Duties of U. S. Departments.

The executive council of the Federal Bar Association last night unanimously adopted a report attacking the proposal to set up a United States administrative court which would rob the executive departments of the Government of their judicial power.

This proposal has been introduced in Congress as the Logan bill. It also has been approved by the administrative law committee of the American Bar Association. The association will be asked to act upon it at its annual meeting in Boston at the end of this month.

Col. O. R. McGuire, counsel for the Comptroller General of the United States and chairman of the administrative law committee of the American Bar Association, appeared before the executive council last night to explain the proposal.

Roberts Leads Attack.

Leading the attack on the proposal last night, William A. Roberts, people's counsel for the District, said it would create a new form of dictatorship.

"It is well to consider the powers of the chief justice of the proposed administrative court," Roberts said in his report. "Through his power to create divisions of the court and to assign justices to those divisions as well as through his control of the personnel attached to the court, he might dictate the economic welfare or collapse of an industry. Here, truly, would be a dictator."

He further charged that the clamor against the operation of quasi-judicial functions of the executive branches of the Government "originates largely with powerful industrial, financial and utility interests, who find the administrative control increasingly effective and feel confident of more lenient treatment under the technicalities of judicial process."

Lawyers Most Concerned.

Roberts' report was unanimously adopted by the council after a discussion which lasted several hours. The meeting was held in the office of the association's president, Justin Miller, special assistant to the Attorney General.

It was explained after the meeting that the significance of this action would not be limited to the actual voting strength of the association in the American Bar Association meeting. The significance, it was said, lay rather in the fact that the proposed court has been condemned by the very lawyers who will be most concerned—those who compose the membership of the Federal Bar Association.

Gov. Nice Honors Veteran Officer of National Guard

Gov. Harry W. Nice decorates Brig. Gen. Washington Bowie with a State service medal in honor of Gen. Bowie's 45 years with the Maryland National Guard. Gen. Bowie will retire in November. The ceremony took place at the guard encampment at Cascade, Md. Other officers of the Fifty-eighth Infantry Brigade, which Gen. Bowie commands, are shown awaiting their medals.

Bernard Clark, 13, Is Drowned, Swimming in Brick Works Pond

A deep pond used by the United Brick Works near New York avenue and Bladensburg road northeast yesterday claimed the life of 13-year-old Bernard Clark, of 2035 Claggett street northeast. He was drowned while swimming with friends.

The body was recovered by Dixon Lowery and Grady Rowe, each 16, of 911 and 928 Fourteenth street southeast respectively. Resuscitation methods were applied by the Fire Rescue Squad. The boy was pronounced dead at Casualty Hospital.

Meanwhile, Harbor Police yesterday continued to drag the Potomac River off Hains Point for the body of a man believed to have committed suicide. Park Policeman E. S. Mast found a coat and hat on the sea wall Saturday night. In the coat was a letter addressed to R. H. Feltwell, 1370 Oak street northwest.

Feltwell, located at his home, was unable to help police in solving the supposed victim's identity.

A note found in the coat pocket said: "What is the limit of divine forgiveness? Will there be forgiveness even for me? Should I have taken the F. A. advice to try again? But what I do I do."

Milk Prices Must Go Up, Farmers Say

Producers Cite Increase in Cost of Feed and Blame Drought.

Maryland and Virginia producers who furnish Washington's daily milk supply yesterday wholeheartedly indorced the rigid standards set up by the District Health Department but warned that unless prices are raised the National Capital will face a shortage of milk in the early fall.

More than a score of producers, both independents and members of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association, accepted the invitation of Health Officer George C. Ruhland and attended a conference in the board room of the District Building.

Testimony offered was in sharp contrast to that given last week by the Washington milk distributors.

Production Costs.

Substantial increases in the cost of feed for cattle, together with the failure of the hay, barley and corn crops in this area, due to lack of rainfall in May, were cited as reasons why producers should be allowed a price rise of 1 cent a quart. There was only one dissenting voice on the price question, although there were conflicts between the independents and association executives on other issues.

Glenn Trout, of Walkerville, Md., insisted that he was doing very well as an independent by selling milk at 21½ cents a gallon, but the majority of producers insisted that in many cases the production of milk was costing them more than they received for it.

Their only salvation, they said, was in auxiliary pursuits, such as the raising of livestock.

The producers agreed, however, that the rigid standards enforced by the health department are not responsible for the demand for a price raise, although it has cost them more to equip their dairy farms properly.

They proudly pointed out that Washington's milk is unsurpassed in the country because of the health department's regulation, and they urged Dr. Ruhland not to lower the standard to permit the importation of a cheaper grade of milk as has been suggested by the Consumers' Council. Officials of the association estimated such a change might cause the farmers to lose some $7,000,000 invested in equipment now required.

"We thought perhaps the people of Washington would be willing to accept the price increase to pay the farmers for their added expenses."

Several producers called attention to the drop from 23 to 23 cents a gallon since 1926, and Dr. F. W. Huddleston, of Fairfax County, charged that Washington consumers have not felt the benefit of this reduction.

Eliminate Intermediary.

"The intermediary ought to be eliminated," he said.

B. B. Derirck, manager of the Maryland-Virginia Producers Association, submitted figures to show the increase in the cost of feed, which he said was attributable to the Western drought, and the rise in the cost of milk production in this area.

Asked by Dr. Ruhland whether the price rise would be passed on to the consumer, Derirck said that was a matter for the distributors to decide.

The testimony of most of the farmers could be summed up in the statement of A. Lawrence Leigh, of Fairfax County.

"I've been able to pay my debts, that's about all. If I had paid myself any wages I would be short. As it is I may have to sell some cattle to keep on producing milk."

Adventist Stays At Post in Spain

The Rev. Robert Lee Odum, formerly of Washington, Seventh Day Adventist missionary in Caruna, Spain, suburb of Madrid, has chosen to remain at his post, according to information sent the State Department by Ambassadore Claude G. Bowers from the United States cruiser Cayuga, August 2. His wife and their young son are with him.

Mrs. Odum is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Oliver Montgomery, now in Orlando, Fla. Mr. Montgomery for several years was vice president of the Seventh Day Adventist General Conference, with headquarters in Tkoma Park.

Mr. Odum attended the Washington Missionary College in 1927 and 1928, and was sent to Spain from Takoma Park in September, 1931. The Odums are the only Americans in Caruna, according to the ambassador.

Seventh Day Adventist missionaries in Madrid, Barcelona and Valencia are safe, a cablegram to Takoma headquarters from the southern European division conference in Berne, Switzerland, reported.

45 States Will Send Delegates to Power Rally

The third World Power Conference announced yesterday that official representatives from public and private organizations in 45 States would attend sessions of the international gathering here, beginning September 7, the Associated Press reported.

More than 300 delegates already have been named, the announcement said, including official representatives designated by the Governors of 16 States.

Foreign delegates will represent 50 nations.

Late Releases Are Previewed On West Coast

Capsule Appraisals Wired Direct From Hollywood Projection Rooms.

By the United Press.

Hollywood, Aug. 10.—Picketing the preview parade:

"HIS BROTHER'S WIFE." (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer). Robert Taylor, up-and-comingest young player, and Barbara Stanwyck, in an up-and-coming young melodrama.

The picture is young because it will seem plausible only to the naive, and up-and-coming because it is packed with action and complications—packed too much, perhaps.

As newest matinee-idol, however, Taylor can do no wrong, and Stanwyck's performance is fine enough to please everybody, so the fans should go home happy. Taylor is a young doctor indulging a penchant for gambling before leaving on a scientific expedition in the South American jungle, and Stanwyck a New York model he meets at gaming tables.

Taylor decides to postpone the trip when he falls in love, but a stern brother, John Eldredge, makes him go through with it as the price of settling his gambling losses. Girl left in New York marries the brother out of spite, but eventually winds up in the jungle with Taylor for a happy ending among the palmettos.

"HOLLYWOOD BOULEVARD." (Paramount). Paramount's round-up of stars of the past is practically a travelogue for fans who regard Hollywood as a sort of "Mecca"—if there are any left.

The story is slight, and what there is of it borders on the lurid. John Halliday plays a former star, peddling his memoirs to a hot fan magazine as his last money-making bet. The plan goes awry when Marsha Hunt, as his daughter, tells him he's a "heel" for doing it, and the ex-star tries to call the deal off.

Publisher holds him to the sale, however, and it goes through until the name of the publisher's wife bobs up in the hot stuff. C. Henry Gordon and Frieda Innescourt are publisher and wife, and Esther Ralston turns in a smart bit.

Among those profiled are Bryant Washburn, Jack Mulhall, William Desmond, Francis X. Bushman, Maurice Costello, Mae Marsh, Betty Compson, Roy D'Arcy, Creighton Hale and Jane Novak.

"CHINA CLIPPER" (Warner Bros.). Pat O'Brien is tougher than at any time since Jimmy Cagney deserted him in a highly fictionized history of Pan-American Airways.

It's a man's picture, love interest handled sotto voce by Beverly Roberts. It takes off nohe too fast but gets a mighty lift through use of newsreel shots of the transpacific plane, catpuring something of the thrill of air achievement.

Best performance is that of the late Henry B. Walthall, in his last picture before death. He plays an aircraft designer who produced the Clipper as his masterpiece and dies before it lands in China, getting everything possible out of the role.

Other good bits for Ross Alexander and Humphrey Bogart.

"SING, BABY, SING" (Twentieth Century-Fox). A fair to middling musical, notable for a parody by Alice Faye and Adolphe Menjou on the transcontinental "Love Chase" of Elaine Barry and John (Great Lover) Barrymore.

Menjou, swell as a Hollywood actor on a binge in New York, is tossed together with Faye, a night-club singer, by her manager, Gregory Ratoff, for publicity purposes only. The affair, however, gets out of hand, and the chase begins when Montagu Love, as Menjou's manager, induces his charge to flee New York.

Michael Whalen, as a newspaper reporter, gets the girl after Faye obtains an apology from Menjou. The three Ritz Brothers, a trio on the "Yacht Club Boys" style, debut promisingly, and Ted Healy and Patsy Kelly split remaining laughs.

The musical numbers are tuneful, including "When Did You Leave Heaven?" "You Turned the Tables on Me," "Sing, Baby, Sing," and "Love Will Tell."

Ewald Schneider Services Today

Funeral services for Ewald Schneider, purchasing and claim agent for the American Ice Co., who died Sunday in Garfield Hospital, will be held today at 2:30 p. m., at Hysong's funeral parlors. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Schneider, who had been ill since Thursday, was 62 years old. Born in Germany, he came to this city as a boy. He was a member of Stansbury Lodge of Mason and Almas Temple of the Mystic Shrine. He lived at 3725 New Hampshire avenue.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Augusta K. Schneider; a son, Ewald C.; a daughter, Dorothy E.; two brothers, Charles and Otto Schneider, and three sisters, Mrs. Venie Reed, Mrs. Margaret Rowan and Mrs. Emma Thomfordt, all of this city.

Storm in Gulf Headed For Texas; Warning Up

New Orleans, Aug. 10 (AP).—A mild tropical disturbance moved toward Texas in the Gulf of Mexico today while a windstorm did slight damage in Mississippi.

The Mississippi windstorm leveled small buildings unroofed several dwellings and damaged fruit and crops in the Mossville area, just north of Laurel. No casualties were reported.

About the Showshops

"MEET NERO WOLFE." We have had our Philo Vances, Perry Masons and Charlie Chans, in the various persons of Basil Rathbone, William Powell, Warren William, Warner Oland et al., but now the cinema comes to bat with an entirely new sort of master of deduction in the character of Nero Wolfe, a corpulent and cloistered sleuth, who perceives no need of leaving the spacious confines of his Westchester home where he solves crimes for high fees and cultivates rare orchids for his own high glee.

BELL.

In the first of the Nero Wolfe murder fables to meet these eyes, Columbia has done a crafty job of sustaining suspense almost to the film's final flicker and Edward Arnold, in the title role, renders it extremely difficult to call to mind any other actor who could do the part half so well.

"Meet Nero Wolfe" is sheer murder mystery, mixed with a generous sprinkling of comedy—all of which is inherent in the lines rather than in the action. The situations confine themselves strictly to the business of running down the person responsible for two deaths that are professionally diagnosed as the result of heart failure.

One occurs on the golf links, when Prof. Barstow keels over just after having driven off from the first tee; the second, when a young iron worker collapses under similar circumstances on the street with a Barstow newspaper clipping clutched in his hand.

A fine array of suspects are rounded up by the time Nero Wolfe has got wind of a $50,000 reward in the case, and all the spectator has to do is try to decide which of the six or seven is the guilty one.

As a matter of fact, the spectator will not be called upon for his mental exertion at all if he will just have patience and wait for the last minute of the picture. The drama desks attending yesterday afternoon's preview were not accorded this privilege of waiting, however, but had the film stopped smack in their faces, after all the evidence was in, and were compelled to cast votes as to which member of the cast was the murderer. One of them guessed correctly, basing his choice of culprit on one brief, tell-tale line in the dialogue reels before things began to get very serious for anyone in the cast.

This lucky stab in the dark is, of course, to be construed as no evidence whatever of superior perspicacity but merely as a belated manifestation of the long-deferred operation of the well-known law of averages. Even if you play numbers every day of the year for the entire span of your life, the chances are you will "hit" once before you die!

But that is aside from the point that "Meet Nero Wolfe" affords an exhilarating hour or so on the screen for anyone with a penchant for solving crime stories. An additional recommendation is that Lionel Stander appears as the leg-man for the ponderous, salty and malty Mr. Wolfe, whose beer consumption would make a tidy item for the brewery ads.

"Meet Mr. Wolfe" opens at the Earle on Friday and I suspect you will be glad of the introduction to Sherlock Holmes' latest rival. Pretty clever fellow, Nero.

• • • •

Speaking of the new bill at the Earle, Paul Draper, nephew of the eminent diseuse, Ruth Draper, and one of the American theater's foremost dancers, will not headline the stage portion of the entertainment as previously announced. Mr. Draper, it seems, has undergone the inconvenient and painful experience of spraining an ankle and will be forced to remain idle for several weeks. His place on the bill will be taken by the familiar hill-billy quartet comprised of Pappy, Zeb, Ezra and Elton, foremost of the backwoods virtuosi.

• • • •

For the aid of those who enjoy taking a vicarious whirl at the useless but stimulating business of choosing the "ten best pictures of the year," it should be of interest that the Motion Picture Herald, foremost of the industry's trade magazines, has printed a recapitulation of its findings in the monthly box-office polls of key cities, conducted throughout the year, for the purpose of determining the "box-office champions" for the first six months of the current year, January 1 to June 30, 1936.

These are "The Great Ziegfeld," "Follow the Fleet," "Rose Marie," "Modern Times," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," "Captain Blood," "Magnificent Obsession," "The Story of Louis Pasteur," "The Bride Comes Home" and "Show Boat."

Contemplation of this list of choices on the part of the cash customers will rather thoroughly dispel the notion that all the good pictures come from one source. No producing company has more than two pictures among the half-year's ten best and only three can boast that many. In other words, seven production companies are represented in the roster of best films—a fair distribution of honors, indicative of the cinema's even and steady progression toward new heights of artistry and achievement.

Dots and Dashes.

There seems no point, after all, in holding a post mortem over the "Miss Capitol" contest concluded at Chevy Chase Lake last Friday night . . . That is all what Ed Sullivan would call "water under the bridge" by now . . . Maybe early next summer we will pop off on this topic, you never can tell . . . Ed Sullivan, by the way, will be a week-end attraction on the Steel Pier in Atlantic City with his "Dawn Patrol Revue" and the Ritz Brothers . . . Yeah, The Post's "Broadway" columnist, no other . . . The Duncan Sisters ought to let that be a lesson to them . . . I mean at Sunday night's last performance, when they got to exchanging "handies" and "knock-knocks" with the audience, a smart young fellow, aged about 10, down front, popped the "marmalade" gag at them and almost broke up the show! . . . And if you think Rosetta hasn't a good "whip," you're practically ne plus ultra, e pluribus unum, or something . . . She heaved a doughnut from the stage clear up to the back of the top balcony Sunday night, with practically no windup whatever . . . Maybe non compos mentis is what I meant . . . If I find out, I'll drop you a line.

Gillette's Ace Melo Essayed By Roadsiders

'Sherlock Holmes' Engages Interest of Red Barn's Hiss-and-Cheer Fans.

"SHERLOCK HOLMES." The Roadside Theater presents the drama in four acts and five scenes by William Gillette and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, directed by Harrold A. Weinberger, with settings by Edith I. Allen and costumes by Dorothy Croissant. Incidental piano accompaniment by Jeanne Brayshaw. At the Roadside Theater. Reviewed Monday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Bringing to the stage a famous character, made more famous by William Gillette, the Roadsiders last evening presented the enduring drama of "Sherlock Holmes" to provide an evening in the theater, filled with such diversion as is engendered by the play itself rather than the method of its performance.

That the Roadsiders met their Waterloo would be overstating the case, yet this production fell short in all collective effects of the high standards set by earlier productions in the old red barn.

While a completely Gillettian conception of the character and the play was lacking, the sum total of the venture was, nevertheless, on the right side of the ledger. "Sherlock Holmes" always will be ace entertainment.

Outshining his fellows was Fred Haskin, jr., as Professor Moriarty, putting his asthmatic snort to admirable use to accentuate his utter contempt for Sherlock Holmes. George Farrington, in the title role, was a bit curt in his performance, but did rise to proper heights in his final sequence with Alice Faulkner (the charming Adele Gusack). Kenn Romney did a nice Doctor Watson, in spite of going into the part on two rehearsals' notice.

Edith Allen's settings were good and Dorothy Croissant's costuming delightfully in period, but Harold A. Weinberger's direction was slightly under par.

Swings Self Into Long Contract

A veteran trouper at 20, already wearing the expansive title of "queen of swing," Martha Raye won a long-term contract with Paramount before she had finished work in "Rhythm on the Range," her first picture. She was found singing in a night club and was immediately cast opposite Bob Burns, the Arkansas traveler, in the Bing Crosby vehicle. While this was going on, she was assigned to an important part in "The Big Broadcast of 1937"—taking time out, however, to sign on the dotted line, thus joining the ranks of the cinema Cinderellas.

Sheridan Road

By Helen Topping Miller

SYNOPSIS.

Eden Faraday, young secretary, opens the door of a taxi and finds a man murdered. She is taken to the police station, where she meets Jack Garnett, newspaper cameraman, and Owen Field, assistant district attorney, who arranges her release. Eden had been mistaken for Gracie Lincoln, a gunman's widow. The man murdered was a notorious gangster, Grappi. Eden's mother, Bridget Faraday, sells gowns and is in love with suave Sidney Creighton. Eden and her spoiled young sister, Robin, and brother, Coburn, depend on their peppery grandmother. Because of rumor that Eden can identify the murderers Owen Field has her guarded. An attempt is made to kidnap Eden, but Field and his men rescue her. Field takes her to his mother's home, where she is kept secluded. Jack Garnett climbs roofs to talk to her from her window and enlists her aid in helping him solve the mystery. Raquel Rusak, an older woman, is trying to force Coburn Faraday to marry her. While at a roadhouse with Raquel, Coburn sees his sister, Robin, come in with Sidney Creighton. Eden is brought home by Owen Field after the inquest. She goes with Garnett to see Gracie Lincoln, now married to Clint Jarvis, a taxi driver. Clint has been forced to drive the murderers of Grappi. Eden's grandmother is a friend of Mat Burke, district attorney. Eden promises to help Clint gain an audience with Burke. As they leave Gracie's Eden sees her brother driving up with a common looking woman.

CHAPTER XII.

Falling in Love.

Robin was a child still—a silly, rebellious, defiant child. Creighton was very likely flattered by her interest, pleased to find his middle aged charms atractive to a fresh, small, golden creature like Bridget's daughter.

She and Gran had wished for so much for the Faradays, for Coburn and for Robin. Eden was thinking—and now everything was turning sordid. And there was nothing any one could do. She roused from her heavy reverie as the car slid into the narrow side street.

"Tired?" Garnett was solicitious.

"Not specially," she tried to smile, "I had two days rest at Mrs. Field's, with nothing to do but think."

"I'll go up with you. Field may have somebody watching the house."

"Are we," Eden asked, "to tell Owen Field about this—Clint Jarvis and the rest?"

Garnett jerked to a standstill. She saw his lean dark scowl that turned him from youth to saturnine maturity in a flash.

"Lord no! Keep Field out of this."

"But—he is in Martin Burke's office. He's handling the Grappi case."

"Look here," young Garnett was grim; "you know about Field. You're a smart girl—"

"What am I supposed to know about him?"

"You know he's falling in love with you."

"Absurd!" But her tone lacked conviction.

"Not absurd at all. It's very evident. Field would be hostile to this whole idea. We've got to keep him out of it for the present. Burke's human."

"And Owen Field is not?"

Garnett stabbed at the elevator button. "Burke had to work for his living. He wasn't raised on Sheridan road. He fought up. And he didn't forget. A lot of men forget. Field never had to fight. He takes power and success as his due. He'd be opposed to leniency for any poor fellow under suspicion. And specially he'd be opposed to being decent with Clint, because I thought of it."

"But why," Eden desired to know, "because you thought of it?"

He gave her a slow, odd look that sent the blood burning up into her cheeks.

"Suppose you lie awake all night trying to figure that one out," he suggested. "He'd oppose it for several reasons—but for one special reason that is devilishly important to me. I'm falling in love with you myself. Field knows it. Now you know it. Good night, Eden Faraday!"

Unchanged for Years.

Sidney Creighton's apartment was reached by a silent elevator, and the door was opened by a Filipino boy in a white silk coat, who bowed, backed in, carefully refraining from looking at the lady on the threshold.

Creighton said, "Cocktails, Ricco," and Robin walked in, hating the thrilled burning excitement in her blood.

She kept her voice to a thrilled contralto, though she was feeling very young and wicked and just a trifle frightened.

She said, "O—nice! What a heavenly blue carpet. Some one did a very clever job on this place, obviously."

Creighton laughed indulgently.

"Nothing has been changed here for years, Bobs. That's the sort of old fogy I am. When the curtains fall to pieces from old age, Ricco buys some more exactly like them. Sit here? This is the warmest corner. Ricco must have known you were coming. These daffodils exactly match your hair. Now—the blue pillow—sets off your eyes. The picture is perfect."

Robin's eyes were amused, her mouth had a saucy dimple.

"Not knowing that I was coming, he was prepared for any situation, wasn't he? Over there are the red tulips he had ready in case you brought home a brunette."

Creighton was not dashed.

"I do now and then. I bring Bridget. I put her against that dark chair and we sit and talk about the decadence of youth."

Robin's tone was slightly aloof. "She'd like to keep me a child forever. No woman likes great, long legged creatures running around calling her mother. I displeased her very much by growing up."

"Your mother and I are very good friends."

Robin let her eyelids rise and fall. "I don't believe mother thinks of you as a good friend."

"I'm quite certain she thinks of me as a very good friend indeed. That's why I shouldn't have let you come here. That wasn't a friendly thing to do."

"She'll be furious at me, of course. She'll be furious because I went out with you at all. Probably we'd better not tell her. It would certainly be better not to tell her. She'd be unhappy—and I'd be terribly unhappy myself because the atmosphere would be thunderous for ages."

"Agreed then—we make no one unhappy. But what a little liar you turned out to be."

"Oh, I won't tell any lies. I'll merely say that I was out with a nice young man, not too exciting."

Creighton's face changed a little. A flush came over it and his eyes regarded her speculatively. Just a small, golden, reckless thing, lovely to look at—but how beautifully she fitted into this room with its rich draperies and softly shaded lights!

He had built the room around himself, gracious, sophisticated, with no thought of any woman, no concession to feminity. But Robin was decorative enough and smooth enough to adorn any background.

He said, "Couldn't I be exciting, Bobs?"

She looked at him levelly, analytically. "Could you?" she countered.

He pulled a chair near and said, "That's all, Ricco." He leaned forward. His temples were faintly silvered with gray in the glow of the fire, but his eyes were very young indeed.

"I think I could be exciting. Want to try me?"

She leaned back, tucked her hands behind her head. She could have him! It was in his voice, a little shaken, in his ardent eyes, in the possessiveness of his attitude. She could undoubtedly marry him if she was clever, but she was not sure that she wanted to be clever.

It would mean freedom, serenity, security, an end to the irritations at home, of school. Lovely frocks, furs, jewels, her own car—this rich, quiet place in which to live. No more of Milton's adolescent adoration.

Culbertson on Bridge

Ladies, Rejoice!

From Austria comes word that should gladden the heart of all feminine bridge players and send the men (who have patronized and lorded it over them these many years) slinking to cover, confused and humiliated.

A women's team, competing in a long and therefore decisive tournament in Vienna, has swept the field of masculine opponents among whom were numbered some of Austria's greatest players, and thus earned the right to represent their country at the forthcoming Grand European tournament to be held in Stockholm, Sweden. Since Austrian players are generally accounted among the finest in Europe, it will be seen that the women have earned a notable victory.

I will not deny that I was particularly pleased by the comments of Dr. Paul Stern (recent international winner with Dr. von Kaltenegger, of the World Bridge Olympic) who wrote the review of the match for the Austrian Bridge magazine. Translation of part of his article reads as follows:

"While most of the men who participated were better, individually, than the women, the result was a success of systems. The men could not give the women the handicap of the 4-5 no-trump convention, the asking bids, and the strict obedience to a definite system."

So, while I, as a man, may grieve at the humiliation of my sex, there is a great deal of solace for me as inventor and advocate of that system!

Super-Camouflage.

Some players stake their all on the success of a certain finesse. If it loses, they shrug as philosophically as possible and attribute their defeat to the malevolence of fate. Other players take and lose the same finesse, but, before doing so, cannily maneuver to have fate working for them! As in today's hand:

Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♥ 9 6
♦ Q 10 9 7 4 3

WEST
♠ K 9 8 6 4
♥ A J 8 5
♦ K 5
♣ 9 2

EAST
♠ J 3 2
♥ K Q 7 2
♦ 2

SOUTH
♥ 10 6 3
♦ A J 8 6
♣ Q J 10 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 spade	3 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West could see no better opening lead than a spade and therefore led his fourth highest. East played the jack and declarer made a lightning calculation. He saw at a glance that if West held the diamond king and won it on a finesse that he, West, would be able to count nine tricks for the opponents if South disclosed the A Q of spades by winning the first trick with the queen. (Two spades, five diamonds and two clubs). That being so, West would be forced to shift to hearts as the one chance of defeating the contract. And, quite obviously, North and South were not prepared for a heart shift! At the same glance, declarer saw that it was unimportant whether he took one or two spade tricks, since he had extra tricks concealed in the club suit, if only that heart shift could be avoided! (Obviously, if the diamond finesse were to succeed, any line of play would work).

There was one chance to avoid the heart shift, and declarer seized it. He won the first trick with the spade ace! Entering dummy with a club, he led the queen of diamonds and finessed. West won with the king and who can blame him for figuring that his partner had the queen of spades? He led a low spade and declarer, chuckling fiendishly, gobbled up the trick and ran off three clubs and five diamonds, for a total of five odd!

Nats Swamp Yanks, Win By 13-4

DeShong Holds Former Mates Well in Hand; Gehrig Hits Homer.

Ruffing Driven to Cover; Travis, Kress, Lewis Lead the Attack.

By Shirley Povich.

Sports Editor of The Post.

New York, Aug. 10.—The Nats made good in the big city in a big way this afternoon, my hearties. In Yankee Stadium where they hadn't won a ball game all season, they reared up and slapped down the haughty Yankee by the rousing score of 13 to 4.

They weren't bunting. They were taking toe holds at the plate and strangle holds on their bats against the pitching of Charley Ruffing and a couple of others the Yankees found necessary to call into the fray.

They leaned against the pitching of Ruffing, Ted Kleinhans and Walter Brown for 18 scattered hits—scattered all over the premises. Yeah, and even out of the premises, because one of those hits was a home run socked by Buddy Lewis that soared into the rightfield bleachers at a time when two mates were on base.

Thus vanished the Yankees' seven-game winning streak and the Nats' Yankee Stadium jinx. But probably even more galling to the Yankees was the identity of the winning pitcher—Jimmy DeShong.

Obtains Revenge.

DeShong, the lad the Yanks consigned down the river in a deal with the Nats last winter, tasted the sweetness of revenge this afternoon with an eight-hit pitching performance that doomed the Yankees, what with the Nats scoring in five of the nine innings.

It was a scarcely recognizable Washington line-up that Bucky Harris sent into the fray. Playing second base for the first time in his career, was Cecil Travis, one of four substitutes in the Nats' array. At first base was the ubiquitous Red Kress, subbing for the injured Joe Kuhel, and DeShong labored, too, with the Nats' No. 2 catcher and a reserve outfielder in action.

But these auxiliaries were a mighty help to DeShong. The four of 'em made 11 of the Nats' 18 hits, with Travis, Kress and Millies accounting for three each and Carl Reynolds contributing a pair of devastating doubles.

Ben Chapman carried the torch for the Nats with a triple at the start of the ball game and after Ruffing walked Lewis scored. Travis' single to center sent Chapman home and Lewis crossed the plate while Stone was hitting into a double play.

The Yanks reduced the figures to 2 to 1 immediately. Crosetti was hit by DeShong and scored on Rolfe's double and DiMaggio's fly, but the Nats bounced right back at Ruffing, knocking him from the box.

The lower end of the batting order filled the bases with one out when Bluege and Millies singled and DeShong walked. Bluege scored on Chapman's infield out, but Buddy Lewis didn't trifle. He smashed a screaming fly into the rightfield bleachers. Three more

Wirephoto Catches Dizzy Dean in Fist Fight With Cub Players

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.

Dean Beats Cubs, 7-3; Fights With Carleton

By the Associated Press.

St. Louis, Aug. 10 (AP).—Apparently being "ridden" from the Cubs' dugout, Dizzy Dean, St. Louis Cardinal ace, rushed from the mound and engaged in a fist fight today with Tex Carleton, Chicago pitcher.

Two men were out in the first inning and Dean had one strike and two balls on Billy Herman when he suddenly left the hill on a run straight for the Cubs' dugout. Carleton leaped out and met him half way to the first base line, where the two pitchers clinched and exchanged blows.

Members of both teams, assisted by the umpires, swarmed the field and separated the combatants. Paul Dean, Dizzy's brother, was prominent in the scuffle and made a vain attempt to "get at Carleton after the original trouble had subsided.

Play was resumed after a six-minute delay, with Dean back on the mound. He walked Herman and then got Frank Demaree to end the inning.

Umpires informed the press box after the inning, they believed both principals in the fight should have been ejected from the game. At the request of Charlie Grimm, manager of the Cubs, they said they permitted Dean to continue on the mound and Carleton to remain on the bench.

Dizzy Dean went to the mound and pitched the Cardinals into first place with a 7-to-3 victory.

Fireworks, expected in the three-game series between the two teams, flared after only two men were out. Billy Herman was at bat, with the call one and two, when Dean suddenly raced from the mound toward the Cubs' dugout.

With the near-riot over, the Cards went to work at once on Lon Warneke, scoring a run in the first inning and driving him to the showers in the third with a four-run splurge.

Frankie Blair, recent conqueror of Harry Dublinsky, has been matched in a 10-round bout against Lew Raymond, of Baltimore, in a bout which will serve as a semi-final to the Howard Scott-Lew Feldman box-fighting bout at Griffith Stadium next Monday night.

Myer Returns Home; Plans To Retire

Nats' Ailing Captain Will Confer With President Griffith Today.

New York, Aug. 10.—Buddy Myer, captain and second baseman of the Nats, left the team here today and returned to Washington, where he will confer with Owner Clark Griffith concerning his retirement for the season because of illness.

Myer, who has been ailing all season, was mildly stricken this morning and received permission from Manager Bucky Harris to return to Washington.

Myer has appeared in only 51 games this season. He has been suffering from a stomach disorder since the opening of the season and has been used chiefly as a pinch hitter.

Our Paddy, $15.80, Washington Pk. Winner

Chicago, Aug. 10 (AP).—Our Patty, paying $15.80 straight, galloped to a head victory over Belleek in the third event at Washington Park today.

The winner, campaigning in the colors of C. Gubbins, overtook Belleek in the final jumps to the wire. The Mayfield Stables' Full Tilt, the favorite, won third money. Jockey Frank Maschek, up on Our Patty, kept his mount in the center of the track, the part of the heavy strip which appeared the best going.

Owens, Olympic Ace, Ready to Turn Pro

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—Jesse Owens will turn professional if there enough money in it, he announced today before leaving for Cologne, where he was scheduled to run tonight.

Already he has been offered a $25,000 contract to appear for ten weeks with a California orchestra, and a flood of other offers indicated the boy who won four gold medals in the current Olympics will have no trouble turning his performnaces into cash.

Jesse, who will fly to Praha for an exhibition tomorrow and to Bochum for another on Wednesday, has the approval of Larry Snyder, his coach at Ohio State, in the professional venture, despite the fact that Jesse still has one year of college eligibility left.

"It would be foolish for me to stand in Jesse's way. He's absolutely at the height of his fame now. Nothing that he could do in his remaining year of college competition would lift him to a higher peak in the athletic world than he now enjoys.

"Under the circumstances, I believe he is justified in accepting offers to turn professional so long as they're the right kind. He has a good chance to make from $75,000 to $100,000. I'd be glad to see him do it."

Both Snyder and Owens are doubtful about accepting any professional offers before returning to of September. Owens has several the United States in the latter part commitments to appear with other members of the United States Olympic track and field team.

He is scheduled to fly from Bochum to London for the British Empire-United States games there Saturday, and after that to tour Sweden and several other countries.

"I'm anxious to finish my college course, but I can't afford to miss this chance if it really means big money," Owens said. "I can always go back and get a degree.

"It would mean giving up my future athletic career, but I have had a fair share of track and field honors and I feel I could hang up my spikes without any serious regrets."

Bees in Triumph, 9-7; Phillies Drop Seventh

Philadelphia, Aug. 10 (AP).—Boston's Bees came from behind with a three-run rally in the eighth today to hand Philadelphia its eighth straight defeat, 9 to 7.

In the winning inning, Lopez reached first on Norris' error and second on Weir's sacrifice. Urbanski walked and Jordan doubled to center, scoring Lopez. Berger was purposely passed, filling the bases, and Cuccinello reponded with a single that sent Urbanski and Jordan over with the clinching runs.

Nippon Tank Stars Hang Up New Records; American Girls Far Back in Board Events; Two Yankee Boxers Win.

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—Apparently satisfied with dominating the picture for a full week, the United States turned over the Olympic spotlight today to the Japanese, the Dutch and the Peruvians.

Figuring prominently only in the springboard dive and the opening of boxing competition, the Americans otherwise were pretty well outclassed all along the Olympic sport front.

Dick Degener, of Detroit; Marshall Wayne, of Miami, and Al Greene, of Chicago, placed first, second fourth in the diving competition with half the test completed but America's water poloists were eliminated by Belgium, 4-3, and her swimmers found the Japanese and the Dutch much too fast.

Olive McKean, of Seattle, and Katherine Rawls, of Miami, Fla., finished sixth and seventh, respectively, in the woman's 100-meter free style final which was won by Rita Mastenbroek, Dutch ace, in 1:05.9, a new Olympic record. In the men's division, America's quartet of Charley Nutter, Ralph Gilman, Paul Wolf and Jack Medica qualified for the 800-meter relay finals by winning its heat in 9:10.4 but saw small hope of victory after a Japanese combination had set up a new Olympic standard of 8:58.1.

Nor was there any cause for American joy in the 400-meter free style trials where John Macionis, of Yale; Ralph Flanagan, of Miami, and Medica all qualified for the semifinals but saw Shumpei Uto set up a new Olympic record of 4:45.5 and two other Japanese, Hiroshi Negami and Shozo Mankino, qualify in fast time.

Meanwhile, Peru tossed a bombshell into Olympic circles by withdrawing its entire Olympic delegation after the International Football Federation had thrown out Peru's 4-2 victory over Austria in soccer competition last Saturday. The federation ordered the game replayed as a result of an Austrian protest that spectators had attacked members of the Austrian team as well as the umpire during the later stages of the match. Peru declined to replay the match and Austria was adjudged the winer by forfeit.

Laurie Winner.

Boxing competition was marked by opening round victories for Louis Laurie, Cleveland flyweight, and Chester Rutecki, Chicago welterweight, and visitation of official wrath on Iriving Pease, crack Canadian middleweight. Pease was shipped home as the competition got under way for failure to make the class weight.

"It looks as though Pease simply came here on a joyride at the expense of someone else," said P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic committee.

America's field hockey team suffered another reverse, bowing to Hungary, 3-1, and made a poor showing in yachting competition fast drawing to a close. Holland and Germany won the gold medals in the monotype and star classes as the 6-meter and 8-meter championships awaited the results of sail-offs today. The United States placed fifth in the final star class results; sixth in the 6 meters and tenth in both the 8-meter and monotype divisions.

Bikemen Trail.

The Americans likewise trailed in the 100-kilometer bicycle road race, in which Frenchmen took the first two places. Basketball competition, where the United States is a top-heavy favorite, was at a virtual standstill since the day's program was devoted to second-round consolation matches.

Meanwhile, there were a few sch-

Egyptian Whips Vinciquerra, U. S. Hope

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—Carl Vinciquerra, Omaha, Nebr., light-heavyweight, was eliminated from Olympic competition by Anin, of Egypt, today when he lost a decision on points.

Poor Blocking.

Louis Laurie, Cleveland flyweight, and Chester Rutecki, Chicago welterweight, won their opening bouts, Laurie from Bezdek, of Czechoslovakia, and Rutecki from Camyree, of Canada. Both victories were scored on points.

Bierman Selected As All-Star Coach

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Bernie Bierman, whose mighty Minnesota elevens have swept all opposition aside for the last two seasons, will direct the College All-Stars against the Detroit Lions, champions of the professional footbal world, at Soldier Field, September 1.

Bierman was elected to the office of head coach in the third annual poll conducted by the Chicago Tribune by a margin of 1,088,010 points over Notre Dame's Elmer Layden, who will serve as one of his assistants. The other members of the collegians' board of strategy will be Alvin (B) McMillin, of Indiana; Lou Little, of Columbia, and Lynn Waldorg, of Northwestern, who followed in that order in the poll.

The Gopher mentor piled up 3,872,251 points through 1,047,173 first place votes, and 247,284 and 236,164, respectively, for second and third choices. Layden's supporters gave him 684,327 first choice votes, and enough second and thirds for a point total of 2,284,241. McMillen had 2,770,643; Little, 2,169,202, and Waldorf, 2,147,020.

The squad will report to Bierman and his staff at Dyche Stadium, Northwestern's home battle ground, Thursday morning.

Owens and Woodruff Bow in Cologne

By the Associated Press.

Cologne, France, Aug. 10.—Jesse Owens and John Woodruff, Olympic champions, were defeated tonight in an international track and field meet before 35,000 spectators, Owens by Ralph Metcalfe, Chicago, in the 100 meters, and Woodruff by Gerald Backhouse, of Australia, in the 800-meter run.

Metcalfe won the 100 meters in 0:10.3, equaling the world record. Owens, in second place, was timed in 0:10.4; Erwin Gillmeister, of Germany, was third and Bunta Suzuki, of Japan, fourth.

Backhouse was timed in 1:54.5 in the 800. Harry Williamson, High Point, N. C., was third, and Woodruff, the favorite, sixth.

Owens did win one event and figured in another. He won the broad jump with a leap of 7.43 meters (24 feet 4 33-64 inches), and ran first with Jimmy Luvalle, Los Angeles, Bob Packard, Rockford, Ill., and Metcalfe, in the sprint relay event.

Packard won the 200-meter event in 21.2, Luvlle the 400 meters in 47.1, ahead of Bob Young, of Bakersfield, Calif., who was second in 47.8; Fritz Pollard, of Chicago, the 110-meter hurdles in 14.6, and Cornelius Johnson, of Los Angeles, the high jump with a leap of 2 meters (6 feet 6¾ inches).

Billy Brown, Baker, La., finished fifth in the hop, step and jump, which was won by Olavi Suomela, of Finland, in 14.60 meters (47 feet 10 53-64 inches).

Track Federation Approves 27 World Records

By Alan Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—The International Amateur Athletic Federation opened its two-day congress today by approving a history-making collection of 27 world record track and field performances dominated by Americans. It also took a strong stand in opposition to commercialism or propaganda in connection with sports and then gingerly tackled the "man-woman" athletic subject as a consequence of assuming complete jurisdiction over women's track and field competition.

Jesse Owens, Ohio State Negro who is expected to wind up his amateur career at the end of a current European tour as a result of his decision to turn professional if satisfactory financial inducements develop, left something to remember him by as far as the record books were concerned.

Due mainly to his tremendous day in the 1935 Big Ten championships at Ann Arbor, Mich., in which his four records produced six world marks when spread into metric categories, Owens' name now is listed eight times.

These include two 9.4 seconds performances at 100 yards; 20.3 seconds for the 200-meter and 220-yard dashes; 22.6 seconds for the 220-yard and 200-meter low hurdles; 26 feet, 8¼ inches for the broad jump, and a fourth interest in the new world 400-meter relay record set up yesterday by Owens, Ralph Metcalfe, Foy Draper and Frank Wykoff in the Olympics.

The question of whether Owens jeopardized his amateur status currently by his talk of turning professional caused some debate among amateur athletic union officials. The Associated Press learned that at least one prominent official had been consulted by Owens and his coach, Larry Snyder, before Owens made public his prospective intentions.

Since Jesse has refrained carefully from any commitments of any kind thus far, there is no basis for action and none is contemplated especially since the "Brown Bullet" has been obliging enough to meet the tremendous demands for his appearances competitively throughout Europe before going home.

"There's no basis for considering such a case unless a definite step is taken toward professionalism," said Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U. "Owens is only one of several athletes who have talked about getting offers."

All told 16 record-breaking or record-equaling performances by Americans were included in the most dazzling list ever passed on by the I. A. A. F.

The records were brought completely up to date by including all the principal marks made in America this year as well as world records set during the Olympics.

Bob's Bob, $15.80, Wins Suffolk Downs Feature Race by Nose

Sandy Boot's Early Bid Is Futile

By the Associated Press.

Suffolk Downs, Boston, Aug. 10.—Smashing home when his cause seemed lost, Mrs. H. H. Mohr's Bob's Boy scored by a nose in the Lynn Press Club purse, mile and a sixteenth feature of the wash day crowd at Suffolk Downs before 10,000, to pay the good price of $15.80.

Mrs. F. P. Coltilettiz' Sandy Boot was second a half a length in front of A. C. Bostwick's Lost Friend that held the show money by a length over Mrs. Ed. Haughton's Cascapedia. Sandy Boot was worth $10.60 to place and Lost Friend brought $2.60 for show.

J. K. Houssel's Happy Bolivar set the pace until the four and a half furlong pole was reached where Grigg took Lost Friend to the front. On the elbow of the far turn Georgie Watson took Sandy Boot to the leader and the two battled it out all the way until from out of nowhere came Bob's Boy to gain the award in the final jump while being timed in 1:46.

Ketchell, Polish Giant, Kayoes Bennett in 1st

Newark, N. J., Aug. 10 (AP).—Leon Ketchell, giant Polish heavyweight, made his debut in an American boxing ring tonight with a one-round knockout over Roy Bennett, of Roslindale, Mass., at Meadowbrook Field. Ketchell weighed 246 and Bennett 198.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GEOLOGIST, $4.80, $3.40, $2.60; SNAP JUDGMENT, $21.00, $8.20; ADDIS ABABA, $3.00.

GEOLOGIST was not hurried during the early stages after gaining a prominent position, swung to the outside in the stretch and, closing with good speed, drew out fast through the closing furlong. SNAP JUDGMENT, in closest attendance of the pace all the way, held on stoutly to the close though no match for the winner when challenged. ADDIS ABABA drew away into a good lead early only to weaken when reaching the stretch. CORKER went evenly. GLOW WORM was never a threat. HUNTER'S GOLD was outrun. The others were far back all the way.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 2:54. Off at 2:58½. Winner, Mrs. Etta M. Franc's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BIEN FAIT, $3.20, $2.60, $2.40; BUBBLESOME, $4.20, $3.00; WISE PLAYER, $3.20.

BIEN FAIT went to the front in the opening strides, drew clear and, rated along under snug restraint, drew out steadily when reaching the stretch and was being taken in hand through the late stages. BUBBLESOME, hard ridden to keep up, saved ground in the stretch and closed with good energy, outgaming WISE PLAYER for the place though no threat to the winner. WISE PLAYER, chased in close pursuit of the winner for most of the way though unable to keep pace in the drive. CHANCING, a trailer for the greater part of the way, unleased a keen burst of late speed through the closing furlong. PICKLE CHANCE was never prominent and can do much better. MOONSON, hard ridden for the first 3 furlongs, in an effort to hold a prominent position, weakened thereafter. HOME LOAN was outrun.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200. The Lynn Press Club. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:30. Off at 4:41. Winner, Mrs. H. J. Mohr's b. g. (3), by In Memoriam—Marsh Fire. Trained by G. Mohr. Value to winner, $825; second, $225; third, $100; fourth, $10. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:13 1-5, 1:39 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOBS BOYS, $15.80, $7.60, $3.80; SANDY BOOT, $10.60, $4.40; LOST FRIEND, $2.60.

BOBS BOYS was not hurried during the early stages, began moving up on the outside leaving the backstretch, closed with a rush through the stretch, getting up in the closing stride. SANDY BOOT, taken to the outside down the backstretch, wore down LOST FRIEND for the lead when reaching the stretch and just failed to last. LOST FRIEND, pinched back at the first turn, was taken to the outside, went to the front with a rush, drew clear only to weaken slightly in the closing drive. CASCAPEDIA was unable to reach the leaders. BILLY I. never could threaten the leaders. HAPPY BOLIVAR showed good early speed, retiring steadily after rounding from the backstretch. HOLLYHOCK was never a threat.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won ridden out; place driving. Went to post at 5:11. Off at 5:13½. Winner, J. H. Logan's b. h. (5), by Swift and Sure—El Dorado. Trained by J. H. Logan. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $75. Time, 0:23, 0:46 3-5, 1:12.

ARMSTRONG	(Grigg)	108	3	10	10	10	10	10	9.50

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BONANZA, $14.00, $9.20, 06.60; DYAK, $11.00, $6.60; TUTTICURIO, $8.20; ONRUSH, $5.20.

BONANZA drew clear in the opening quarter mile, was rated along in front under slight restraint and, though hard ridden through the stretch, dominated the running to the close. DYAK, away fast, lacked speed to keep pace and closed with a rush on the outside in the last furlong. TUTTICURIO, in nearest chase of the winner early, was unable to keep pace and barely lasted to stave off ONRUSH. The latter worked his way up steadily and came stoutly in the stretch but PELWIN made up some ground. MARMARA never was a threat. ARMSTRONG stumbled and almost unseated his rider in the first furlong. He was unable to recover and trailed the entire trip.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 5:47. Off at 5:49½. Winner, Mrs. A. Schwartz' blk. g. (4), by Justice F.—Anna G. Trained by A. Schwartz. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:48, 1:13 1-5, 1:40 2-5, 1:47.

BLACKMAIL	(Craig)	116	1	1	3½	3ʰ	7	7	7	9.00

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BROPHY, $11.40, $7.00, $4.20; THE MAULER, $4.80, $3.40; AMERICAN PRINCE, $3.80.

BROPHY opened up a commanding advantage in the first quarter mile, was steadied along in front and was never threatened, winning with speed to spare. THE MAULER, a trailer until leaving the back stretch, moved on gamely on the outside when called upon and, despite closing in game fashion, was never able to endanger the winner. AMERICAN PRINCE, restrained early, moved up briefly nearing the stretch though unable to keep pace in the drive. SEA FOX, restrained early, moved up briefly only to retire in the closing quarter mile. PRINCE POMPEY, well up early, flattened out badly when called upon.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place driving. Went to post at 6:19. Off at 6:20½. Winner, James H. Connors jr.'s b. g. (3), by Display—Great. Trained by P. T. Catalano. Value to winner, $700; second, $150, third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:13 1-5, 1:40 4-5, 1:47.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—POCKET PIECE, $16.40, $7.20, $3.40; CONTINUITY, $8.80, $4.20; STILL ALARM, $2.40.

POCKET PIECE was kept within striking distance of the leaders, wore down CONTINUITY before reaching the stretch and drew out steadily. CONTINUITY took command at once, drew away into a good lead and, though holding on gamely, was unable to cope with the closing bid of the winner. STILL ALARM, reserved early, moved up on the inside leaving the backstretch, closed stoutly though unable to reach the leaders. TIME TO GO, slow to begin and permitted to drop far out of the contention, closed some ground in the stretch run. STEALTH never was a serious factor. INTRODUCTORY tired.

Godfrey Meets Wells In Stadium Feature

By Bill McCormick.

George Godfrey, the ebon-hued genial giant, will make his first American ring appearance since his triumphal two-year tour of Europe at Griffith Stadium tonight in a scheduled 10-round boxing bout against Billy Wells, a Midwestern heavyweight.

Godfrey, recognized by the International Boxing Union as heavyweight champion of the world and generally recognized as colored heavyweight champion of the world, will risk the latter title against the Western colored lad.

Odmitting to 34 years, Godfrey insists that he still will cut a wide swath in present-day heavyweight circles now that he can follow the example of Joe Louis and fight all his fights on his merits.

Was Handcuffed.

"Ah was handcuffed for yeahs," big Gawge admits. "Now them handcuffs is off—an'. Ah'm gonna show people jest what kind of a fightah ole Gawge really is."

"Ah've been treated swell in Washington an' Ah wants to fight heah some mo'," the big fellow grinned yesterday at the conclusion of his final workout. "Thass why Ah'm gonna show all mah stuff out theah against Wells, on account of Ah wants to come back heah again, even when Ah gets back up in de big time."

Wells, although a newcomer here, is well known in the Middle West and on the Pacific Coast. It was he who spiked the knockout string of Hank Hankinson, boxing the towering Californian to a spectacular draw in a major upset.

The preliminary card of the all-colored show will offer an eight-round semi-final, two six-round preliminaries and a four-round curtain-raiser.

In the semi-final Phil Johnson, 23-year-old knockout conqueror of Reds Barry, will meet Bob Mitchell. In the sixes, Meyer Rowan will engage Johnny Johnson and Sammy Williams will meet Johnny Freeman. Sammy Blackburn will box Kid Howie in the inaugural.

Post Predictions.

Main event—George Godfrey, Leiperville, Pa., vs. Billy Wells, California, heavyweights; 10 rounds. Rated C. Godfrey should be able to step high, wide and handsome. Always a good boxer and nice puncher, he may yet cause trouble to the best if he is in any kind of condition. He has been working hard for this bout and, despite a tendency toward corpulency, probably is in good condition. He should stop Wells within five rounds.

Washington's 6-1

Hunt Defeats McCue, 6-0, 6-0, 6-4, for Middle-Atlantic Net Title

Service Ace No Match For Rival

By John R. Vosburgh.

Gilbert Hunt, Washington's 19-year-old former National ranking player, breezed through three straight sets yesterday with Lieut. John K. McCue, of Annapolis, in the final round of the Middle Atlantic tennis championships to win the title and a first leg on the new Washington Post Challenge Bowl, 6—0, 6—0, 6—4.

A gallery of several hundred attended the match at the Edgemoor Club only to see Hunt win in a walk. McCue obviously was feeling the effects of his strenuous drive to the finals in which he played 105 games Saturday and Sunday. At his best, however, McCue would hardly have been able to halt the masterly stroking of the former No. 2 National junior and intercollegiate ranking player.

Hunt made 23 placements in the 22 games and 41 errors as compared with McCue's 67 errors and 10 placements. The Naval officer, generally an accurate marksman, was unable to control his shots to any degree. Shortly after the start of the match, he was puffing badly and appeared to lack the strength to bring his drives or volleys inside the lines.

Wins 16 Games.

Hunt raced 16 straight games before McCue took one. Then the stocky officer made it three in a row, after trailing, 0—4, in the last set. For this interval McCue displayed some of the power which carried him to successive victories over such strong players as Stan McCaskey, Edward O. Mather, Dooley Mitchell and Frank Goeltz, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., the latter all seeded players.

He went to 30-love in the next game, only 2 points from deadlocking the set, but the pace Hunt was setting was too fast and he slammed four shots outside to lose the game. In the last game Hunt drove outside and netted a shot, to go love-30. A placement by McCue made it 15—40 shortly afterward, but Gilbert volleyed for a placement and McCue drove outside on the next two shots for the match.

McCue was as puzzled as the spectators at his own relapse. He muttered often to himself in perplexity and finally, with the start of the last set, called for his eyeglasses. At another time he asked the net to be measured. Often he exclaimed good-humoredly to himself, "How about a break?" as Hunt raced through one game after another.

At one stretch in the first set Hunt ran off 13 straight points, from the finish of the second game, through the third and fourth and into the fifth. Later he hit another stretch during which he scored 10 straight more.

After the match, A. L. Leech, donor of the Leech Cup and former treasurer of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, presented Hunt with the Post Challenge Bowl. Leech congratulated The Post on donating the handsome trophy and in congratulating Hunt on winning it, told him he probably would keep an eye on it closely for the next two years. It must be won three years to be retired.

Hunt will also go to the national championships at Forest Hills at the expense of the Edgemoor Club and the Middle Atlantic Lawn Tennis Association. He also received a military set and electric razor from the club, while McCue, the runner-up, received a wristwatch.

Scenes as 19-Year-Old Gilbert Hunt Defeated Veteran Naval Tennis Player

This Morning . . .

With Shirley Povich.

New York, Aug. 10.

The Joe Louis-Jack Sharkey fisticuffs, scheduled for 15 rounds or less, at Yankee Stadium one week from tomorrow night, is beginning to make talk here. Two months ago, before Max Schmeling discovered that the Detroit Negro could be hit with a right hand, mention of a Louis-Sharkey match would only make laughter, but now its beginning to catch on.

POVICH.

Sharkey was always the one to take himself seriously no matter what the score might be, and in this case it is the unpredictable Sharkey, not Louis, who is providing the ballyhoo for the August 18 battle. The former gob, who shamelessly came out of hiding after Schmeling punctured the Joe Louis myth, threatens to overshadow Louis as the drawing card of the fight.

In his every interview, Sharkey still prates about his self-admitted ability to beat any black man, and harks back to his conquest of Harry Wills, 11 years ago, when Jack Dempsey was busily ducking the black menace of that time only because the New York Boxing Commission would not permit Tex Rickard to stage a mixed bout for the world's heavyweight championship.

Sharkey did beat Wills, you remember; beat him on a foul late in the bout after outpointing him from the outset. He didn't beat much of a fighter, though, because Wills was wasting away those half-dozen years he tried to entice Dempsey into the same ring with him. But Sharkey beat the fighter that Dempsey wouldn't fight, and that was sufficient to catapult him into championship contention.

It was after that Wills affair that Sharkey confounded the prize-ring industry by declaring that he had won the fight at the weighing-in ceremony when he put a hypnotic eye on the black man. Sharkey did stare Wills down in their prefight meeting, you remember, and insisted that it was the fear that he said he instilled in the black man at that time that won the fight for him.

And now, the incurable Sharkey is announcing that he will give Louis the same treatment—the old Sharkey eye that has such profound psychological effects. Nobody believes that foolishness except Sharkey, if he, indeed, believes it himself, but his statements are finding their way into print and the ballyhoo for the battle is truly on.

As the August 18 engagement nears, it is no longer a question of "How good is Joe Louis?" but "How good is Jack Sharkey?" And echo answers, "Who can tell?"

Because Sharkey's fights are as unpredictable as the effects of bootleg liquor. Just when it seemed that Sharkey was going to knock out Jack Dempsey, he was knocked out himself. Just when it appeared that he was going to knock out Max Schmeling, he lost the title on a foul.

Just as he apparently lost to Schmeling in a return bout, he was awarded the decision, and just as he looked to have a soft touch in Primo Carnera, he got himself knocked out.

Sharkey has been public enigma No. 1 of the prize ring in his time, and he enters the Louis fight with the same rating. Nobody can quite tell where he stands or how he figures.

He's ten years older than was the Sharkey who for seven rounds was a better man than Dempsey. In 1926, the former gob looked like the sure-fire article. He could box; he had speed and footwork, and he could hit. Gene Tunney never did want any part of him, even after the Dempsey knockout, and there was plenty of reason. Sharkey probably would have beaten Tunney.

Anyway, when Tunney reserved the right to name his opponent for his farewell fight, he selected not Sharkey but ancient Tom Heeney, who was made to order for Tunney's type of boxing and was further victimized by the educated thumb that Tunney kept in his eye for 11 rounds.

So Sharkey comes back to the prize-ring wars against Joe Louis, a man against whom he would have been a 1,000-to-1 shot two months ago. But things have happened since then. Louis has been knocked out and Sharkey has been popping off about his natural ability to beat any black man. Somehow the guy makes you believe it. And then you suddenly remember you can't trust him in a prize fight any farther than you could throw the Commerce Department Building. You can have him.

Pro-Amateur To Beavers, Tredor

Scoring six birdies and an eagle, Al Treder, sphinx-like Manor professional, and his simon-pure partner, Tom Beavers, club president, reeled off a sensational best ball of 63 yesterday at Manor's course to win top honors in the Middle Atlantic P. G. A. pro-amateur tournament.

Outstripping a field of 32 teams assembled from Maryland, Virginia and the District, Treder and Beavers fired a 31 on the outgoing nine, and played the incoming side in 32.

They were seven under par for the 18 holes. Their 63 was one of the lowest scores in the history of a pro-amateur event in the District.

Two other combinations tied for second prize. They were Wiffy Cox, Kenwood professional, and his ace amateur, Bernie Hallock, who scored 34-30—64, and Al Treder and Jack McBride, of Manor, with 32-32—64.

Barney Welsh Beaten In Singles Play at Rye

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP).—Barney Welsh, of Rockville, Md., national public parks champion, was eliminated in the second round of the Eastern States grass courts tennis championships here today by S. E. Davenport 3d, of Forest Hills, N. Y., 6—0, 7—9, 6—2.

According to information from Rockville, Welsh had expressed doubt to his family in letters as to whether he would compete in the tournament, due to a badly wrenched arm which has been bothering him for a month. The arm has not responded to treatment as expected.

Furr Conceded Edge in Fight With Portney

Pair Meet in Baltimore Tonight; D. C. Battler Has Much at Stake.

The largest crowd to invade Baltimore since the days when Marty Gallagher was on the way up in 1927 is expected to flock from Washington to the Oriole City tomorrow night to see District Welterweight Champion Phil Furr swap swats with Jack Portney in Oriole Park.

The bout, scheduled for 12 rounds, is slated for the welterweight championship of the South. The winner will receive a diamond-studded belt from the Ring Magazine, a semiofficial publication.

Inches taller and boasting the longer reach and greater punch, Furr generally is conceded a good chance of upsetting the third-ranking 147-pounder. Especially do his handlers feel he has a chance since he will be working with 5-ounce gloves instead of the 8-ounce mittens required by law here.

Supporting numbers will bring together George Holmes, Washington bantamweight, against Ray Tucker in an eight-round semifinal. In six-rounders, Jackie Carter will meet Calvin Carp and Lawrence Gunn will tackle Jimmy Leto. One other six-rounder will complete the card.

For the convenience of those wishing to purchase tickets here, they may be obtained at Goldie Ahearn's, Ninth and E streets.

Millers, Brewers Open Title Series

Humbled seven times in seven games with the Heurich Brewers this season, the Miller Furniture nine will make still another effort to shake off its jinx this afternoon at 5 o'clock on the West Ellipse where it tangles with the Brewers in the first of a five-game series for the Industrial League championship.

Lefty Stevens, southpaw ace whose hurling was an important factor in the team's successful second half flag race, will toe the mound for the Millers. Henry Gichner, veteran catcher, will be behind the plate. Either Bob Lyons, another southpaw, or Leon Riley will hurl for the Brewers. Roy Clark, Tommy Nolan, Ed Cinotti, Lyman McAboy, Carl and Fred Wahler and Bernie Sugrue are a few of the stars who will help carry the Miller banner this afternoon.

Wheat Declines With Break At Winnipeg

Government Estimate Is Made Public After Market Close.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—More than 3 cents Winnipeg wheat price break to under $1.00, disregarding Canadian government confirmation of big crop losses, jolted Chicago grain values downward today.

Disappointing action of the Liverpool wheat market preceded the Winnipeg weakness. Meanwhile, most Chicago traders were inclined to mark time while awaiting the United States Government crop report which was due after today's dealings had ended, and which proved to be sensationally bullish as to corn in particular.

The Chicago wheat market closed weak at virtually the day's bottom level, September, 1.10½@1.10⅝; December, 1.10⅝@1.10½; May, 1.10⅛@1.10¼; corn ⅝ to 1⅝ down; September, 1.03¼@1.03⅜; December, 92⅝@92¾; May, 89⅛@89¼; oats unchanged to ⅜ lower; December, 42¾@42⅞, and rye ⅝ to 1¼ off, December 77¾. In provisions, the results varied from 7 cents decline to an advance of 2 cents.

Retail Advertising Gains 7 Per Cent

Chicago, Aug. 10.—For the week ended August 1, the total advertising placed by retailers in the newspapers of 66 major cities was 13,962,564 lines, compared with 13,044,974 lines placed during the corresponding week of 1935. This is an increase of 7 per cent, Advertising Age reports.

The week which ended August 1 was the twenty-third consecutive week during which 1936 retail advertising has exceeded 1935. Thus far this year total volume of retail advertising in the reporting cities has been 504,019,770 lines, compared with 478,452,647 lines last year, an increase of 5.3 per cent.

Acacia Convention Is Now Under Way

The dedication convention of the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co. was inaugurated with the branch managers' meeting yesterday and will close Friday. The highlight will come tomorrow night, when the new home office building of Acacia will be dedicated.

WILLIAM MONTGOMERY.

The agents convention opens tomorrow with registration, sightseeing and a luncheon for active members of the William Montgomery Quality Club. Thursday and Friday, educational conferences and discussions will be held in the auditorium of the Acacia Building.

Several thousand persons are expected to attend the dedication exercises tomorrow night. The building will be dedicated by J. Balch Moor, superintendent of insurance for the District of Columbia, and the trust will be accepted by President William Montgomery. Dr. Bernard Braskamp, of the Gunton Temple Memorial Presbyterian Church, will ask the invocation, and the dedicatory prayer will be offered by Dr. Thomas E. Green, of the American Red Cross. The ceremonies will be presided over by President Montgomery.

Chicago Airport Sets New Travel Record

Chicago, Aug. 10 (AP).—A new record for air travel from the Chicago Municipal Airport was set in July when 13,376 passengers departed on the seven air lines using its facilities, Edward J. Eidson, manager of the airport consolidated ticket office, announced today.

The traffic for the 31-day period was 29 per cent greater than that of July, 1935, when 10,381 passengers departed.

Kelvinator Shipments.

Detroit, Aug. 10.—July shipments of Kelvinator commercial refrigeration were 4,261 units, or an increase of 54 per cent over shipments for the corresponding month in 1935.

Average Profit In Food Chains Is 0.6 Per Cent

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 10.—According to a report issued today by the Bureau of Business research of the Harvard Business School, the average food chain in 1934 paid 76 per cent of sales for the net cost of goods sold, incurred total operating expenses amounting to 23.4 per cent of sales, and earned a net profit from merchandising operations of 0.6 per cent of sales.

These figures summarize the combined experiences of 66 chains operating more than 21,000 stores and doing a total business in 1934 of more than $960,000,000. After considering all income, and without any charge for interest on owned capital, the chains showed a net business profit amounting to 2.2 per cent of sales and 9.6 per cent of net worth. Of the 23.4 per cent of sales which went for operating expenses, more than half (12.6 per cent) was absorbed by salaries and wages, 5 per cent went for occupancy and related expenses, while other items absorbed 5.8 per cent.

The study includes data on the relative margins and expenses for handling both groceries and meats. The figures show that total store expenses for grocery operations averaged about 13 per cent of sales, while for meat operations the corresponding figure was 22½ per cent of sales, according to the available figures.

Grocery Profits.

Both grocery operations and meat operations typically showed a profit over and above store expense and before considering central office expense, but the net store profit on grocery operations was almost twice as large in percentage of sales as the profit on meat operations.

The Harvard figures show that store expense for the several types of chain covered typically amounted to about 70 per cent of total expense, the remaining 30 per cent being absorbed by expenditures for administration, general corporate purposes, warehousing and the transportation of merchandise from warehouses to stores. This 30 per cent of the total outlay represents the cost of performing functions roughly comparable to those performed by the wholesaler in the wholesaler-retail channel of distribution, but the central office function for the chains includes costs for advertising, transportation of goods to stores, supervision of stores, taxes on stores and other costs not borne by wholesalers as a rule. As a percentage of sales, costs for these functions amounted to 6 per cent to 7.5 per cent.

Standard Power Output.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Electric output of the public utility operating companies in the Standard Gas & Electric Co. system for the week ended August 1 totaled 99,160,612 kilowatt-hours, an increase of 13.3 per cent compared with the corresponding week last year.

Stocks Meet Profit-Taking in Less Active Trading; Copper Shares Advance.

New York, Aug. 10.—Stocks proceeded to higher prices in moderate trading and then were neglected by many of their recently acquired friends. As a result profit-taking in smaller dealings stopped the advance in the afternoon. Bonds were steady. Treasury issues reaching new high prices with less anxiety over the probable effects of the higher bank reserve requirements that take effect on August 15. Commodities were chilled by the cotton report and the rains in the West. September wheat closed 1⅝ cents lower at 110⅝ cents a bushel.

In stocks, the railroad share advance struck either some tired buyers or some cautious ones, for profit taking met the market and the majority of rails, on reduced volume, sagged fractionally. Union Pacific gave up most of an early gain of 2 points. Great Northern and Northern Pacific were firm. Public utilities also worked fractionally lower, although Telephone was strong.

Oil shares were steady. Motors were easier, in spite of the good report on July sales made after the close of the market Saturday by General Motors. Steel shares were irregular. United States Steel reported a gain in shipments last month, but this week's operating rate will be lower than that of last week. Bethlehem was strong and Steel common was firm.

Coppers Advance.

Most of the speculative interest turned to the farm implement, the copper and the railroad equipment shares. Case led the farmers with a jump of half a dozen points. Harvester and Deere moved up 1 to 2 points. Kennecott was the feature of the copper group, on newly cultivated hopes of an increase in the domestic price for copper. Anaconda rose and most of the group sold at new high prices.

Railroad equipment stocks enjoyed the greatest activity they have had in a long time. Many of them ran up a point or more. Pullman was a favorite, climbing 2 points. Steel Foundries and Westinghouse Air Brake were prominent. The movement in that group was a natural sequence to the buying of the railroad shares, that demand being based on the excellent earnings made in recent months and the lively expectation of still better revenues to be shown for last month.

General Electric.

Electrical equipment shares continued to rise into new high ground. Westinghouse added 2 points and General Electric looked over a new top, the highest in five years. Fertilizer shares were active with the farm machinery. Worthington Pump was active at the start, helped by a good earning report. McKeesport improved, as did American Can and Continental Can. On the other side, Hazel Atlas Glass dropped 4 points to a new low price.

In the foreign exchange markets prompt steps apparently were taken to stop the incipient landslide of gold from Paris, and the French franc moved up a trifle to slightly above the price at which gold shipments profitably can be made. If no appreciable amount of gold comes in the next few weeks, the cut in bank excess reserves after the higher reserve requirements go into effect—at the end of the week—will be all the larger.

Trade Position.

Statistically the week-end news indicated a slight recession in the business pace, but far much less than usual. The steel industry this week, according to the American Iron & Steel Institute, will operate at 70 per cent of capacity, compared with 71.4 per cent last week and 48 per cent a year ago. Not only is the current rate unusually high for the season, but the trade looks for that to be the average during the remainder of the month, which would give steel the best eight months it has had since the depression.

Sales of motor cars in the meantime are slackening a little, partly because much of the bonus money has been spent and partly because new models are under preparation. In that connection and with reference to the remainder of our current advance in business, the words of President Sloan, of General Motors, are worth considering. Mr. Sloan has no reason for being a pessimist, now that his company is in the midst of plenty, but he is realist enough to recognize the fact that synthetic prosperity is unlikely to be as durable as that of a more natural origin.

Sloan's Warning.

Some would point to Mr. Sloan's warning as admission that the New Dealers have been responsible for the upturn in industry. Mr. Sloan refers in the main to the motor trade, which has sold to the recipient of Government money, and while that may be true of some other quick consumption industries, a great deal of evidence exists to indicate that we have had a genuine and natural improvement since the bottom of the depression was reached. It is being carried along principally by the growing urgency of replacement of worn out and obsolete goods and by the fact that consumption at long last is eating heavily into surplus left over from the years of high production. Our prosperity isn't so widespread as it seems, but recovery has gone much beyond the point at which the heavy Federal relief and boondoggle expenditures are at all justified.

Interest Rates.

The downward trend of interest rates appears to have been halted last month, according to the report of the Federal Reserve Board contained in its monthly bulletin. The average rate charged customers by banks sank to a new record low level in leading Southern and Western cities, falling from 4.39 per cent to 4.35 per cent, but the rate in New York was stationary at 2.44 per cent. In other Northern and Eastern cities it advanced from 3.51 per cent to 3.61 per cent—the highest since February. It probably will be a long time before bank customers ever will be able again to borrow money so cheaply from private sources.

Questionnaires.

The weekly reminder of reports due from Stock Exchange members, in the exchange's bulletin, includes statements on discretionary transactions, registration fee and transactions for foreigners, due today; form III (transactions for members' account), joint accounts and options, due Friday. A new profession of expert on reports to the exchange might develop from the experience with the 14 periodical statements required.

Steel.

The good-sized gain in tonnage shipped by the United States Steel Corporation in July was suggested by the activity reported for the industry during the period, and appeared to have no special effect on the market. Little comment had been made on the report in advance, contrary to Wall Street's experience, and consequently the report for once was news.

U. S. Income Up Ten Billions In Three Years

New York, Aug. 10.—The national income produced in the United States, after declining from the recovery peak of $5,396,000,000 in October last year to $4,410,000,000 in February this year, has subsequently shown a steady upward movement, rising to $4,965,000,000 in June, 1936, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute.

The national income in June was 23.3 per cent larger than in the same month last year when it amounted to $4,027,000,000. It was 92.5 per cent higher than the depression's low of $2,579,000,000 in February, 1933.

For the first six months the national income amounted to $28,134,000,000 this year as against $24,550,000,000 last year, an increase of 14.6 per cent. During the first half of 1933, when the national income for the first six months was at the low for the depression, the income amounted to $18,305,000,000.

The national income during the first half of 1936 was consequently greater by $9,829,000,000 or by 53.7 per cent than at the low for the depression.

Curb Irregular; Trend Is Lower

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—A scattering of issues managed to put forth good gains in the curb market today against a general background of rather ragged price trends. Great Atlantic & Pacific advanced nearly 3 points to 121, Northern States Power "A" was ahead about 2 at 33⅞ and gains of a point or so were listed for Newmont at 88, Pittsburgh Plate Glass at 135 and Reed Roller Bit at 28½. Southern New England Telephone lifted 16 points to 155½ on an odd-lot sale.

Unchanged to fractionally lower were such trading vehicles as Niagara Hudson at 16¾, United Light & Power "A" 7⅞, United Gas at 7¼, Creole at 23⅛, Gulf Oil at 90, American Light & Traction at 24⅜, American Gas & Electric at 46¾, Cities Service at 4⅜, Cord at 4½ and Electric Bond & Share at 24¾. Sales aggregated 298,000 shares compared with 344,000 shares last Friday.

Land Bank Assets Now 48% Liquidated

Gross assets of the 43 operating joint stock land banks now in liquidation have been reduced from $489,499,000 on May 1, 1933, to $254,097,000 on June 30, 1936, or 48 per cent, says a statement issued yesterday by the Farm Credit Administration.

These banks have been in liquidation since the enactment of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Credit act which prohibited them from issuing tax exempt bonds or making any loans except as necessary and incidental to the refinancing of existing loans.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 10.—Stocks of copper have been large and prices depressed but there has been a marked improvement this year in both prices and shipments. While the 9½ cents quoted for export copper is far below the days when copper sold at 20 cents, it is almost double the price in 1932.

Cotton Breaks On Yield Figures

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Cotton was lower today under heavy liquidation following the unexpectedly high Government crop figures Saturday. After selling off to 11.69 early, December rallied to 11.80, but later broke to 11.66 and closed at 11.71. The general market ended steady at net declines of 26 to 31 points.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was easier today under renewed liquidation promoted by the bearish cotton report along with the setback in lard and grains. Final prices were 6 to 11 points net lower. Sales 66 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal: September closed, 9.91; October, 9.93; December and January, 9.81; March, 9.87.

Steel Operations Dip to 70 Per Cent

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Operations in the steel industry for the current week declined 1.4 points to 70 per cent of capacity compared with 71.4 last week, the American Iron & Steel Institute estimated today.

A month ago operations averaged 69 per cent of capacity while a year ago the rate was 48.1 per cent.

Manufacturing Output Reaches Six-Year Peak

Cotton Textile Activity a Feature, Says Federal Report.

By the Associated Press.

With manufacturing production placed at the highest point since the spring of 1930, the Commerce Department reported yesterday that business activity was continuing without suffering from the usual summer slackening.

With the years 1923-25 taken as 100, the department's seasonally adjusted index of manufacturing advanced 3 points in June to 104. A further rise, the department said, was indicated for July.

The steel industry was described as "unusually active" last month, with electrical equipment, machinery and building supply industries also gaining.

Automobile production dropped off last month, but the department said that "the active market for both passenger and commercial cars has held production to a high level, consideration being given to the lateness of the season."

The report said that the highlight in consumer goods industries this summer had been in cotton textiles where rapidly mounting sales prevented the usual seasonal decline. Rayon output has been maintained near capacity levels, it was said, but the silk goods output remained low.

The drought was described as the "principal adverse factor in the present situation, aside from the continuing large volume of unemployment."

"For the present," the department said, "the major effects of this development are seen in rapidly mounting prices of numerous farm products, a movement which has been accompanied by rising prices of food at retail."

Railroad Employment.

The Interstate Commerce Commission reported yesterday that on July 15 class 1 railroads had a total of 1,084,836 employes, an increase of .74 per cent over June and 6.92 per cent over July, 1935.

Chemicals Lead Stock Advances Of Industrials

Equipment, Silver and Food Shares Follow in Order.

New York, Aug. 10.—Registering a gain of 6.30 points for the week ended August 7, the average price of a group of five leading chemical stocks showed the largest increases of 19 industrial groups, according to a weekly compilation of 19 industrial group averages by Wycoff Associates, which shows that during the week 12 of the groups gained in prices, while six decreased and one, gold stocks, remained unchanged.

Farm equipment stocks made the second best gain in average price for the week, increasing 4.20, following a decrease of 3.62 in the preceding week, and were followed by railroad equipment stocks which rose 1.58, silver stocks, 1.17, and food and building stocks each of which groups gained 1.10. Small gains were made by the aviation, copper motor, oil, retail trade, and sugar groups.

Alcohol stocks, which in the preceding week rose 2.65, decreased 1.37, the largest loss for any group during the week, and were followed by the stocks of a group of four leading rubber companies with a loss of 1.31. Minor losses were shown by the motor accessory, office equipment, steel and tobacco groups.

On the Air Today

During the vacation absence of John Heiney, Post Radio Editor, his column will be conducted by various Washington radio personalities. Today's guest columnist is Madeline Ensign, program manager, WOL.

Well, sir, this is a treat!

Lots of water has flowed under the well-known bridge since this gal batted out copy for a radio column. Of course, there have been attempts to "plant" bits of news from WOL in the various papers—but no such generous offer has been made as John Heiney's over the phone when he said, "Maddy, three whole days are yours to write what you will." Eureka!

Somehow I feel like a bump on a log. Small wonder. It's difficult to divorce my thoughts from the radio situation when I reviewed it back in '28 up to about '33. (Or, does that give away my age?)

The scene certainly has changed. Peggy Clarke was program manager of WOL—dear old Peggy—who told the housewives how to raise children betimes.

Don Craig and I were constantly falling over each other's feet in Vince Callahan's luxurious N. B. C. offices . . . I never passed up an invitation to lunch with Vince at the Press Club—those Peach Melbas are divine. Art Godfrey was getting WRC in dutch for saying the same things that make WJSV's cash register ring so loudly . . . Bill Abernathy, now head of his own advertising business, was leading a society band and doing lots of commercials—Jimmy Wilkenson, after identifying himself as an announcer, burst forth as a glorious barytone, starring with Marguerite Cromwell. We've lost track of Jimmy somehow. Herluf Provenson was N. B. C.'s presidential announcer.

In the days before Columbia took over WJSV, Bob Trout, the love, was ironing out his kinks on the mikes over in Alexandria, working day and night writing copy and improving his technique. He was let out of old WJSV, you know, because "he never would make an announcer"—and it took Ted Church and the C. B. S.-supervised WJSV to give Bob the opportunity which eventually brought him recognition as "tops" in the ad-libbing field.

Still looking back to that never-to-be-forgotten era WOL—in its own quiet little way was carving a niche in the affections of the listeners. Network stations were scoffing at the use of "phonograph records," Le Roy Mark used to say—"the folks would rather listen to a good record than poor talent" . . . and he bought up every record he could lay his hands on, little knowing that within the decade electrical transcriptions would be the watchword of the broadcasting world and that the networks, which vowed they never would condone the broadcasting of mechanical music, would ultimately foster and produce their own recorded musical libraries. Do you remember WOL's six-week broadcast of "The Trial of Vivien Ware"—with local judges, lawyers, newspaper personalities and townsfolk playing the parts in a stirring murder trial with the radio audience acting as the jury . . . there's a trick which has been tried over and over again since that magnificent success; do you remember when WOL presented Amos and Andy on records every night, long before they were appreciated to the extent of a $100,000 a year network contract for appearing in person—and the popularity poll which was called off because "you really couldn't give first place to a recorded program?" Do you remember when WOL's musical clock was the only program of its kind in Washington? . . . and how the old stations soon followed WOL's custom of announcing the time every 15 minutes? All this was back when Frank Young, now on WOL's announcing staff, was renowned as a pianist on WMAL—and people actually asked, "Do you think radio is here to stay?"

Dr. Alexander Wetmore, assistant secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, will speak tonight over Station WMAL on "The Nintieth Anniversary of the Founding of the Smithsonian." The talk will be broadcast from 10:15 to 10:30 p. m. during the weekly Washington Board of Trade time.

Be seein' you next Tuesday.

Foreign Markets.

By the Associated Press.

London, Aug. 10.—A cheerful tone prevailed in today's stock market. The motor group was firm and speculative issues were in demand. Communication and transatlantic stocks moved to higher grounds while oils, mining and gilt-edged securities remained quiet. Home rails continued to be accumulated and foreign bonds held steady.

Paris—The bourse was firm throughout the session, especially in the late dealings. Rentes showed a good demand and international shares moved irregularly.

Liverpool—After an early advance wheat futures closed about 1 penny lower on small millers' demand and an overbought market. Cotton futures closed lower. The unexpected large American crop estimate causing general liquidation and Bombay selling, which uncovered stop orders.

Foreign Exchange.

By the Associated Press.

The agreement of nine European powers to the French-sponsored neutrality pact, barring aid to either side in the Spanish civil war, lightened pressure on gold currencies yesterday.

In New York gold bloc units advanced slightly against the dollar, French francs gaining .00⅛ of a cent to 6.58⅜ cents; Swiss francs, .01 of a cent to 32.60 cents, and Holland guilders, .03 of a cent to 67.93 cents. The pound sterling eased ¼ of a cent to $5.02⅞.

The dollar moved up ¼ of a cent in London, closing at 5.02½ to the pound, compared with the overnight New York rate of 5.02⅞. In Paris the American unit closed at the equivalent of 6.585 cents to the franc against the New York overnight rate of 6.584 cents.

Steel Prices Unchanged.

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Steel prices per 100 pounds, f. o. b. Pittsburgh: Blue annealed sheets, hot rolled, 2.10; galvanized sheets, 3.20; black sheets, hot rolled, 2.50; steel bars, 1.95.

Export Clings to Lead In County Ball League

Special Dispatch to The Post

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 10.—The Old Export nine clung to its game and a half lead in the Washington County Baseball League by defeating the Cabbies, 7 to 5. The Chevies, in second place had little trouble defeating the Antietams, 15 to 1.

Hancock sustained a setback in its sensational drive of the last month, which carried it from the cellar to within a game and a half of the leaders, when Sharpsburg staged a ninth inning rally to score two runs and nose Hancock out, 6 to 5. Mount Briar won from Boonsboro, 10 to 2.

3,000 Battle to Aid Communist Refugees

Le Havre, Aug. 10 (AP).—A crowd of more than 3,000 Communists forced authorities today to intercede to keep seven deported Reds from the "perils" of Germany.

The crowd, hastily collected after the Brazilian liner Bage docked here with the seven expelled from Brazil, stormed police headquarters. They succeeded in having the deportees taken from the ship and guaranteed transportationto their native lands through Switzerland.

Auction Sales

TUESDAY, AUGUST 18, 1936——
ADAM A. WESCHLER & SON, Auctioneers.

By virtue of a deed of trust recorded in Liber No. 6848, folio 227, et seq., one of the land records of the District of Columbia, and at the request of party secured thereby, the undersigned trustees will offer for sale by public auction, in front of premises, on TUESDAY, THE EIGHTEENTH DAY OF AUGUST, 1936, AT FOUR O'CLOCK P. M., the following described property in the District of Columbia, to-wit: Lot 163 in Clarence F. Norment's subdivision of lots in Block 23, "Columbia Heights," and part of Block 16 in Todd and Brown's Subdivision of part of "Mount Pleasant" and "Pleasant Plains," as per plat of said Norment's subdivision recorded in Liber No. 44, folio 120, of the Records of the office of the surveyor of the District of Columbia. Subject to the 30-foot building restriction line on Thirteenth street, as established by proceedings in District Court Case No. 1551, in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Subject to covenants of record. Note. At the date hereof the above-described land is designated on the books of the Assessor of the District of Columbia for taxation purposes as Lot 163 in Square 2850. Subject to the right of redemption by the makers of the aforesaid deed of trust, their heirs and assigns, within a period of sixty days from the date of sale, as provided by Statutes and holidays, as provided in said deed of trust.

TERMS OF SALE—One-third of the purchase-money to be paid in cash, balance in equal installments, represented by promissory notes of purchaser payable in one and two years, with interest at 5 per cent per annum from day of sale, payable semi-annually, secured by first deed of trust upon property sold, or all cash, at option of purchaser. A deposit of $300.00 required of purchaser at sale. Examination of title, conveyancing, recording, revenue stamps and notarial fees at cost of purchaser. Terms to be complied with within ten days from expiration of redemption period, otherwise trustees reserve the right to resell property at risk and cost of defaulting purchaser, after five days advertisement of such resale in some newspaper published in Washington, D. C., or deposit may be forfeited, or without forfeiting deposit trustees may avail themselves of any legal or equitable rights against defaulting purchaser.

400 Loyalists Killed in Battle Near Zaragoza

Rebels' Advance on Madrid May Now Begin Within Next 24 Hours.

By the United Press.

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Aug. 10.—Four hundred loyalist troops were killed or wounded today in a bloody battle with rebel militia units between Huesca and Zaragoza.

The loyalist forces left much war material in the hands of the rebels, including 40 automobiles in which part of the loyalist column had traveled from Barcelona.

Merciless Attack.

These rebel victories temporarily relieved the pressure on rebel-held Zaragoza. As a result, the advance on Madrid by Gen. Emilio Mola's northern insurgents, now encamped 35 miles north of the embattled capital, may begin within the next 24 hours. The rebel victory in Zaragoza allayed fears of a loyalist rear attack on the main column of Gen. Mola's army.

Meanwhile, Red Asturian miners, supprted by government troops, staged a merciless attack with home-made dynamite bombs on Oviedo, where rebel forces have been besieged for three weeks.

The miners, using a catapult of their own invention, which hurls dynamite 500 feet, succeeded before dawn in moving the apparatus within 100 yards of the rebel-held barracks.

Scores of direct hits in rapid succession brought the barracks tumbling around the defenders in a mass of flames. Casualties were not known.

Col. Aranda, commanding the insurgents, made a dramatic appeal by wireless to Gen. Mola and Gen. Francisco Franco for help, saying his forces could not last much longer. He feared the miners would massacre him and his troops. The appeal ended there.

The miners and troops surrounded the town and cut communications with Gijon, important northern seaport, which was shelled for the fourth day in succession by government warships.

Apparently no help was forthcoming from Gen. Mola, and it was believed the rebels would be forced to surrender or face annihilation.

The Catalan column, which was defeated between Huesca and Zaragoza, had marched 150 miles across country from Barcelona. They hoisted Red flags in all towns which they occupied en route. Red ribbons adorned the muzzles of their rifles.

After 100 miles had been covered, their food and transport system broke down. They were forced to requisition food from the villagers and peasants.

This aroused the animosity of the Aragon farmers and enabled the rebels to obtain the support of hundreds who previously had taken no part in the revolution.

Among the loyalist dead were many women, dressed in the blue overall uniform of the Barcelona Popular Front. One was the wife of a Barcelona railway employe and the mother of four children.

It was reported that 300 political prisoners were executed by the Fascists, Carlists and Monarchists, three main groups of the rebel forces.

French border police reported that 28 Spanish civil guards with their families crossed the frontier near Arneguy and were disarmed. They were Basques and asked to be allowed to take up residence in France.

San Sebastian Shelled.

San Sebastian, Spain, Aug. 10 (AP).—Government defenders of San Sebastian by the Sea fought rebels today, with hunger and thirst and privation making their battle more grim.

Rebel shells smashed into the town, once the gathering place of the wealthy who sought peace and quiet, and citizens and loyalist soldiers braced to prevent Gen. Emilio Mola and his troops from breaking through to establish a prized coastal base.

Once the rebels rake a path from their northern provinces through the government-held strip along the Bay of Biscay, supplies and munitions can be taken to the rebel troops with greater ease.

There were long bread lines in San Sebastian, and there also were water and milk lines in which citizens stood for their daily portion.

Bread was distributed on a ration system free of charge. The milk supply was given only for babies.

Officials admitted water also was being rationed since part of the city's supply was cut off by the rebels.

Free Zone Invaded.

Bayonne, France, Aug. 19 (AP).—Rebel Spanish troops, it was reported here today, invaded the Franco-Spanish free zone on the frontier near Hendaye.

French authorities sent gendarmes to investigate reports that the rebels had crossed into the district near the village of Urepel and had taken a French citizen from there to Pamplona, where he was released by rebel officers.

A tiny peninsula of French territory extending into Spain was made into the free zone under a treaty in 1856. Both Spanish and French families are residents there.

Auto Law Tightened.

Boston, Aug. 10 (AP).—Massachusetts is going to make those of its automobile drivers found culpable in accidents pass fresh tests before they may drive again. Heretofore a driving test once passed entitled a license holder to automatic renewal without further examination.

Pendergast Recovering.

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Mrs. Thomas J. Pendergast today said the condition of her husband, the Democratic leader of Kansas City, was improving. Pendergast has been ill in a New York Hotel for the last month.

Developments in Spain's Civil War

Paris to U. S. to Join Pact

Spain. Portugal also insists that Soviet Russia abstain from intervention in Spain and that Spanish belligerents respect the Tangier international zone.

Blockade Imminent.

By the Associated Press.

London, Aug. 10.—An airtight blockade of Spain by neutral powers was described in authoritative quarters tonight as an immediate prospect.

This assertion followed Great Britain's third protest to belligerents in the Spanish civil conflict.

Today's protest was against the shelling of an English yacht and the death of its owner, Capt. Rupert Savile, during a rebel attack on Gijon in the Bay of Biscay.

Previous representations to both Spanish Leftists and rebels dealt with shelling of British ships in the Gibraltar straits.

The Savile incident, officials here asserted, added impetus to the drive to make effective the nine power neutrality pact with France and Britain.

Hope was expressed here that Britain, by withholding retaliatory acts, might set an example for Germany and Italy, whose nationals were killed in the Spanish strife.

The Spanish Embassy's naval attache, Capt. Manuel Medina, today called at the admiralty and expressed regret over the death of Savile.

Reich Boats Dispatched.

Berlin, Auf. 10 (AP).—Two more German torpedo boats have been dispatched to Spanish waters, it was announced here today, to speed evacuation of refugees slowed by the Madrid government's seizure of German airplanes.

The torpedo boats Kondor and Moewe will assist in evacuating the 1,400 German citizens still reported in Spain. Only 300 indicated a desire to remain.

Evacuation to Alicante hitherto had been carried forward by use of airplanes. Their seizure by the government yesterday cut off this means of transportation.

It was stated also that the North German Lloyd steamer Schleswig has been ordered to the Baleric Islands to remove other fugitives.

Italy Asks Indemnities.

Rome, Aug. 10 (AP).—The Italian government has asked Madrid for indemnities for the deaths of Italians during the Spanish insurrection as well as assurances that Italian citizens will be protected, authorized sources said today.

It was made known, also, that Italy and France are exchanging views on the application of the proposed, nine-power nonintervention accord applying to the peninsula's civil war.

These sources said the questions of nonintervention and of indemnity should be considered separately. The Mussolini government did not want to "dramatize" incidents, it was said.

The French reply to Italy's acceptance of the French hands-off proposal "in principle" has been received and is being studied.

Holy See Protests.

Vatican City, Aug. 10 (AP).—The Holy See announced today "everything possible" had been done to protest against the rise of anti-clericalism in Spain.

The Osservatore Romano said the Madrid government had been asked "to intervene" to halt this type of extremism and failing that at least publicly to declare itself "opposed to this type of violence."

Since churchmen, said the newspaper, had been "barbarously killed * * * routed out of hospitals * * * churches have been burned systematically and even tombs and sorpses profaund," the Holy See must raise its voice to protest and remonstrate.

It recalled what it called the fruitlessness of many past requests to the government for punishment of those who violated churches. The present protest has not yet been answered.

French View Tempered.

Paris, Aug. 10 (AP).—France's optimistic view of her nine-power neutrality proposal in the Spanish civil war was tempered tonight by fear rebel troops may endanger the Tangier international zone in Morocco.

Officials here asserted the Tangier governing committee already had undertaken negotiations with Gen. Francisco Franco, rebel commander, for removal of Spanish Moroccan troops posted at the entrance to the militarized zone.

The committee's attitude, it was explained, was similiar to that of France toward Italians in Ethiopia: Franco's government is not recognized officially, but circumstances compel conferences with rebel leaders controlling neighboring territory concerning guarding the borders and recognition of passports.

Soviet Raises $22,000,000.

The Soviet has raised approximately $22,000,000, to support the government of Spain, the newspaper Le Matin charged today, by selling platinum and precious stones to buy foreign currency.

The money, it said, is to be turned over by President Maunel Azana of Spain, under an agreement with the Spanish communist party, to purchase equipment for an international corps of volunteers.

Communist leaders in various ports, Le Matin asserted, have been ordered to begin recruiting seamen to reinforce the loyal part of the Spanish army.

The money was raised by the Communist Internationale, the newspaper said, toward the goal of 1,000,000,000 francs set by the Profintern, the Red Internationale of trade unions. It reported the fund was subscribed by Siviet workers and state employes.

The Soviet, it added, also ordered 40,000,000 francs from the state bank sent directly to Azana.

By the Associated Press.

Alarmed by heavy firing in the vicinity of the American Embassy, another group of Americans in Madrid made plans last night to flee the revolt-threatened Spanish capital while an avenue of escape still remained.

Approximately a score were reported to the State Department to have decided to leave for Valencia on tonight's train after warnings by the embassy that conditions in Madrid were becoming increasingly serious and that further delay in their departure might cost them a chance to gain refuge on the American heavy cruiser Quincy.

As this word reached the department yesterday, the Navy's highest officials took up with President Roosevelt the question of re-establishing an American naval squadron in European waters—presumably to be permanently available for protection of American lives in event of further disturbances there.

Discussed With President.

Admiral William H. Standley, Acting Secretary of the Navy, who called on the President with Secretary Swanson, now recuperating from a lengthy illness, said the subject was discussed with the Chief Executive but declined to go into details.

Later, Standley's aids explained that references to the re-creation of a European squadron were merely incidental and that no definite steps in this direction were contemplated for the immediate future.

The immediate decision reached, they said, was to withdraw the battleship Oklahoma and the Quincy from their present rescue operations in Spanish waters and replace them with two other vessels.

The prolonged emergency has made this necessary, it was said, because of trials and tests previously scheduled for the two ships. The Quincy was on her maiden shakedown cruise when diverted to her present duty and soon must undergo the routine builder's trials. Other tests had been projected for the Oklahoma.

Latest word from Madrid reaching the State Department yesterday was a delayed message filed by the embassy Sunday night reporting "much firing in the neighborhood of the embassy the last two nights." Eric C. Wendelin, charge d'affaires, described the situation in the capital as having become "more threatening in the last two days."

Reporting the expected return to Valencia this morning of the Quincy to pick up possible American refugees from Madrid, Wendelin said all those still in the capital—numbering approximately 200—had been urged to take advantage of the cruiser's visit and "what may be their last opportunity to be evacuated on the Quincy."

Last reports said 80 Americans had taken refuge in the embassy while the remainder were at other places in the city.

After stopping briefly at Vigo yesterday, the battleship Oklahoma lifted anchor and steamed for Cadiz, on the southern coast of Spain. This left the Coast Guard cutter Cayuga, on which Ambassador Claude G. Bowers is operating a floating American Embassy, the only American rescue vessel in northern Spanish waters.

George M. Graves, American consul at Malaga, advised the department there was a possibility the 400 foreigners in Granada, including about 20 Americans, would be evacuated to Malaga by bus and train within a day or two.

U. S. S. Drayton Proves Navy's Fastest Warship

Bath, Me., Aug. 10 (AP).—Officials of the Bath Iron Works, Inc., said today naval officers had advised them that the destroyer Drayton, launched here March 26, had been proved the fastest craft in the U. S. Navy.

The speed of the 1,500-ton craft was not made public. Officials also were told they said, the Drayton had been selected as flagship for Destroyer Division 62.
